TREASURE CHEST 1969

Jim,
I'm having some trouble!
Can you help me? You're a lot of fun even if you do harass me & I'm glad we got to be friends. Good luck & I'll see you when you're COOL Senior!

Love you,
Lisa Roberts

Jim,
Well for as little as I've known you
I have come to enjoy your friendship. Maybe we can golf at this summer. If not I hope to see you next fall.
Good luck in everything
ya do.

God Bless
Fred Harmon

Jim,
I'm really glad I met someone as sweet as you are this year. I know that next year the track team will be fabulous & I'll be backing you up in everything. Good luck in all love, Jill (football too.)

Jim,
Well, tell it's been a great year, almost as good a guy

Jim,
You've been a real pleasure to have in class.
If I hadn't given up my Senior classes maybe
I'd have gotten you again next year.
Mrs Walters

Jim,
Well even though you
pester us a lot in Spanish class, you are still a pretty good guy. Stay that way.
Have fun this summer!
Mary Thompson

Jim,
You're a pretty good ol' guy — when you're asleep. Hope you have a good summer. Be good and stay trim.
See ya next year.
Jeff

Jim, It sure has been a nice knowing such a great guy & informer this year. You've told me many times that you have made me happy and many others. But no matter what I say you'll never know how much I appreciate it. Thanks for everything. Hope you're in one of my classes next year with me. (PROBABLY LESS BRUISED)
Dan

Jim Ronson
Jim I had a great time this year. We've got to be friends this year. Jim it's a good thing I don't know what you'd be doing if you weren't in first hour
Dave

Jim,
You come thru next year in football and take state. Well, at least I hope your starting. Next year well going to be those smart ole seniors of 70.
Good Luck
Ron Agnew

Jim,
Boy, what could a person ask for, 2 classes with you in one day. And football too. Hope Uncle Jerry lets you play next year.
Good Luck,
Mike Wareing

Jim,
Wasn't Alg I class a blast this year. We had fun doing everything but math! You were one of the funniest in there. Stay cut-Ups in there.
Love,
Laya Scott
Sr. '69

Jim,
Chemistry is a real star class isn't it? I just love it. Good luck in football. We ought to have a good team, especially in the receiver department.
Jim Blalock

Jim,
Well I'm real glad I got to know ya this year. Maybe we'll be roommates next year. Be good classes together this summer + have fun.

Luck + Love
Linda Sr '70

Jim,
Well, thanks for everything. That is it it all works out. If it doesn't your dead & no not really your a great guy with a good personality! Stay the same + have fun this summer!
Love Ya + Luck
Mona Sr '70

Jim,
It was a lot of fun being in first hour with you. I'm glad to have met you this year. Good-luck in everything and may God Bless you.
Ann Bugan
SR '71

Jina, throughout the hardships of Study Hall you went through you must admit it wasn't worth it. Next year you better keep your hands + feet out from under the table because no one knows what your up to, except for the one your up too!! Good luck with the future, and if you ever need anything it's understandable cuz I always feigned you were lacking something not really your home all you need to make it.

Foreword

'It is easy, in the world, to live after the world's opinion; it is easy, in solitude, to live after your own; but the great man is he who, in the midst of the crowd, keeps . . . . . the independence of solitude.'

Emerson

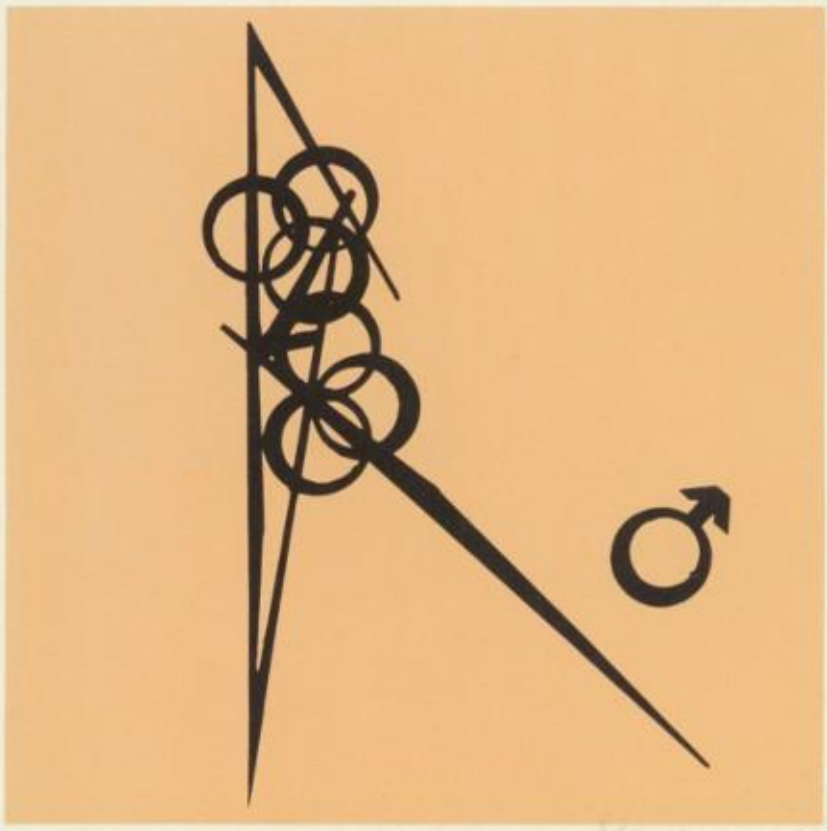
Each senior being graduated with the largest class in the history of Putnam City High School is an individual—each with thoughts, feelings, plans and hopes for the future. Each, too, is a product of a mass system of education in a nation of overpopulated cities. How does one acquire individuality within the modern frame-work of conformity?

As a child, one encounters the first influence—that of his family. Entering school, teachers, friends and environment influence him. Acting on these influences, he develops ideas, opinions, goals. Yet he may remain an individual, struggling on an individual road toward his own goal.

Individuals within Putnam City create the traditions, win the honors, fill the stands at athletic events. The new Pirate Stadium is an outcome of ideas and suggestions on the part of individuals. The change in the grading system and the expanded curriculum are the result of observations and criticisms of some and careful thought and decision on the part of others.

Individualism is inherent in America. Democracy is founded on the premise of the worth of each individual. Youths are encouraged to participate in campaigning and to form opinions on national affairs. Committees to develop individual ideas into one well-balanced decision are fundamental in our government.

Individualism remains available to all American youth in spite of participation in activities of a large high school. As each young person leaves high school, he appropriates some of the influences of his environment, friends and teachers over the past eighteen years. But he only needs to take these factors as influences—he may leave as an individual—one in himself.



CROWDED conditions and halls jammed with people shocked new-comers to Putnam City. After adjusting to the strange situation, quick 'n easy routes were established.

ALTHOUGH the Putnam City High School split cut the overall population, the largest senior class in Putnam's history only increased the parking problems. Students found it necessary to park in the practice football field and in nearby residential streets. For those students who did not drive to school, numerous buses were provided each regular day of the year.

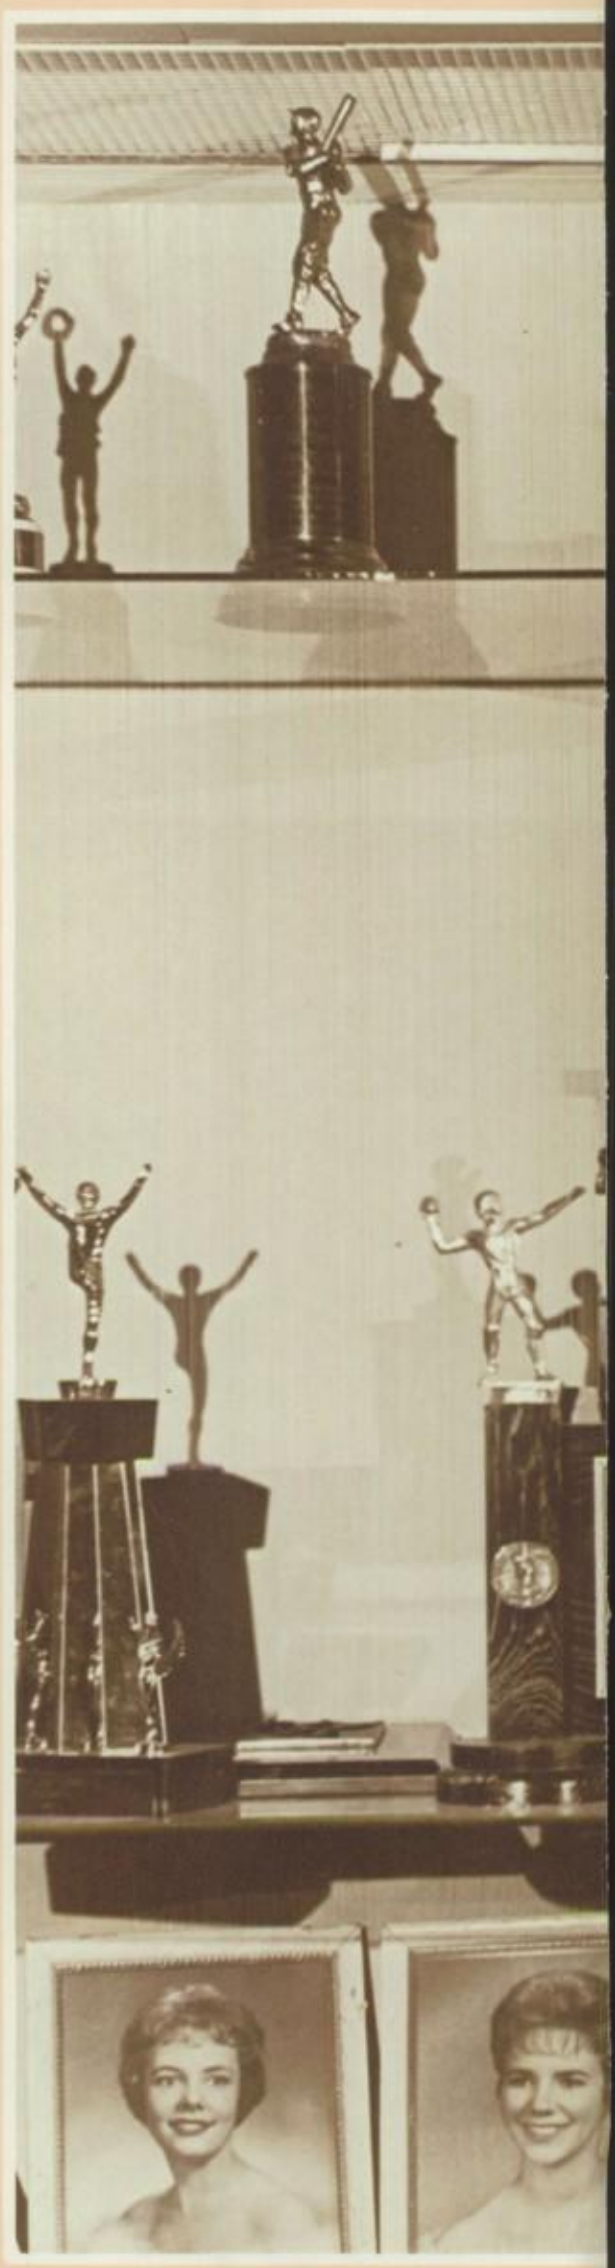
PINCURLED pledge, Catherine Bruce, carrying out the embarrassing and unmerciful orders of a member, was heckled by a supposedly innocent bystander, Mike Boydston.

CROWDED lines in the cafeteria created several problems. In the limited time allowed for the split lunch period, many Putnamites took advantage of the quick line.

PATIENT guidance on the part of Mrs. Juanita Kidd, senior counselor, enabled Mark Wilkes to do long-range planning of his schedule. Counselors were always ready to answer questions that arose from college-bound students.



INDIVIDUAL motivation in the classroom created that necessary spark of interest. Mrs. Myrtle Mullinax patiently explained to Jim Miller the proper way to adapt the slide rule to aid him in the study of composition of elements.

TROPHIES, the school's record of superior work, rewarded the efforts put forth by student leaders at Putnam excelling in academics, athletics, and activities.

HELPFUL instructions to Kathy Dunavin from Student Council officer Stephanie Smay were a welcome relief from the confusion greeting newcomers on Orientation Day.

Student Life

Homeroom slogan contest sets schoolwide

Student life is truly a mixture of being a 'student' and participation in 'life' experience. No longer is the school day merely that of the three R's'. With the explosion of knowledge there has come the opportunity for practical 'life' experiences.

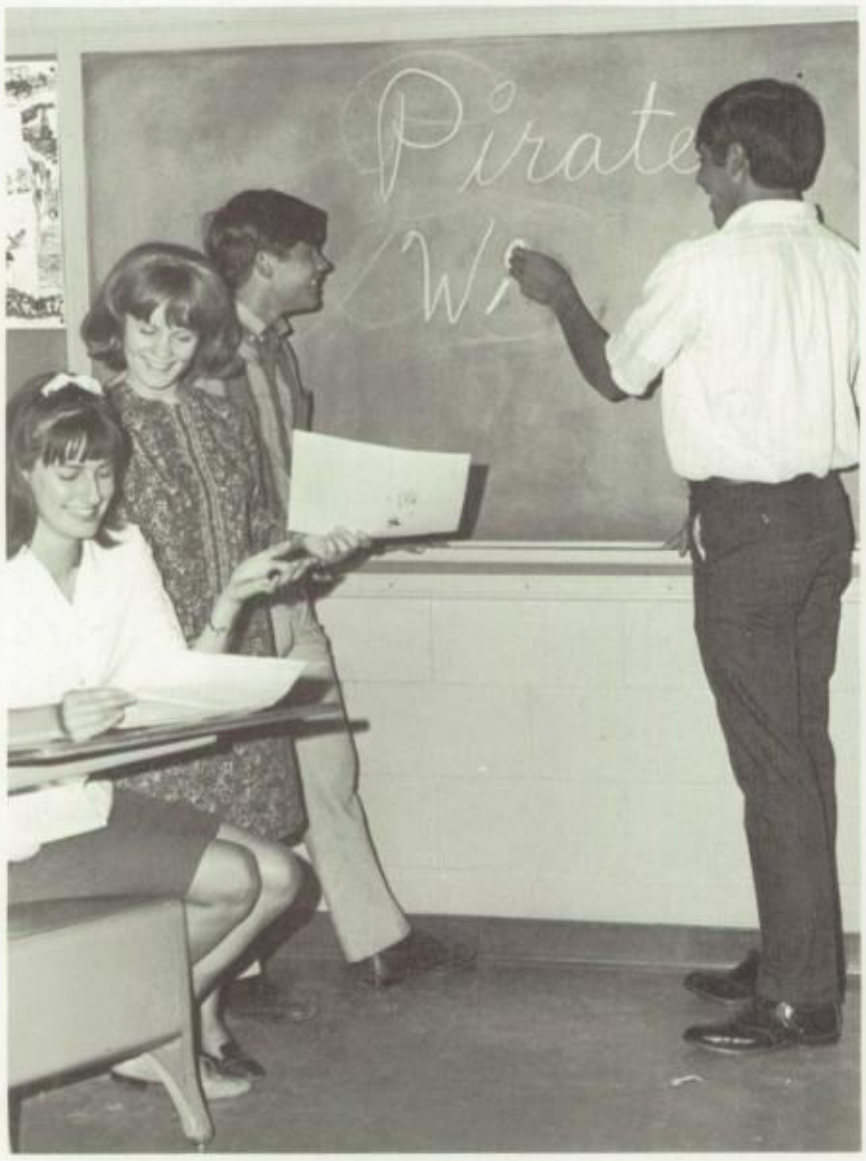
Teens are actively concerned for the needs of others—whether it be racial equality or good food for needy families—especially for the holidays.

The planned activity program of the modern high school varies from baking and selling food, which benefits a specific club, to assistance in avoiding costly maintainence of those cars that teens feel are so vital to their daily existence and survival.

Club initiations, although uncomfortable for the participant, were an opportunity for all involved to face up to embarrassing situations with dignity.

The new reference room of the library, staffed by a full time librarian and two assistants, offered opportunities to duplicate magazines, book pages and photographs to aid as reference for research papers.

HOMEROOMS boosted spirit by competing for the best slogan for every game of the season. Brainstorming a winning slogan for their homeroom were Elaine Halbrook, Debbie Longnecker, Dale Dawson and Elvin Erwin.



S-T-R-E-T-C-H-I-N-G. Susan Ferguson supported the senior class by hanging 'Can Drive' posters in Pirate Hall. Students spent long hours after school collecting and packing canned goods for needy families in the area.

competition in gear

FBLA Members, Anna Fehr and Pam Stiles, suggested items to Mr. Ron Collier as he decided which homemade sweet to buy at the bake sale.

WITH a hop, skip and jump, Nancy Finley and Becky Schumacher modeled at the Pep Club Tea the attire to be worn by neophytes on Pledge Day.

EXPANDED reference service encouraged library study when Steve Butler, Nancy Marshal, Mark Minter and Jim McGoodwin had to hit the 'ol books.

Extramural activities keep students busy

STUFFED animals are a girl's best friend and Marva Barnes seems to have found one while enjoying herself on a day out of school for the '68 fair.

Concluding six hours of mind-filling education, students emerged in numberless directions to utilize their individual methods of releasing nervous tensions. Homework was set aside without a second thought while the high school teen bombarded his favorite hangout or dashed to work.

Gathered at a local drive-in or restaurant, members of the younger generation snatched a bite to eat, then were off to Pirate Stadium for a football game or to the newest shopping areas to finish that necessary shopping. While there were those whose activities were gregarious, others preferred quiet solitude. Some felt more at ease on horseback whereas others walked hand-in-hand through the park.

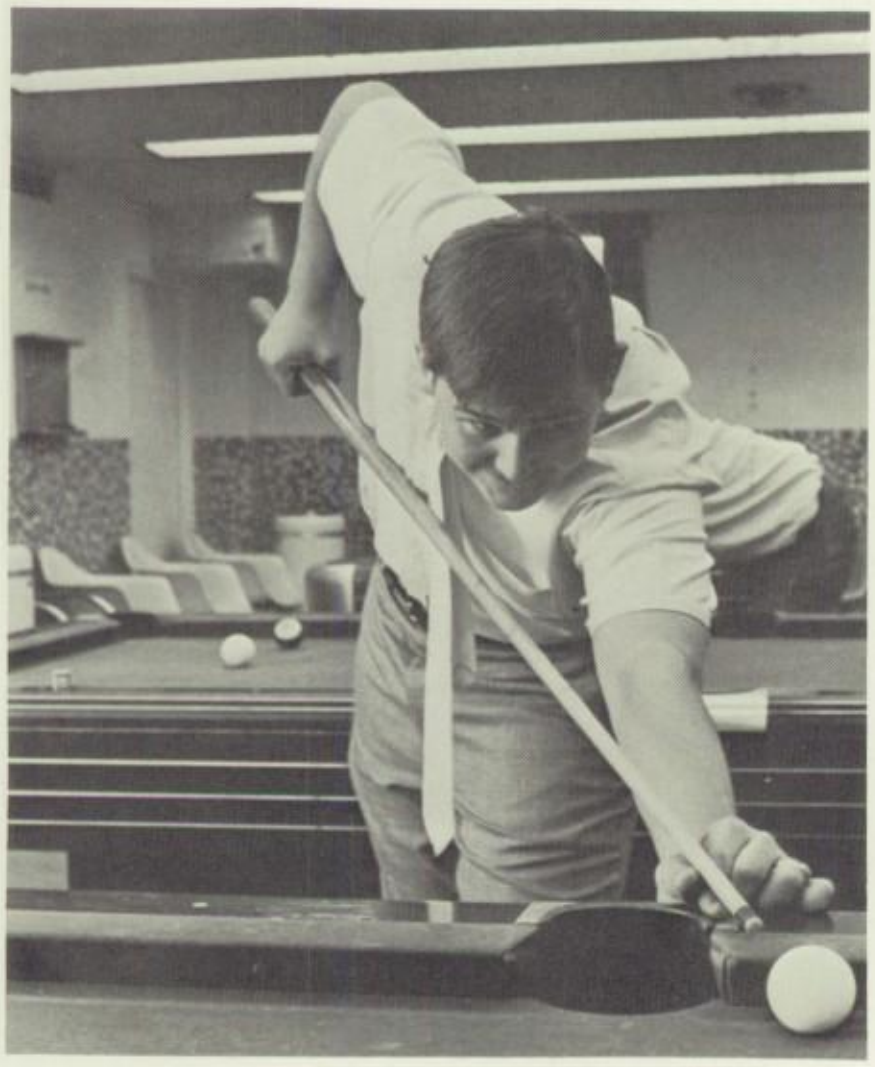
Industriously inclined students raced to clock-in at their part-time jobs. Hospital service such as candy striping or working as an orderly provided experience for possibilities in a medical career. Saving for college or that new car inspired many of those who worked.

Snowy winter days developed multitudes of snowball fights and warmly bundled youth appeared on the golf slopes with sleds in hand. Picnics and walks in the rain accompanied the coming of spring. Dressed-out for baseball, golf or track, Pirates swarmed to the scene of sports events.

ORANGE Power's birthday, celebrated the week of the Putnam City—Enid bout, gave loyal Pirates a chance to show their pride by decorating their cars. Nicole Fiolle, Janie Campbell, Kathy Malwick and Kathy Jessup helped add to the spirit, which aided the team in an 8-0 victory.

DETERMINED to snatch those extra hours of study, Paula Furgerson and Richard Morrison enjoyed reading during the autumn afternoons.

ALLEVIATING his daily frustrations, Bill Johnson, photographer, intensely studied his next shot to emerge victorious in a game of pool.



WOULD you believe September 3? Exhausting their final opportunities, Lynn Holt and Mike Fry absorbed that last portion of sun before school.

American bill of fare and traditions

ATTENDING Putnam City while their parents, who are missionary translators, were in South America and Australia, were Marilyn Grimes, Nancy McCarthus, JoAnn Girard, Betty Bahr, Patty Bahr, Neil Wilson, Steve Brewer, Rick McCarthus, Dale Dawson, John Miller, Dan Minor, Ian Wilson and Dan Ashman. Wycliffe Bible Translators spend five years with tribes to learn their tongue, and translate the Bible.

PC's foreign exchange student Ellie Oude Heuvel, showed her ability as she entertained her friends by playing Christmas carols from her native Netherlands as well as newly-learned ones from her adopted country.

satisfy Dutch tastes

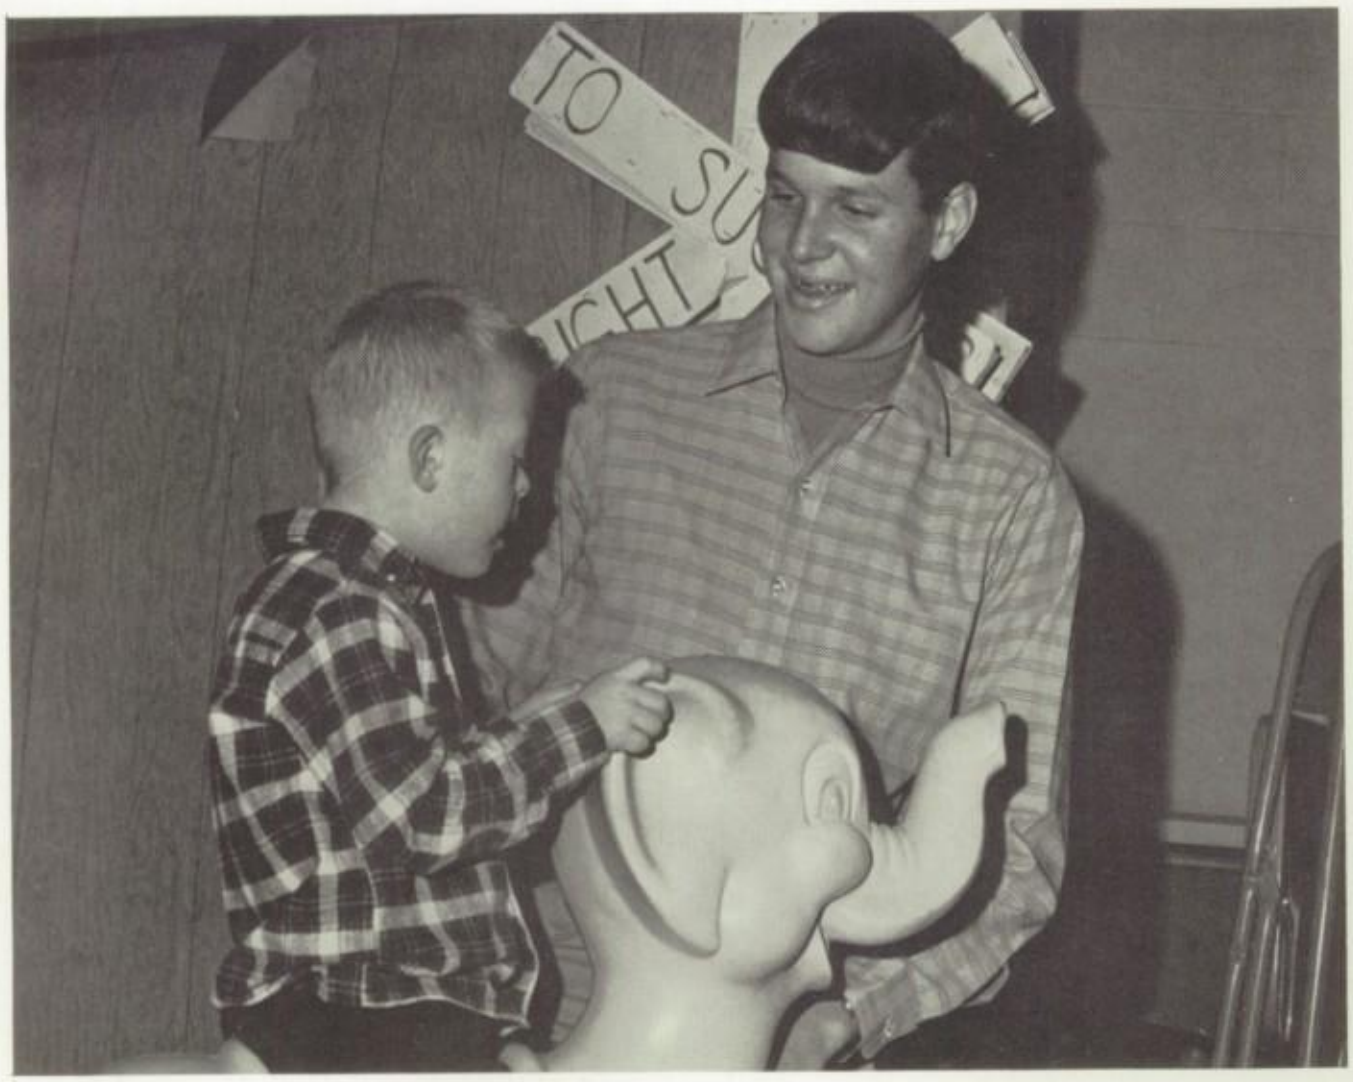
CUSTOMS and ornaments vary all over the world, but the real spirit of Christmas still remains the same. Traditions of Christmas are different in Holland, but Ellie Oude Heuvel enjoyed participating in the American way of celebrating.

HAMBURGERS, cokes and french fries comprise the 'national nourishment' of the typical American teenagers. Adopting this traditional delicacy, Ellie Oude Heuvel easily fell into the swing of things in Oklahoma with the help and encouragement of her 'American sister,' Karla Sorensen.



PUTNAM CITY student, Roger Barr, worked at the Dale Roger's Training Center in association with 'TARS', Teens Aid the Retarded. This group aids the center in entertaining the children, ranging in age from 4 to 14.

WORKER at the Lakeside Methodist Child Care Center, Gail Rhoades, aided her community by entertaining children whose mothers needed babysitting assistance.

Volunteers enlist in community services

RED Cross advanced swimming and Water Safety instructor, senior Julie Smith, gave detailed preliminary instructions to Becky Brand, senior.

DELIVERING flowers and mail at Baptist Hospital, Cathy Brand, volunteer candy striper, helped nurses with small time-consuming jobs.

ATTAINING significant experience toward his designated vocation in the ministry, Pat Worrilow and two other Putnam City boys preached during a week-long youth-led revival at Highland Hills Baptist Church.

Student Life

Pirates pursue religious beliefs and fields

WEEKLY Young Life meetings of over 100 PCHS teenagers refute the popular concept today that all youth have an apathy toward anything religious. Scott Manley replaced Jim 'Frog' Sullivan as the Putnam City chapter director.

MUTUAL interests and concern lead to serious consideration of issues vital to teens today.

TRADITIONAL Christmas decor lends atmosphere to the Christmas Story.

Talent, intelligence win honors for sec

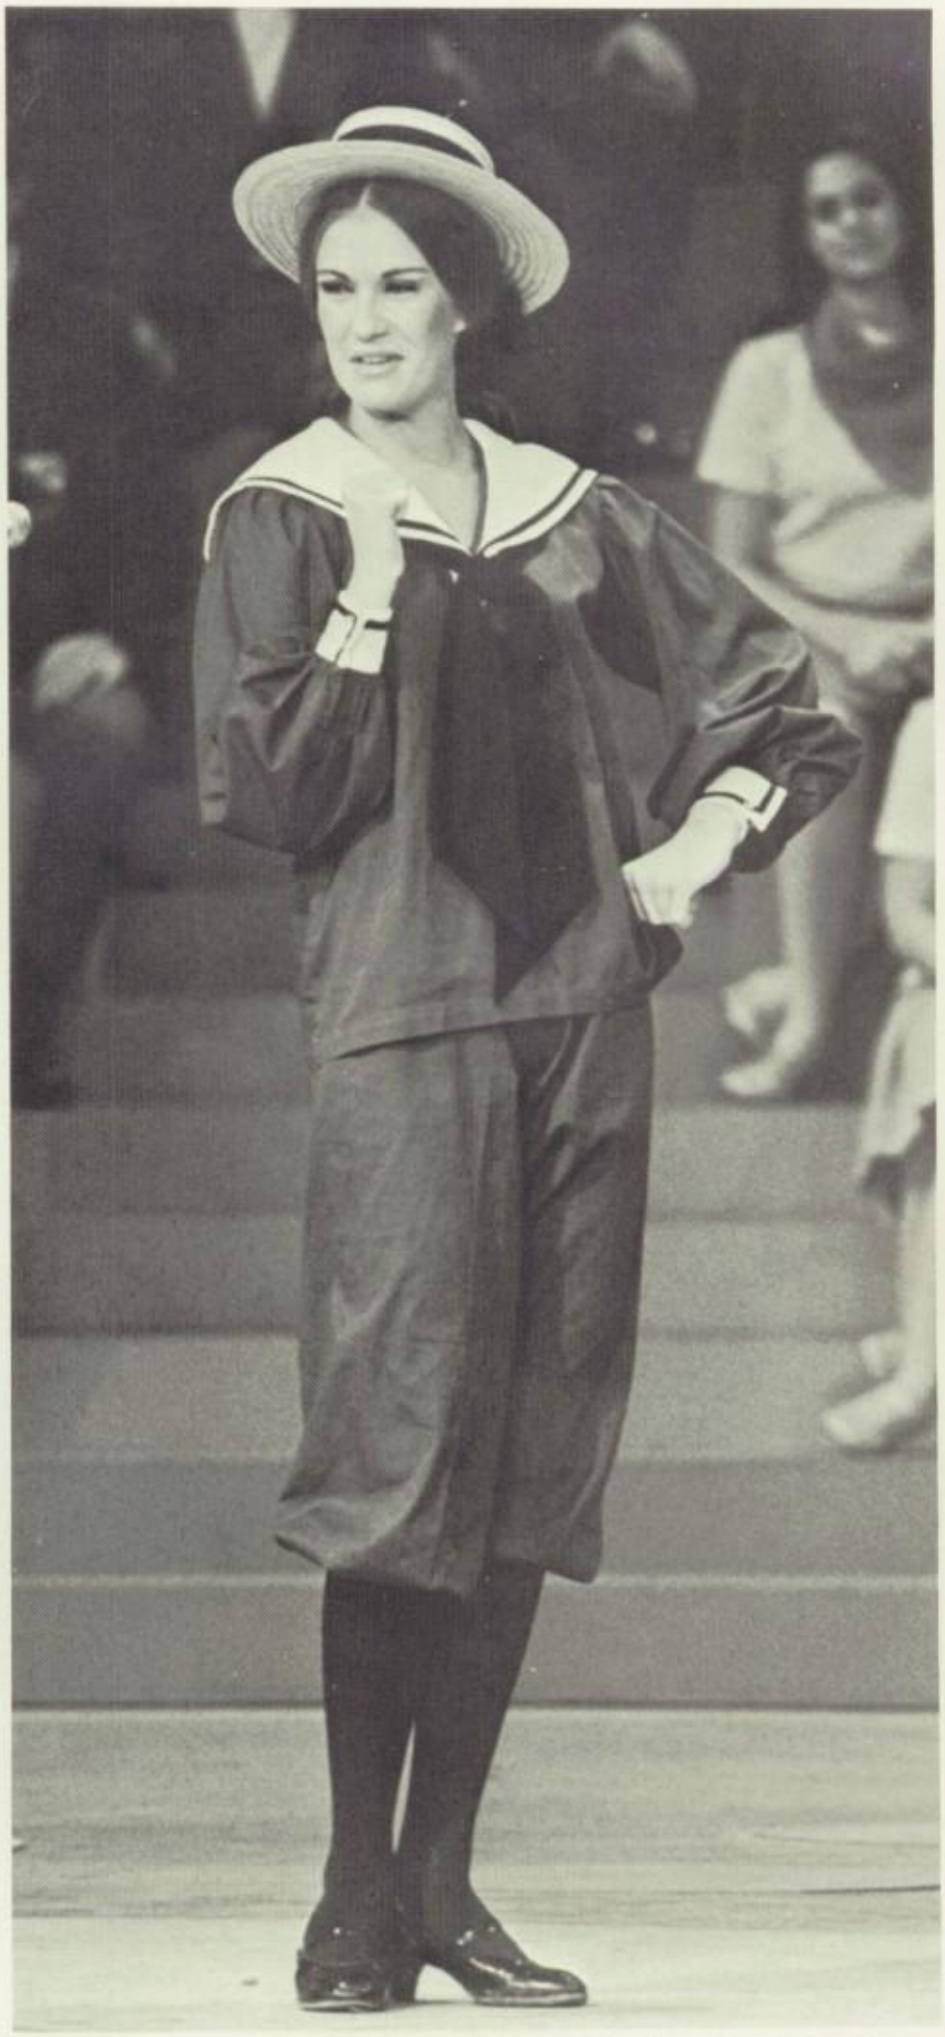
COMPETING against young college level students in the National Association of Teachers of Singing contest during November in Denton, Texas, Steve Dickson placed first, after winning first place last year among high school students.

HOURS of practice to gain perfection was the formula leading Cathy Baker to her honor as 1968-69 Rodeo Queen at the Oklahoma State Fair, the second such queen from Putnam.

ond consecutive year

TALENT, personality, poise and intelligence won Penny Johnson the title of Junior Miss of Oklahoma City for the second consecutive time for P.C.



'I'm the Greatest Star' won Debbie Giannopoulos the title of Miss Teenage Oklahoma City. P.C.'s second win, and a scholarship to the New York School of Theatrical Arts at the Miss Teenage America pageant.

Spirit remains true whether win or lose

READY to meet any emergencies that might arise, Randy Knight (25) kept a constant eye on his teammates throughout the course of the game.

AMID the cheers of pep club girls, the cross country boys triumphantly lifted Coach Les Berryhill to their shoulders to celebrate their victory.

FORMING a Pirate first, the Corsairs, a boys pep club, supported all school sports with outstanding spirit and enthusiasm. Their name, derived from the French word for pirates, was proudly displayed along with the Pirate emblem on tee shirts.

BID for the top prize during Homecoming celebration motivated Diane Norton and Mike Garner to slave extra hours for seniors.

Spirited Pirate emotions emerged with

BOISTEROUS spirit of cheering Pep Club members and pledges demonstrated the enormous impact of Pirate 'Orange Power' and its ever-challenging quest to triumph over the adversary. With the constant support of loyal fans backing them, all Pirate teams could face both defeat and victory.

SPIRIT took on different faces during the Homecoming Week festivities. Building up anticipation, Tom Andrews pinned the traditional orange and black mum on Gail Rhoades, in honor of the most important game of the football season.

screams and 'soul'

WHAT would a football game be without the band? Awaiting his cue, yet following the action, Hugh Bush prepared to strike his cymbals.

SYMBOLIZING the wish for a real stab at the Knights, the mock Pirate represented the feelings of many students during Homecoming Week.

UPON receiving 'ORANGE POWER'S' first birthday candle, presented by the Pep Club officers, Steve Morton projected its size after black and orange candles were alternately burned over it throughout the year.

'Now' concepts reflected by teen image

SEARCH for the true meaning and understanding of life engrossed many of the conversations and time of the younger generation.

'YESTERDAY is but today's memory and tomorrow is today's dream.'—The Prophet. With the coming of maturity a youth must search within himself for the answers to the problems and decisions of adulthood.

HANGOUTS frequented for cokes with friends provided the needed outlets for interaction within the peer group of the typical American teenagers.

Scope of Pirates' concern widens

PLANE tickets in order, Steve Morton prepared to leave for Washington where he attended the Presidential Inauguration; Mr. Ralph Downs, Principal, to San Francisco to attend a Secondary Principals' Conference; Mark Anderson to Mexico for the Olympics.

HISTORY was in the making, and through modern science, the world could watch from their living rooms. Witnessing the United State's first Moon orbit during December 1968 were Putnam Pirates Kirk Lombard, Margaret White, Pauletta Hyden, Gary Miller, Jim Craver and Linda Hendrie.

STUDENT awareness of school needs resulted in successful drives to purchase an organ for the auditorium. David Danner, student organist, explained some of the mechanics of the instrument to Rita Claborn, Organ Fund Drive Committee Chairman.

TOP-NOTCH debaters Larry Baresel and Bill Bayer utilized their skills in communications in challenges against widely-recognized schools from all over the United States at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, DC, at Georgetown University.

Organizations

Student Council

Putnam and Putnam West collaborate

'Project X', sponsored by the Student Council as the Pirates' inside spirit strategy for the Putnam-Northwest game, gathered 700 dollars toward a full-page color ad to promote the football team. Over 500 graduates registered at the Homecoming for a revitalized alumni organization. The homecoming parade-caravan wound through the streets carrying ORANGE POWER to those not living in 'Pirate Country'.

Caravans to out-of-town games provided transportation for home-bound students, and sock hops after home games celebrated wins or pounded out losses. Slogan contests, sponsored to find the best slogan, were submitted by individual homerooms to spur our boys to victory. ORANGE POWER'S first birthday brought back many memories, and the Student Council set aside one week of celebration for the occasion.

A helpful hand and map guided new students on their first day through Putnam's maze of halls. New faces became familiar faces during 'Smile Week', which ended in a schoolwide sock hop. Coins were passed from one 'smiling' student to another and the one with the coin at the end of the week was rewarded with a season football ticket.

The opportunity to purchase best-selling paperbacks from the Bookmobile was brought by the Council. Temporarily reunited with Putnam West, PCHS collaborated to reach the goal of 7 tons of canned food in the now-traditional Christmas Can Drive. This food was distributed to the needy.

SEASONAL cheer and good will were expressed by Student Council officers, Mark Gregory and Nancy Colvert, as they decorated the tree.

legislative process

Model scale of state government, including elections, legislative bodies and state officials, comprised the framework of the Oklahoma Boys and Girls State Convention. Governor Dewey Bartlett, Lieutenant Governor George Nigh and state senators as well as representatives supervised governmental classes, campaigns and legislative actions.

Whistle-stop campaigns, used by delegates running for offices, called for quick answers to the impromptu questions of fellow delegates. Three-fourths of all the delegates ran for the state offices. Each party wrote its own platform and held frenzied nominating conventions. Steve Morton, one of the four PC delegates to Boys State, won the gubernatorial race, capturing this honor for Putnam for the second consecutive year. PC delegate to Girls State, Penny Johnson, was elected first alternate to Girls Nation.

Each district composed of four cities, designated by separate floors. Strict punishment, peculiar to that 'Floor City', was dictated to delegates stumbling onto alien floors. Through competition in sports, races and elections between dormitory floors, meaningful friendships were formed.

Key Club

'Operation-Encounter' sends boy to camp

Directed toward serving their school and the surrounding community, Key Club is an exclusive boys' service club, modeled after their adult counterpart in the community—Kiwanis.

'Operation Encounter', supported by the club members, fund-raising project, offered an underprivileged boy the opportunity to develop himself both physically and mentally at a summer boys camp.

Painting numbers on seats in new Pirate Stadium, acting as hosts at a Christmas party for abandoned boys and promoting Community Fund Drive comprised activities.

STRICT protocol concerning the American Flag was discussed by Key Club officers, John Long and Spencer Johnson, and sponsor, Mr. Ed Collins.

SELECTED solely by the boys of the Key Club as the five 'ideal' Pirate girls to reign as the club's royalty were their sweetheart, Becky Schumacher, and court, Cathy Graul, sophomore attendant; Barbra Schricker, Susan Owens, senior attendants; and Donna Stagner, junior attendant.

American Field Service

Shares and sock hop aid foreign students

Fast-moving ice skating started a 'cool' year for the American Field Service. Preceding the holiday season, members sold Christmas cards to help support the foreign students.

Student Council's selling of shares, sponsoring a sock hop at the end of AFS week and the AFS fund drive provided financial support for the students.

Community and American Field Service cooperatively helped foreign students adjust to problems and provided transportation when needed. Members were invited to an Open House Christmas party and an all-city dinner was attended by members later in the year.

PLANNING for a trip to Europe, Mr. Kenneth Pray discussed the merits of the Americans Abroad Program with Tom Lieberz and Janeice McGlothlan.

FINDING two heads better than one, Ellie Oude Heuvel and her 'sister', Karla Sorenson, assisted each other on their confusing homework.

Blue Boy, Whistler's Mother, Napoleon and other canvas characters materialized at the Art Club Christmas party where members dressed as their choice subject of famous paintings.

Highlights for the club included the Halloween 'Paint-in', the school-wide art sale, decorating and modeling of the Art Club patio and, finally, their semi-formal dinner.

GETTING the complete picture of their multi-colored poster for the Art Club 'Paint-In' were art students Patti Maust, Joann Pabst and Paula Cook.

Honor Society

Academic primacy gains sweepstakes

Recognizing students for exceptional academic achievements, the Honor Society required a 3.5 scholastic grade average and all A's in conduct of its 30 members and 62 pledges. Senior members wore the graduation cords of white, symbolic of their scholastic accomplishments.

Before pledges were qualified to be formally initiated into membership, a trial period of one-semester was required during which a constant grade check was conducted. Spring and fall initiations, characterized by a candlelight evening service, explained to pledges and their parents the five basic characteristics of Honor Society members. These basics include service, leadership, character, scholarship and citizenship.

Elected as representative delegates of their PC chapter, the club's president and vice-president attended the Oklahoma State Honor Society meeting in Tulsa. Summer leadership conferences were also attended by the club's officers.

Members, pledges and officers spent numerous hours in gathering names, addresses and phone numbers of Putnam's 2,800 students when they published the student directory.

HAVING made the grades, Lynnette Mutz paid her dues to Terie Reznicek, treasurer, and became a member of the journalism honor society.

Honor society for journalism devotees, Quill and Scroll had 18 members who had achieved minimum grade averages of 3.2. By amending the Putnam City Quill and Scroll constitution to tally with the national level, entrance requirements were lowered from a previous 3.5 grade average. This action also enabled sophomores to pledge Quill and Scroll during their first year.

PRESIDENT Lee Ann Slayton showed the official certificate of membership presented by the chapter to Becky Brand and Q and S members.

English Club

Local poet inspires PC rhyme-makers

Mummer's production of Misalliance started the year on a dramatic note for the members of the English Club who attended the performance as a group.

Members adapted Winnie the Pooh and then, shortly before Christmas, they directed and performed the play at the Children's Convalescent Home in Bethany.

Young poet, Mr. Skip Largent, student at Central State College, was sponsored by the club as a speaker to all English and Speech classes.

Pieces of Eight, an anthology of PC student writings, was published for the third year as a service and fund-raising project in conjunction with the short story and poetry contest sponsored by the English Club.

The Creative Writing Club was recently formed as an adjunct to the English Club with the major emphasis on critiquing each other in their various forms of writing.

'EEYOR the Donkey's Birthday Party' began Winnie the Pooh, as Anne Chafer, playing Christopher Robins, listened to mother, Debbie Rector.

ASSEMBLING a miniature replica of France's famous Eiffel Tower for their French classes were Putnam City's newest French teachers, Mrs. Beverly Todd and Mrs. Barbara Branson.

Roquefort, Bleu tested at cheese party

WIRE gradually began to take on the shape of a topiary tree as Steve Kopp, Linda Green, Cathy Ellis and Cathy Holmes wove in crepe paper.

'Buche de Noel', a French cake decorated as the Yule Log, was the center of the Christmas party for the club members.

Fashioned after the Mardi Gras held in New Orleans, students dressed in appropriate native costumes and were entertained by French skits that added to the spring banquet.

Famous heady cheeses were either savored or rejected as the members experimented at a cheese-tasting party. The club activities ended with a picnic in May.

Officers and sponsors revised the constitution, opening French royalty opportunities to juniors or seniors in second or third-year French classes. A bake sale was planned to raise money to purchase refreshments for club meetings.

German Club

Die Studenten depict customs, dances.

Old German folklore in the form of dances and festivals transplanted a bit of atmosphere into the club activities. Commemorating the arrival of spring, club members celebrated the Mia Fest and Fashing, a traditional dance which takes place just before Lent.

Eating at the Volkstub and ice skating at the fairgrounds were some of the activities of the club. Highlighting various meetings, skits exemplifying traditional and modern day German customs, were put on by three-year members.

CONVERSATIONS in a German play between Scott Kimball and Ned Whittington taught everyday dialogue in an unfamiliar tongue.

SHORT plays enacted during club meetings allowed German students like Joyce Harvey and Pat Worrilow to perfect their power of enunciation.

SCENIC pictures illustrating the hilly countryside and ancient castles of Germany were put up for display by DeAnn Wooten in her German class.

GERMAN hats, coats and helmets added color to club skits. Hugh Bushe, Tom Neely, Judy Gofourth and Bob Neely depicted scenes from a play.

PC 'family' adopts child from Ecuador

Adoption papers in order? For the Spanish Club they were as Joffre Tomas Pinto Plaza, a seven-year-old boy from Guayaquil, Ecuador, found an almost-real 'family' from approximately 300 American teenagers. For twelve dollars a month, he received a balanced lunch, was clothed well and was given medical and dental attention. Individual club members wrote him letters frequently.

Christmas festivities included the breaking of the traditional Spanish piñatas, a surprise visit from Santa Claus and the singing of Christmas carols in Spanish. The queen and matador were also crowned at this party.

In the holiday spirit, Christmas cheer and season's greetings were sent to 240 service men in Vietnam.

An October meeting featured a guest speaker who met with the club to encourage them to join a study group in Spain for the following summer.

Having been asked to participate in the anniversary celebration of Shepherd Mall, which has a Mexican theme, the Spanish Club decorated the display window of the bank.

Psychology Club

Newly-formed club features hypnosis

Hocus pocus, trances and swinging watches, often associated with hypnosis, set the mood for the first meeting of the Psychology Club. Dr. Walter Bowman, a medical hypnotist, explained and gave a demonstration of hypnosis.

At later meetings, guest speakers discussed morals, teenage marriage, dating and the psychological effects of drugs. These programs offered more information than could be gained from regular classroom time and facilities, enriching for members the study of psychology.

Projects for the year included a Christmas party and presents for a group of underprivileged, emotionally-disturbed children. The money received from club dues went for a small scholarship award for one student who showed future promise in the field of psychology.

Seniors who were enrolled in either psychology or sociology were eligible for membership in Psychology Club, which, in its first year, boasted over 400 members.

PSYCHOLOGY classes observed Joel Thomas and Becky Steward as they identified objects in intelligence tests presented by Miss Frances Bell.

Pep Club

Signs plaster halls, elevate team morale

Squeals and shouts in victory, tears and screams in defeat; the voice of Pirate spirit expressed distinct tones during 'The Year of the Orange'. The Princess Pirate Pep Club, led by a joint group of officers, cheerleaders and sponsor, upheld the Pirate morale with their roars for 'Orange Power'.

Directing the Pep Club in cheers and chants, Putnam's vibrant cheerleaders drilled and exercised tedious hours to achieve the perfection they desired. Dressed to exemplify Pete the Pirate, a new type of mascot for Putnam City aided cheerleaders in boosting spirit.

Composed of 340 members and 302 pledges, Pep Club activities extended beyond supporting PC sports' teams. Pledge Day yielded mysterious and sometimes tearful creatures, exposed to the pranks and trickery of members. Returning to a check system, the assignment of big and little sisters helped to draw the two groups closer together to form a unified club. Frozen and stiff, these loyal girls practiced several hours in preparation for sports' queen coronations.

DRESSED in the correct style for Pledge Day, Becky Schumacher and Nancy Finley gave pledges a preview of what was in store for that day.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

Contributed clothes help Salvation Army

Collecting clothes for the Salvation Army, whose building burned last fall, was a major project of the FCA.

Members of the club have to be in some school sport or a team manager. At bi-weekly meetings, which feature guest speakers, such as Dr. Lee Holden, athletic physician, members discussed different problems Christian athletes must face.

Members sold candy and sponsored a garage sale as fund-raising projects. The money was used to send four boys to the National FCA Conference held in Fort Collins, Colorado.

DECIDING on suitable wrappings for Christmas gifts for the underprivileged were FCA members Joe Schaeffer, Mark Quimby and Dennis Fite.

PREPARING devotions for FCA meeting were officers Doug Speakes, Randy Ashcraft, Mr. Jim Koch, sponsor, Tom Wright and Joe Schaeffer.

Going to the moon? Electronic advancements are playing a major role in achieving this not-so-far-off goal. And laying the foundations for future advancements is the Electronics Club. So that the members may gain a greater insight in electronics, field trips to FAA and other institutions of a similar nature were scheduled.

Future Business Leaders of America

Float wins first in Homecoming parade

'SANTA CLAUS' and his helpers, Velva Blair and Richard Colbert, distributed gifts to the children for whom the FBLA Christmas party was given.

Strengthening the confidence and working knowledge of young business-minded men and women, FBLA focused on familiarizing its PC chapter members with the mechanics of the business world. Programming a field trip to Western Electric and choosing speakers from such fields as public relations, law and insurance acquainted the 197 members with the variety of occupations in the business area.

Fund-raising projects included the sale of Homecoming mums, mascot dolls and candy. Money raised from the candy sale went toward the Christmas Party for underprivileged children in the Oklahoma City area.

FBLA representatives served as hosts and hostesses for Career Day and appeared on the 'Ida B' show. Mr. and Miss Future Business Leaders of America along with the DECA queen were honored at the FBLA-DECA spring dance.

Twelve-Year Club

Members 'find their thing' in assembly

PETE the Pirate wraps up all that has become significant to Marva Barnes and Patricia Murphy among those who attended PC twelve years.

Students who have attended Putnam City Schools since the first grade belong to the elite group who are the only eligible members of this club.

"The main purpose of the club is to distinguish the veterans of the school from the other students" said Mrs. Marguerite Smith, club sponsor.

Showing their faithful school spirit, the club entered a float in the homecoming parade. The float was a tin can knight with a large orange on top of him. The theme of the float was 'Orange Crush.'

Club members helped plan and participated as a group in the senior assembly. A picnic brought their year to a close.

CHOSEN by her fellow workers on the basis of her active participation in school activities and hard work while on the job was the 1968-69 Distributive Education queen, Kathy Shilling. Kathy was attended by Alicia Fielder and Patti Butler, both seniors at PC.

DRESSED in DECA's newly purchased navy blue and gold blazers, members of three Oklahoma City schools were initiated into the Distributive Education Club of America in the Putnam Cith High School auditorium.

Hi-Notes

Concerts, plays broaden cultural interests

DISTRIBUTION of symphony programs was a service performed by club members. Paula Sanders greeted Jeniffer Griffith with a smile.

Teenage music preferences need not be limited to the psychedelic world of today. Ballets, symphonies and Broadway plays find their way into the lives of the 'now' generation.

In addition to selling season tickets for the symphony performances, Hi-Notes members set up booths and acted as guides at the Oklahoma Arts Festival.

A special project of the club was the purchase of symphony tickets which were available to members of the faculty on an alternate basis, so that they could attend the concerts as their guests.

Guest artists made the various performances meaningful and more easily understood by giving pre-concert explanations of their particular talent to the club members.

TICKET-taker Suzi Holler wore the traditional uniform when she seated Ann Nygreen at the symphony which featured pianist, Byran Janis.

Camerabugs, bookworms click and dig

PHOTOGRAPHY Club President and yearbook staff photographer Bruce Weaver explained the parts of a camera to member John McClelland.

PHOTOGRAPHERS of all degrees were able to participate in the Photography Club activities which included field trips to Panda Processing Plant and to Wagner Studio. Demonstrations and talks on photo oil coloring and negative developing gave them insight into the field.

'Bookworms,' alias Library Club members, helped to select, evaluate and decide on books to be purchased for the school library. Sharing the title with Art Club, the Library Club's Homecoming float was awarded a first place.

Welcoming shower surprises Dutch girl

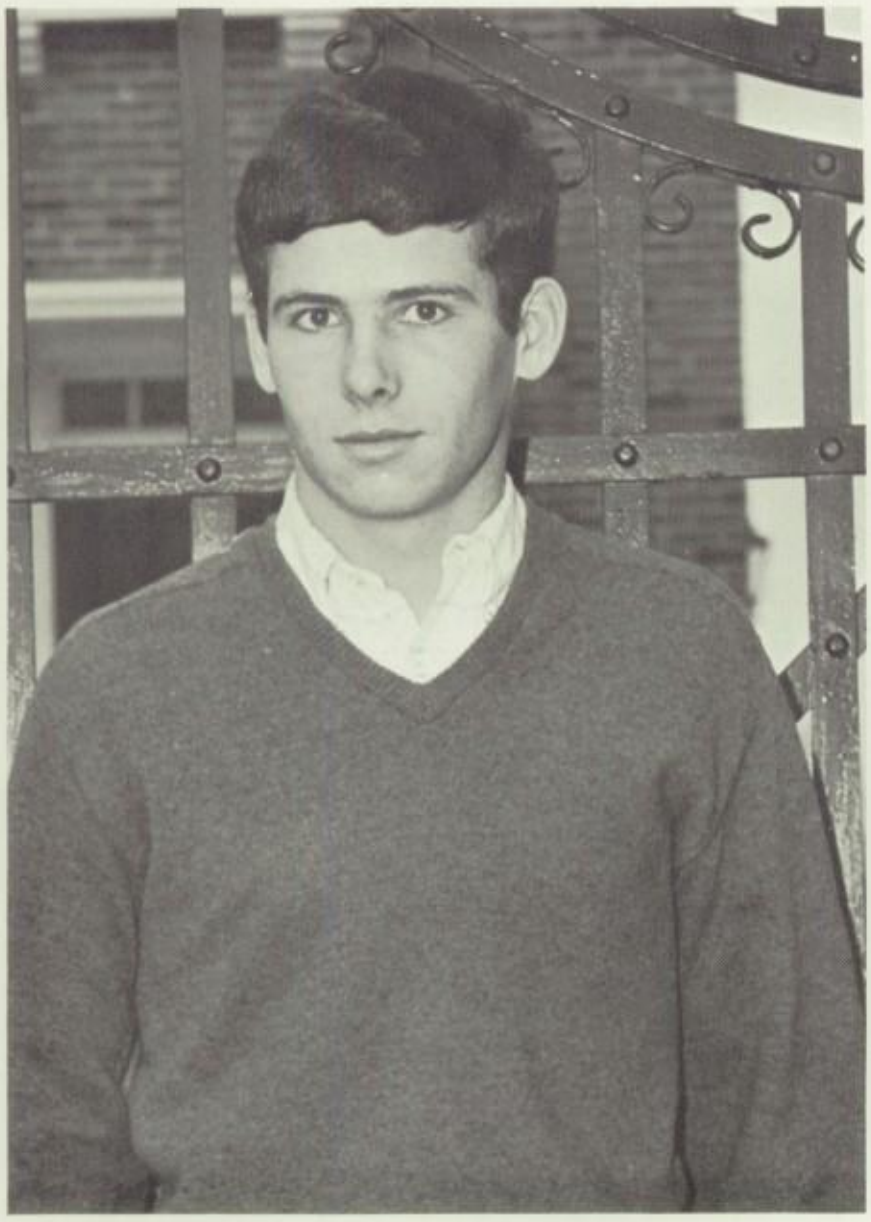
Fashions and hairstyles, the long and short of them, always a common topic among girls, were discussed at one of the Future Homemaker's meetings by guest speakers, Dean Frusher and Jean Lawson. Later meetings included a speaker from a local charm school and a model from Patricia Stevens.

Projects of the year were not limited to fund raising, as many of them were charitable. Several members spent afternoons with the elderly in rest homes, while others visited children in convalescent homes. Thanksgiving food baskets and Christmas gifts were prepared and delivered to needy families throughout the city. Closer to home, FHA planned a surprise shower for Putnam's foreign exchange student, Ellie Oude Heuvel.

A car wash, box supper, rummage sale and bake sale were among several projects undertaken to raise money for the FHA style show, at which their sweetheart was crowned.

USING the newly-acquired silver service, Pam Love served Mr. Wayne Easterwood at the faculty Christmas Party, hosted by Homemakers.



MERITING future homemaker's recognition, Phil Claborn reigned as the 1968-69 FHA sweetheart, the club's idea of a future ideal man.

SPREADING Christmas cheer to the less fortunate, Darlene Bays, Patty Kohs and Sue Steadman wrapped packages to distribute around the city.

ATTENDING the 1968-69 FHA Sweetheart were sr. Mark Gregory, soph. Mike Gill, jr. Tommy Wright, jr. Greg Jones, jr. Ed Graul, sr. Steve Pherigo and soph. Stan Welker (not shown), who were honored during the annual spring style show by the Future Homemakers of America.

Future Teachers of America

'Younger generation' voice opinions on

Disc keychains with facsimiles of Pirate heads helped raise a scholarship for any senior girl focusing on a career as a teacher. A Christmas Party at the Children's Convalescent Home provided punch and candy canes for recuperating children. Members spent early afternoons at elementary schools doing odd jobs around the classroom, thus gaining experience by coming in contact with future 'pupil-types.'

An elementary school principal spoke on the psychological elements in the teaching profession and a panel of school-age children gave personal opinions on their idea of the 'perfect teacher' and named their favorite subjects.

INSTRUCTIONS for grading classroom papers, a large part of teaching school, were given to future teacher, Betty Garrett, by Mr. Ed Collins.

ASSISTING an elementary teacher during a school day, Cindy Murray watched as a grade school student showed his teacher his new toy.

JUBILANT over the arrival of keychains to be sold for FTA were Linda Foley, Donna Woods, Miss Frances Bell, Sponsor, and Nancy Johnson.

National Forensic League

Political assembly stirs election concern

Presenting a political assembly to the student body before the national elections were held and preparing for District Student Congress at the State Capitol were two outstanding activities participated in by members of the NFL.

Members also took part in a speakers' bureau which sends orators to civic organizations requesting them. Preparation of the manuscripts for National Forensic League's activities gave members practice in organizing thoughts and then publicly communicating their ideas.

To become members, students must earn 25 or more points by participating in debates and in various speech contests.

ASSORTED cuttings were presented in speech class by Patty Swenson and Jean Scott who tried out for an upcoming contest.

CONSTRUCTING a tree for use as a prop, Alan Locke gained skills in stage crew work and design besides obtaining acting experiences.

'Barefoot in the Park' the all-school play; the musical 'Carousel' and a theater-in-the-round production were the line-up of plays participated in by the Thespian Club.

Students became members by earning the required number of points, obtained through participating in dramatic activities such as stagecrew, ushering, play cuttings, business activities and contests. Awards were presented to outstanding Thespians for contributions to plays and contests.

Putnam City—30 Star Spencer—14

PC's Pirates combined a near-perfect running game with a surprisingly stiff defense to whip a tough Star Spencer team for their first victory of the 68 season.

LH Johnny Merrell started off the season's scoring on a seven-yard romp over left tackle near the end of the first quarter. This example was soon followed by FB Bill Sanders as he racked up his first 6 points of the year on a 10-yard run through a gaping hole in the right side of the line. Doug Beck added his second conversion

The defense took over the spotlight in the second half by forcing two Star Spencer fumbles, both resulting in PC scores. PC also stacked up two safeties this game.

Putnam City—34 John Marshall—6

The Pirates took the opening kickoff and pieced together their longest drive of the season covering 94 yards in 13 plays with Sanders rolling over from the three for the score. After the Bears stalled on the first series of downs, Greg Jones took the punt and raced 65 yards to the Marshall ten, where Claborn tossed to Vrooman for the TD.

Prescott picked off one of his two interceptions and raced 44 yards for another score. Then near the end of the first half John Pinion capitalized on another misthrown pass and flew 71 yards to the Bear 4-yard line. From there Phil Claborn connected with John Merrell for his second touchdown pass of the night.

The second half cooled down somewhat with both teams managing only one score. Putnam City's score came when reserve QB Bob Shuman hit Mark Quimby on a 10-yard TD pass.

Putnam City—28 US Grant—14

PC's next victory was a hard-fought one as the Pirates had to overcome an early 14-0 deficit in a game of the big break and the long bomb against the Generals.

The Pirate barrage opened up midway through the second quarter when LH John Merrell broke over right tackle for a 54-yard touchdown gallop. Two minutes later FB Bill Sanders scooted around left end and raced 64 yards for PC's second tally. Prescott took a General punt, stunned everyone by romping 70 yards for another PC score.

The fireworks continued into the fourth quarter as QB Phil Claborn launched a 44-yard bomb to End Mark Quimby.

Putnam City—8 Enid—0

Defense was the name of the game as the Pirates edged out a shaky victory over the Enid Plainsmen.

Putnam City's offense could only forge out two first downs the whole game against a tough Enid defense that gave up only 65 total offensive yards, Bill Sanders obtaining 63 of them.

Sensing the trouble, the Pirate defense took it upon themselves to do the scoring and immediately blocked an Enid punt out of the end zone for a 2-point safety. Seven minutes later Jeff Bergman scooped up a Plainsmen fumble and rambled 86 yards for the night's only touchdown.

Putnam City—26 Shawnee—10

Shaking off an early ten-point charge by a determined Shawnee Wolf offense, the Pirates came up with their fifth victory in as many outings.

Putnam City—6 Douglass—6

Surviving one of the fiercest onslaughters of the season, the Pirates managed to tie the Douglass Trojans and sustain their unblemished record.

The competition was stiff and the Pirates were held back for the first half by a tough Trojan defense.

Returning at the half, the Pirates burst through the Douglass defense as FB Bill Sanders carried the ball four straight times, the last a ten-yarder for the Pirates only touchdown. The conversion was blocked.

PC held the lead for almost one full quarter until a slip-up in the Pirate backfield caused a fumble which was picked up by Douglass Linebacker Arnold Johnson and the only Douglass TD was made. The Douglass extra point was blocked by Steve Pherigo, saving the day for Putnam City.

QB Phil Claborn had his best night of the season in the passing department with a 5 for 9 completion record and one 15-yard touchdown pass to Mark Quimby.

Bill Sanders added hope to his quest for the Midstate scoring title by chalking up two more TD's, while Johnny Merrell added six more points to his total.

Putnam City—21 Southeast—0

Bill Sanders and John Merrell accounted for all of the rushing yardage and most of the scoring.

LH John Merrell started the scoring with a four-yard romp over left tackle, with Doug Beck adding the point. Then the fleet halfback turned his talents to passing and connected with Mark Quimby on a 38-yard touchdown.

During the third and most of the fourth quarters, neither team was able to mount a drive until Sanders and Merrell began to piece together their running game. Running alternately, the backs moved the ball 54 yards with Sanders popping over for the touchdown from one yard out.

DESPERATELY trying to elude the blitz, Phil Claborn (11) escapes Star Spencer LB Greg Jones (68) as Jim Cole (6) dives to make the tackle.

Putnam City—21 Capitol Hill—0

For more than three quarters the stiff Capitol Hill defense held the usually potent PC offense to 24 total yards with the only score coming on a three-yard fumble recovery run by Putnam City Tackle Steve Stewart.

Then with five minutes left in the game, things started to happen. The Pirates got the ball on their own 8-yard line and Johnny Merrell promptly reeled off runs of 45, 29 and 19 yards in succession, then crashed over from the one to cap a one-man drive.

After this singlehanded act was over, Capitol Hill got the ball, but not for long. On the first play from scrimmage Steve England intercepted and ran back to the four, where Bill Sanders plowed into the end zone two plays later for a TD.

Putnam City—0 Northwest—20

With injuries dealt out by the Douglass Trojans, Enid Plainsmen and John Marshall Bears, the undermanned Pirate team was unable to cope with the size and speed of the Northwest Knights as they dropped the most crucial game of the year.

On the second play from scrimmage for the Pirate, first string QB Phil Claborn suffered a broken shoulder and collar bone picking up the first first-down of the game. Besides this costly injury Sid Barrett and Doug Beck joined the list of Pirate injuries as they both went out for the season with knee injuries.

Putnam City—0 Midwest City—7

Destined from the beginning to be decided by a 'big break' eventually that was just what happened. The break came in the last of the fourth quarter when a bad PC center on a punt attempt gave the ball to the Bombers on the PC 30. The defense fought gallantly but were overcome in 10 plays by the strong MC offense, with the Bombers plowing over from the one.

The Pirates, whose entire offensive line had been knocked earlier in the season, could not score but got down to the one, four and seven-yard lines late in the game.

Raiders combine forces to finish 14-4-1

Under one of Putnam City's finest coaching staffs, Orange and Black Raider squads compiled an outstanding 14-4-1 in a combined effort against strong adversaries.

Coaches Tom Cheatwood and Elam Pebworth sparked their Orange Raiders on to a well-earned 7-3 record to finish near the top of their division. Dropping their opening game to Enid 22-18 the Orange stormed back to beat Yukon 34-12, John Marshall 12-10 and Edmond 36-6.

Throwing up the stiffest competition of the season the 'B' teams of Shawnee and Classen got by the Raiders with scores of 34-6 and 18-6. Keeping up the fight, the Orange came back again to beat Southeast 21-0, Northwest 16-0 and Capitol Hill 12-0.

The Black Raiders came through the season in fine style with a record of 6-1-1. Under the leadership of coaches Larry Guerkink, Kenneth Keel and Gene Firth, the Raiders in black ran by Moore 14-8 and by John Marshall 22-0 for the first two games of the season. Suffering only one loss through the course of the season, the Black Raiders smashed the teams of US Grant, Yukon and Enid with scores of 12-6, 24-0 and 14-13. After the game dropped to Norman 32-6, the Black Raiders came back to beat El Reno 34-16, but only managed to tie the 'B' team of Northwest 6-6.

In conclusion of the season, the Orange and Black Raiders joined up to defeat Midwest City 8-6, but returned the next night to battle each other to a 6-0 victory for the Black.

Although dropping from a 16-6 seasonal record last year to an 11-11 record this year, the Pirate Roundballers continued to produce All-Staters as Mike Polansky captured the honor this year.

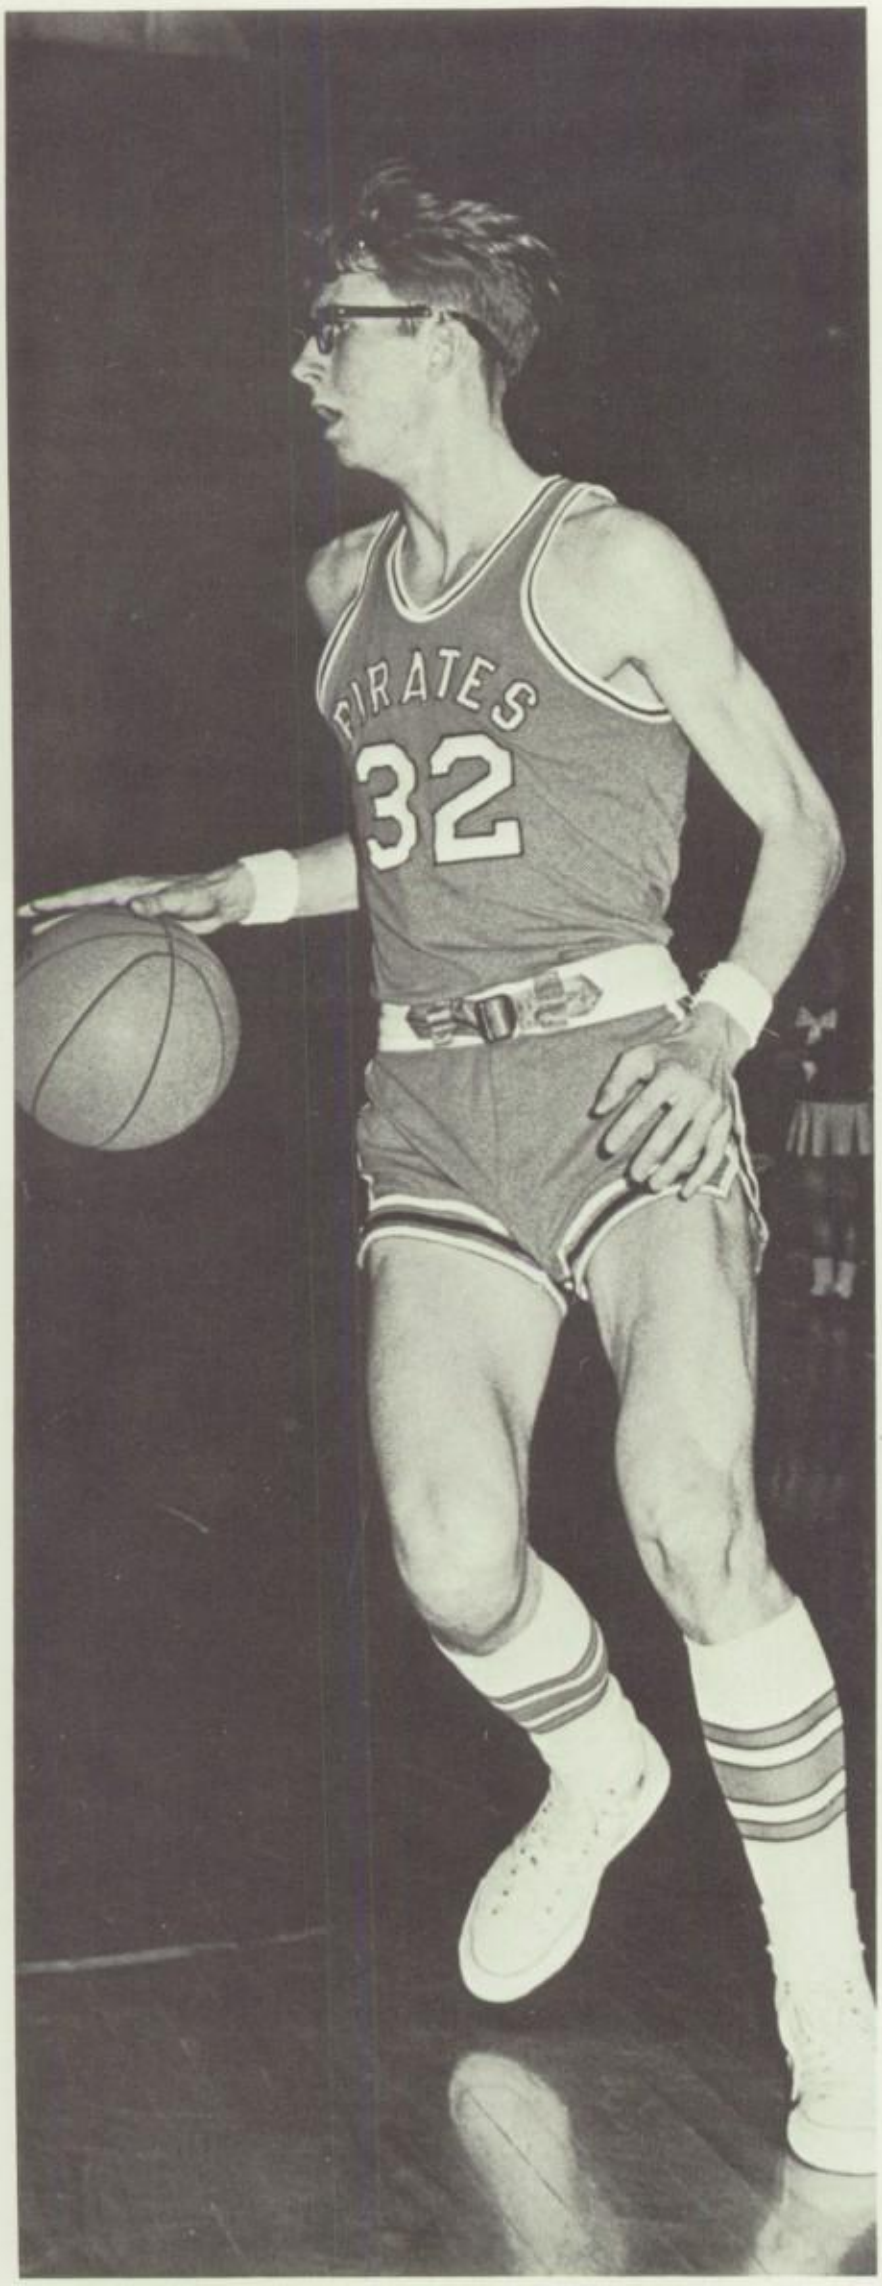
Starting off the season with an overwhelming victory over Classen, 66-44, the Pirates then dropped two in a row before squeaking past US Grant 56-51 for a fifth place finish in the US Grant Tournament.

The Pirates then trounced Shawnee 54-39 and John Marshall 52-39 before falling to the state's number one team, Northwest, by the score of 56-36.

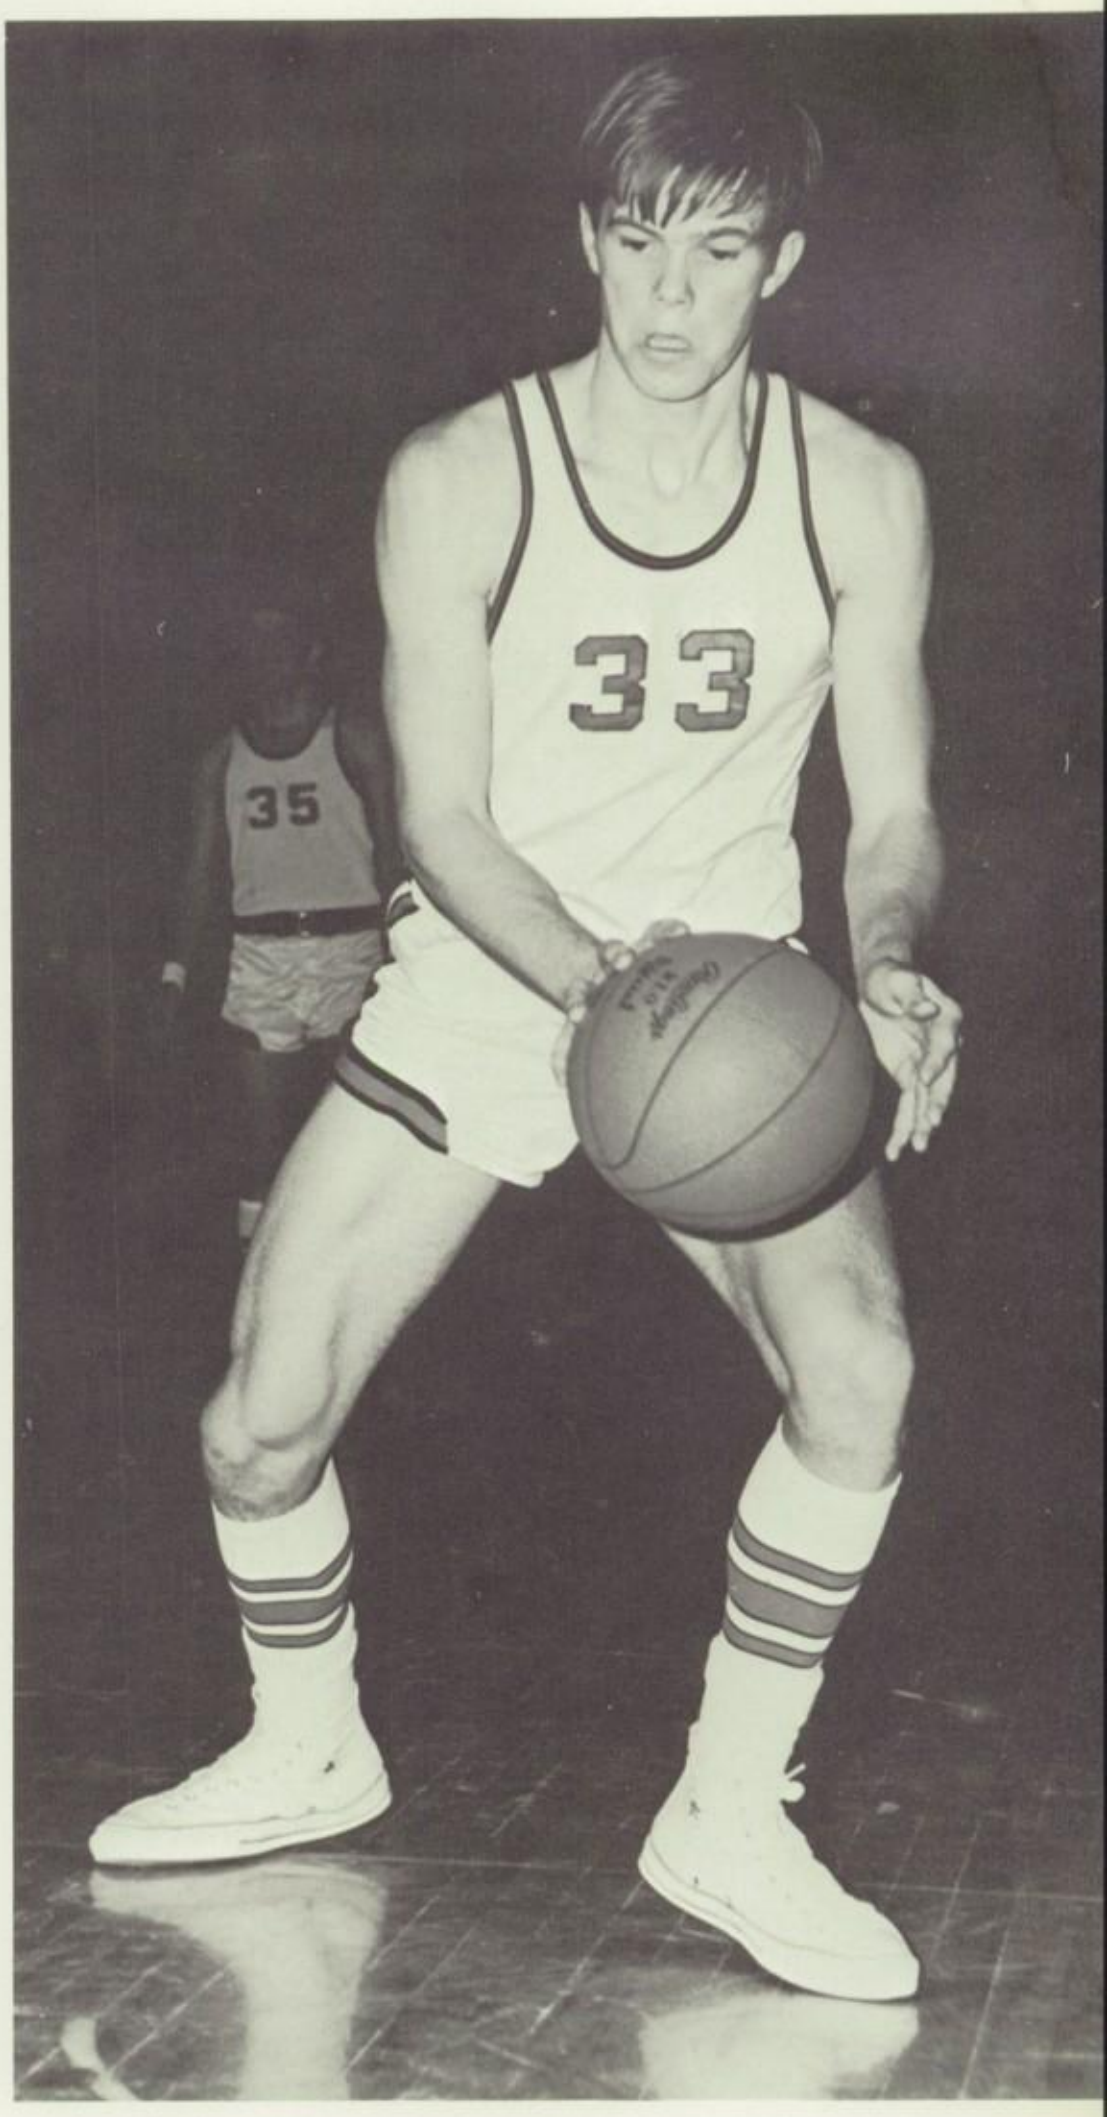
Stillwater was next to fall by a 54-35 margin, as the cagemen tried to defend their McGuinness Tournament title. The Pirates also defeated McGuinness 66-34 before losing the US Grant 60-65 to finish second in the Tourney.

Overtime was the undoing of the Pirates in the next two games as they dropped a double overtime to Douglass 59-53 and a single overtime to Midwest City 61-55. Capitol Hill was the only overtime victory of the year as the Pirates edged out a 56-54 win in double overtime.

Enid was the closest game of the year, excluding the overtimes, as the Pirates finally overcame an extremely stubborn Enid team 57-56. The Pirates finished the season by playing Northwest, Midwest City, Douglass and Enid.



AFTER stealing the ball from a McGuiness player, Mike Stewart (32) started down court for two points as the clock marked the last seconds.



PREPARING to go up for a 25-foot jump-shot, PC senior Mack Good gripped the ball and braced himself before the shot from mid-court.

Varsity captures fifth at MWC Tourney

Working against tough odds, Putnam City's wrestling squad, led by Mid-State champion Dale Travis, pulled out a record of 3 and 6 for the season. Meeting some of their tightest competitors at the Midwest City Tourney, the PC matmen placed fifth, with Pirates Don Meeker and Johnny Pinion taking second places. Bombers crushed the Pirates 29-11 starting with an early five-point lead at one of the Pirate-hosted meets.

PC also dropped a game to Grant 25-17, collecting only a 39-point total. The Pirates soon made up for this deficit taking first at the Del City Tourney, shutting them out 42-0 and chalking up an 83-point total.

On the road, PC matmen took third at Tulsa, fourth at the Geary tournament. In regular season dual meets, the Pirates captured a 39-3 decision over Northwest. PC then lost six meets in a row by six points or less before topping the Southeast Spartans 34-8. Returning to a tournament competition, Putnam's matmen grappled for a fifth in the Midwest City Tourney and came home to defeat Capitol Hill 45-3. Next the Pirates went into the Mid-State Tourney, finishing fourth, 49 points behind John Marshall and Midwest.

PUTNAM'S Dennis George proved to Del City's Bob Batson that he could whip him with his eyes closed which he did in 30 seconds of round 1.

FORCING his opponent into a double arm lock at the Midwest City-Putnam City match, Dale Travis attempted to gain three for a predicament.

Pirate harriers finish first in Mid-State

Speed and stamina were the main ingredients in the mixture that enabled the Putnam City cross-country team to beat the unbeatables on their way to their first Mid-State title. Led by the State's only undefeated runner, Randy Heierding, the most-improved team in Oklahoma defeated the once thought unbeatable US Grant Generals (twice), Northwest Knights (once) and the Shawnee Wolves (twice).

In their first meet, Tahlequah, they stunned everyone by finishing second, but this was to be a year of surprises. The Tulsa Edison meet was next and the team did the impossible by defeating the champion Generals and Knights by the phenomenal margin of 14 points. But the glory didn't last long in the Northwest meet—PC finished second behind NWC. In the Grant relay the harriers finished third.

But in the next five meets, PC West, OBU, Tulsa Rogers, OSU and Mid-State, PC finished first. This last race, Mid-State, saw the Pirates literally running away with the meet as 'Old Faithful' Randy Heierding finished first, Roger Woolery third, David Stapp 11th, Doug Yarholar 13th, Tim McFall 19th and Dave Morton 20th.

The combined work of new Coach Les Barryhill and a fine team made the best showing ever in a Mid-State race—a true comeback for the low records of previous years.

Mid-State taken by Tankers over JM

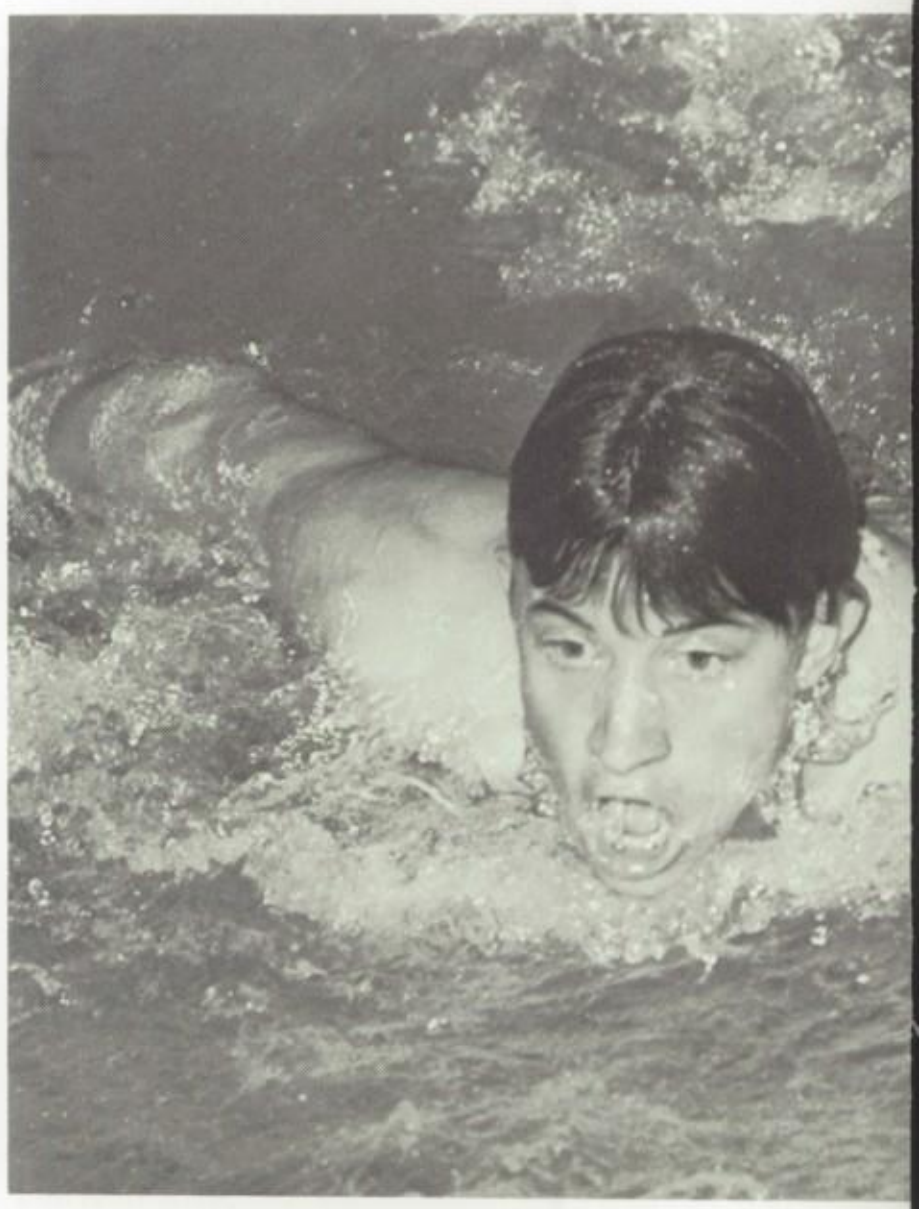
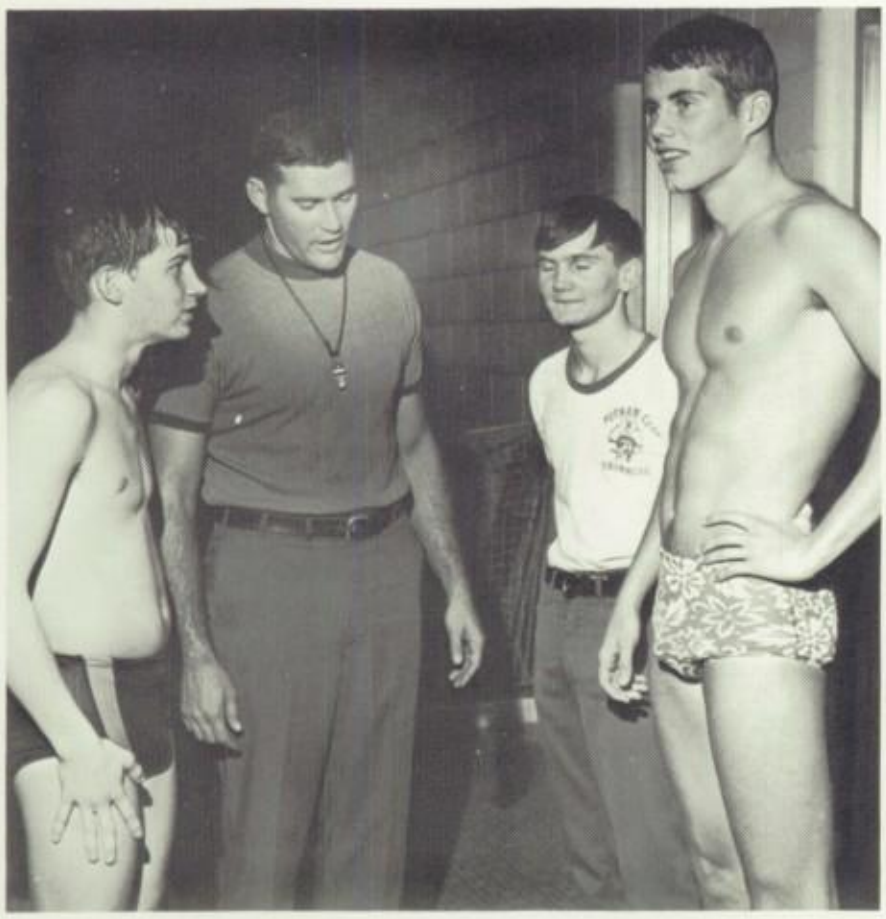
Led by new Head Coach Gene Abney and unbeaten Steve and Dan Sonnenberg, Mark Anderson, Richard Hermes and Steve Jamison, the Pirate Tankers put together the best record in many a year. Ending with a 16-0 tournament and dual meet record, the swimmers took Mid-State and finished third in the state meet.

After throwing back John Marshall twice, 50-45 and 48-47, the only real competition the Pirates had faced, they went to Mid-State. Here they met John Marshall again. This time, however, the competition wasn't as stiff and the Pirates ran away with the title by 12-1/2 points.

All-Staters were common this year. Steve Sonnen berg captured the 200-meter free-style event, while his brother, Dan, grabbed the 200-meter backstroke. Three time All-Stater Mark Anderson won the diving competition. The victory gave the Pirates an edge on the All-Sports Trophy.



GASPING for air as he lengthened his lead, Bruce Holt, PC breast-stroke specialist, neared the finish line in the 100-meter race at John Marshall.



LENDING an ear to Coach Gene Abney in discussion of strategy for the upcoming meet were Steve Sonnenberg, Jim McGoodwin and Ron Gamble.

AFTER winning the 100-meter free-style race, hearty handshakes of congratulations for his winning participation in the 74-21 romp over his aggressor from Capitol Hill were extended to sophomore Richard Hermes by his opponent.

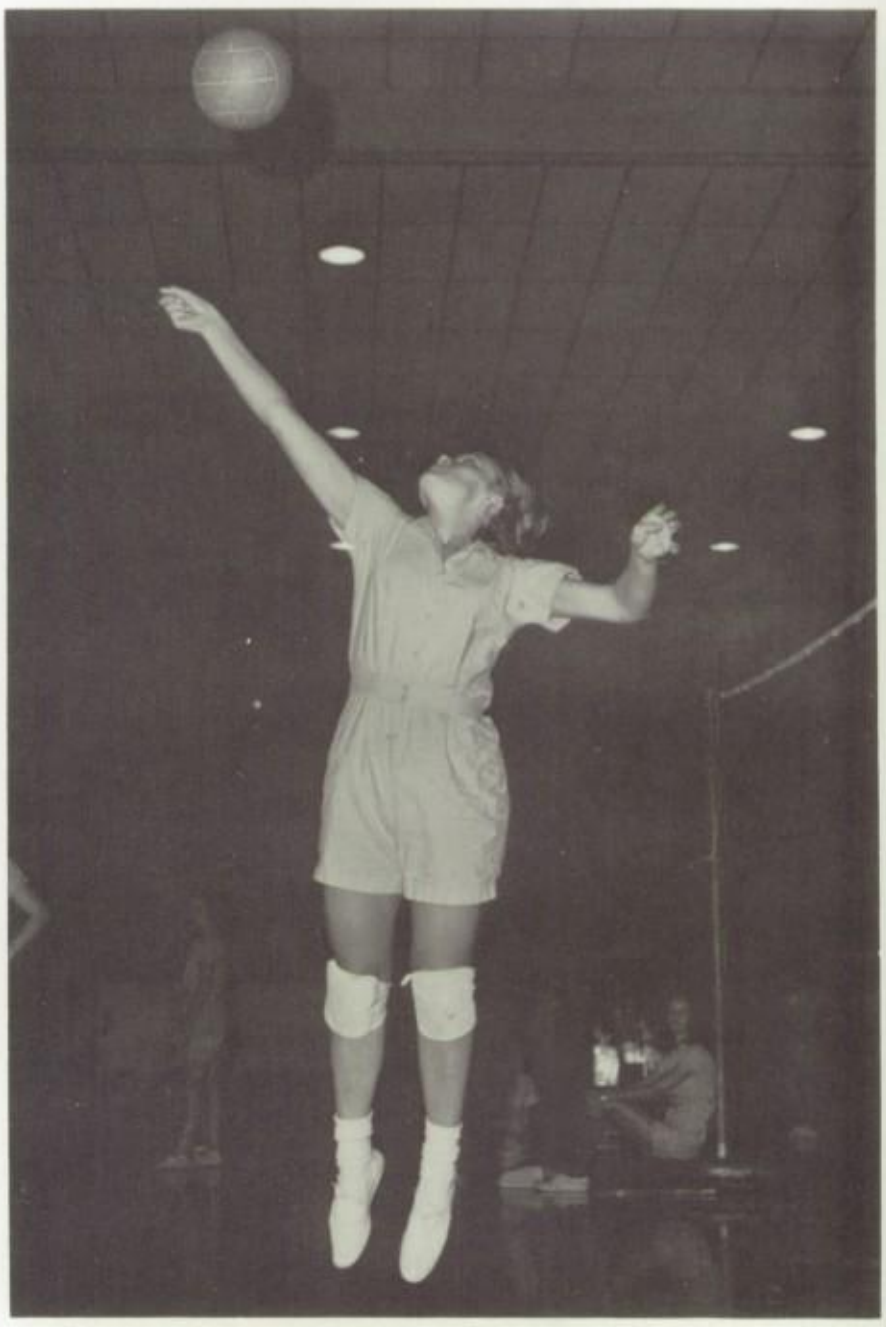
WHIRLING through the air, Vickie Harding successfully completes a flip while executing tricky tumbling and athletic skills on a trampoline.



CALLING upon all her strength, skill and agility, Gayle Coit jumped toward the volley ball in an attempt to score the winning point for her team.

Fair sex compete on local, state levels

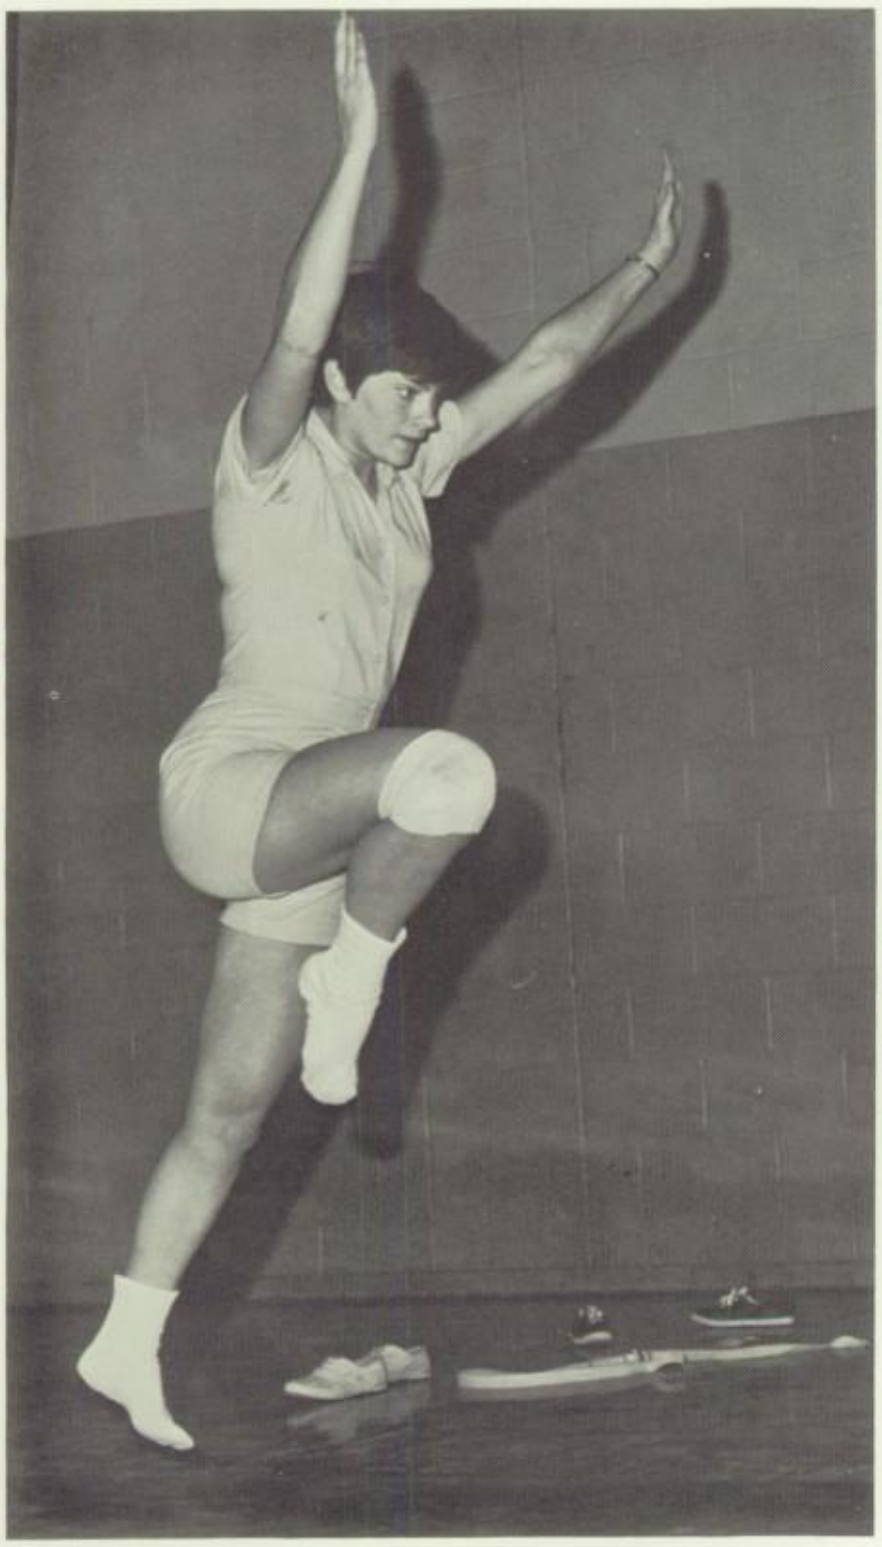
Athletic competition need not be limited to boys; girls can also be involved in such events as softball, volleyball and basketball. To start the season the girls competed against different schools in and around the city, then moved on into state competition. Individual sports included tennis, badminton, track and field sports at the end of the year.

To be eligible for girls sports, one must have lettered in three different sports in the first year of P.E., then one must pass written tests on each sport and skill tests on ability to play each major position of the sport in competition.



WITH EYES intent on the mat, Joyce Harvey prepared herself for the necessary, careful timing of her movements to execute a hand flip.

"ALLEY OOP!" Volleying it back over the net, Melinda Bond hit the ball with an underhand return to the opposing team in hopes of scoring a point.

Amateur writers gain info on form

Shortening the generation gap, teachers devised modern techniques for reaching today's teen. Recordings of the Beatles, Bill Cosby, Richard Engles and Jim Webb brought a new twist to the standard poetry and short story study—emerging as a 'pop music' hour.

Creative Writing and World Literature, newly added senior courses, inspired students to broaden literary knowledge and composition technique. Single semester classes-Creative Writing focused on creativity rather than grammatical training, while World Literature centered on around-the-world writings, authors and philosophies.

Grammar, presented with more visual aides than formerly, emphasized the usage and selection of parts of speech aiming toward correct and effective conversation. Themes and term papers, scored on content and form, constituted a massive part of English courses.

Becket, Adventures of a Young Man and Julius Caesar were among some of the films viewed to increase students' understanding and knowledge of authors and their works.

CHARTS showing the comparative length of the jurisdiction of the various houses in the Anglo-Saxon period helped Becky Schumacher with her research of the motivation of the early literature in her English IV class.

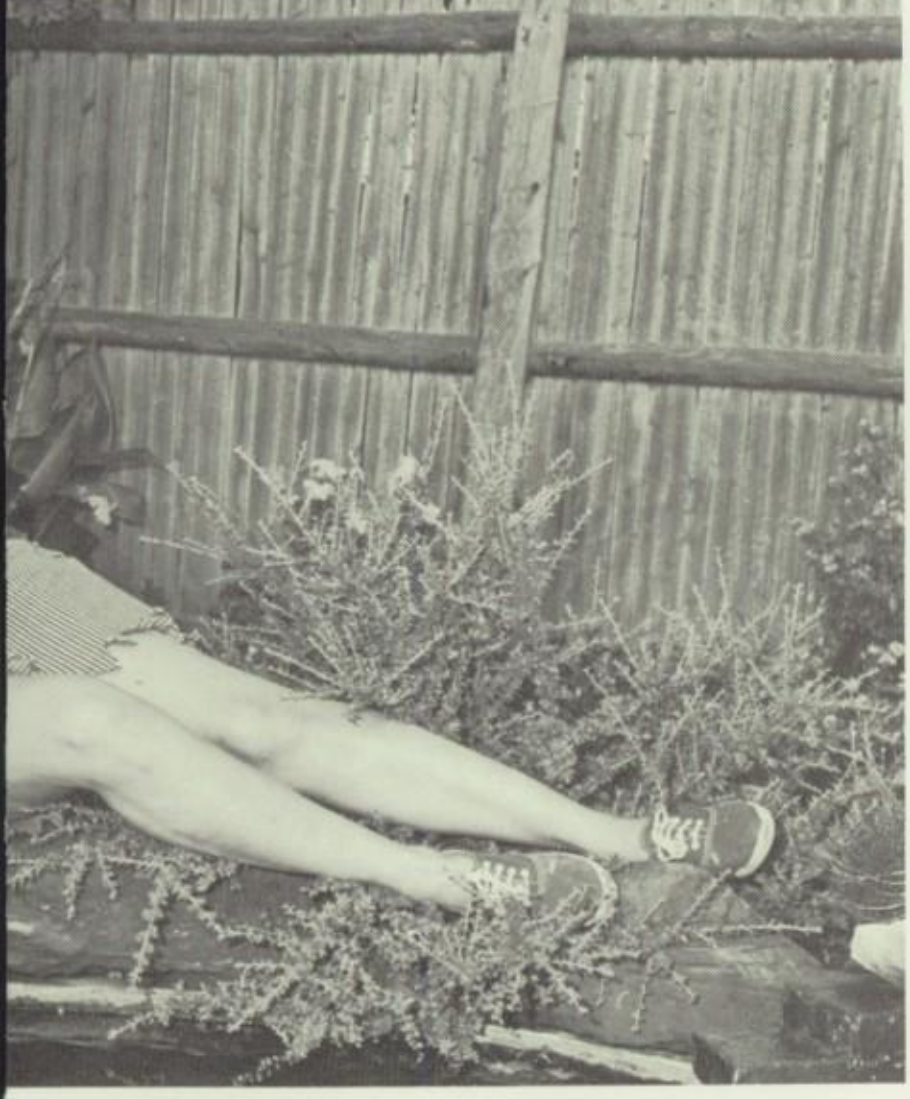
fore 'senioritis' takes over. Studying for senior English assignments and tests took many hours as did all other senior classes and activities.



HOURS spent in the library searching for material to be used on papers and themes became an essential part of reference work to Betty Garrett.

COLORS became the easiest thing for Spanish students to learn. Classroom displays of flags of the nations of the Americas contained a perfect teaching aid. Pam Rylander observed that the American flag is 'roja, azul y blanca'.

Foreign Language

Students acquire appreciation of customs

CHRISTMAS brought a welcome change in the way classes were conducted. French classes took advantage of the season to study the carols and customs of France during the Yuletide. Jennifer Griffith put her skill on the flute to good use by playing traditional songs for her class.

AUTHENTIC beer mugs made interesting study for students enrolled in German classes. Mike Hirst examined contents as well as the container.

different countries

For the first time in twelve years, textbooks in Spanish I, II, III and IV were changed, as were those in Latin I, II and III. In addition to the book change, four new teachers were added to the staff of this department, bringing the total to nine.

To learn the modern languages, French, German and Spanish teachers employed the 'ALM' method of teaching. In the audio lingual method, composed of visual, oral and aural learning, the student could see, speak and hear the language. Latin was taught in the more traditional method of verb conjugation, from which students proceeded to simple stories and then to the works of famous ancient authors, such as Caesar.

Films and the language laboratory were also used as teaching aids. For Spanish classes, films about Mexico City, Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guatemala and Spain gave vivid descriptions of the people, country and customs. Similar films, including some classics, were rented for French, German and Latin departments.

In the language lab, which consists of thirty-five booths, the teacher played prerecorded tapes which followed the text. Different lessons or records could be played at the same time. The student listened to the tape and then repeated it, hearing himself simultaneously. By being heard by only himself the student benefited from correcting his mistakes. More individual attention was available from the instructor than ordinary classroom equipment and teaching aids would allow.

ORIENTATION proved to be an opportune time for Marva Barnes and Brenda Hutcheson to promote Spanish club to Donna Thomson.

SMEARS were prepared by Kathy Howard for the examination of yeast to determine the bacteria in the tissue through the lens of a microscope.

Science

Scientists delve into advanced studies

Added to the courses offered by the science department was Biology II, which gave the major emphasis to more advanced and detailed study in the areas of genetics and biochemistry. In addition, this course offered more sophisticated laboratory experiments which included dissecting pigs and labeling insects. The films, textbooks, laboratory experiments, drawings and learning by inquiry gave students a deeper insight into the scientific field.

Physical Science lectures were combined with lab work with the topics ranging from mechanics to wave motions. The course in Physics gave practical emphasis to the knowledge gained in previous math courses and qualified students to understand the fundamental physical motions of time, space and matter; detailed discussions of the wave and particle theory of light and the ideas of motion and its causes; concluding with a look at electricity and ideas of atomic structure.

Use of the slide rule was taught in Chemistry classes instead of in after-school seminars. The students did more experiments on their own instead of watching demonstrations by the teacher. Although this course is largely for the students who are going to continue with the study of science in college, it was also significant to the terminal student. Chemistry deals not not only with scientific problem solving but also develops techniques used in solving other problems.

ERUDITE respect for the care needed in scientific experiments led Janie Stover and Mark Hurd to pay cautious attention to the procedures to sucessfully complete their experiment in collecting hydrogen by heating chemicals.

ONCE defanged, rattlesnakes do not make as fearsome opponents. This snake was not alive, but just to be on the safe side, Stanley Fletcher removed the venom from his specimen's teeth before attempting to dissect it.

LABELING insects was one of the projects for the new Biology II classes. Jan Filippo augmented the colorful collection with her own contribution.

GOOD intentions may be misunderstood. Although this bird in distress needed care for his broken leg, he kept a wary eye on Margaret Ellis.

Combined courses lay groundwork for

VISUALIZATION of three-dimensional figures became easier for Ann Cheney with the aid of a solid cone while researching algebraic figures.

Enabling seniors to pursue math study the entire year, Trigonometry and Math Analysis were combined to formulate a new two-semester course, Advanced High School Math. Providing an additional year of mathematic enrichment for desiring seniors, topics of individual choice were studied at the students' own speed. Topics ordinarily considered beyond the high school level were studied in preparation for college. Terms such as hyperbolas, theorems, polynomials and formulas which may not be generally understood became part of the regular vocabulary of these inquisitive-minded students.

Traditional courses offered by the Math department encouraged extensive study throughout four high school years. Modern and SMSG Geometry, Algebra I, II and Senior Math Seminar provided categories for advancement. Business Math, a single-semester subject, incorporated the mathematical technology applied in business offices. This included discounting, retailing, accounting, purchasing, and taxing.

Supplementing texts and work books, blackboard graphs, opaque and overhead projectors and mathematical instruments aided the lecture method of subject presentation. Graph-top desks assisted students in readily visualizing the plotting, graphing and charting of lines, curves and scales.

BURYING his nose in his textbook, Greg Myers concentrated on basic concepts which introduced calculus into the Math Analysis course.

future college study

PROVING the theorem of circular tangencies and bisectors,Susan Scurlock demonstrated her proof before the class with the teacher's protractor.

MUSING over the mechanics of a mammoth slide rule, Cindy Fleming, John Smith and Dow Sayer calculated numeral digits for problem computations.

CALLED upon to display his geometric problem on the blackboard, Steve Jones hesitantly questioned the accuracy of his two-column proof. Having completed the required steps, a sigh of relief escaped from him upon his learning that the given and proven statements were precise.

Observance of child behavior enriches

ENRICHING their knowledge in study of cultures, Richard Andeel and Gary Cotter located sites of historical landmarks around the world.

Concepts of the world around us develop almost from the moment of birth. Psychology students were given the opportunity to observe children from two to nearly five answer questions and identify objects in intelligence tests. One Psychology class went on a field trip to visit the Enid State Home for mentally retarded children. Psychology and Sociology, one-semester courses related to each other, indicated the importance of social relations in human behavior and interpreted basic characteristics of social groups. Feature length movies, A Patch of Blue, Three Faces of Eve and A Raisin in the Sun, were studies of modern day social and racial problems.

World History, covering the study of the earliest hunters to present day events, gave students a clearer understanding of the reasons behind world situations, yesterday and today. Documentaries of World Wars I and II, A Tale of Two Cities and several films on famous men were shown to the history classes.

Compiling a newspaper of the 1800-1812 period and studying Newsweek magazine gave American History students a deeper concept into both the political and social side of the U.S. Raising the curtain of mysterious Russia, Russian History probed into its past and examined the cultural, political and religious issues leading to the communistic dictatorship. Listening to concerts, dance music and poems by Russian composers and poets brought out some of the cultural feelings of Russian people. With this course, students came closer to understanding the inner objectives of the U.S.S.R.

CHOICE of electives is becoming wider in the school curriculum each year. In order to choose wisely before pre-enrollment, Kathy Smith, junior, previewed Russian History with Mrs. Kathryne Sandlin.

Business

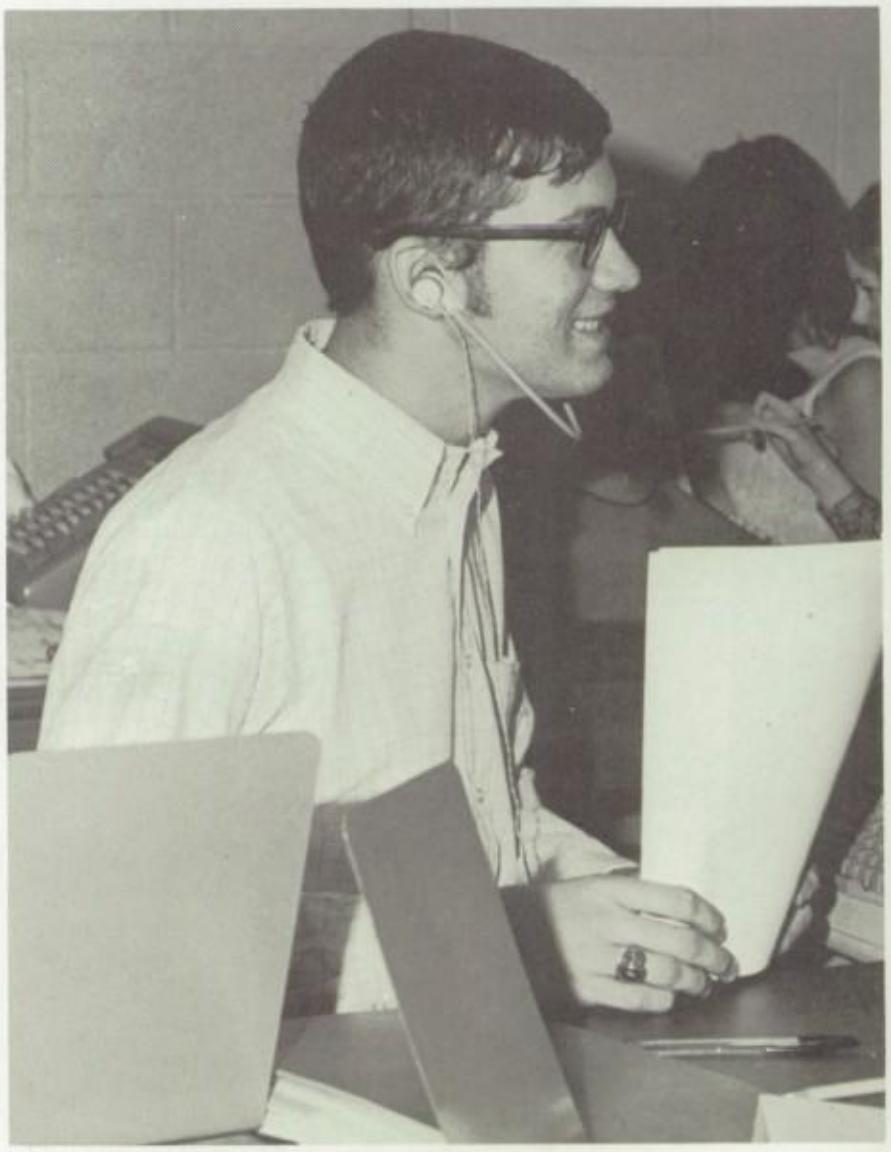
Training drills novices for working world

Unique in that it was for sophomores only, a new course was added to Putnam City's business curriculum. Career's and Occupations offered guidance to new high schoolers in choosing their professional preferences.

Occupational experiences and vocational qualifications were made available to students in other business courses as well. Calculators, keypunch similators, duplicating equipment, adding machines, dictaphones and typewriters promoted the student learning process. Overhead projectors and tapes were used in shorthand tests in addition to standardized records. An adaptation of 'Bingo' was utilized to add spice to the class and to help students remember brief forms. An employer-employee situation was applied in Typing II to introduce students to the reality of job relationships.

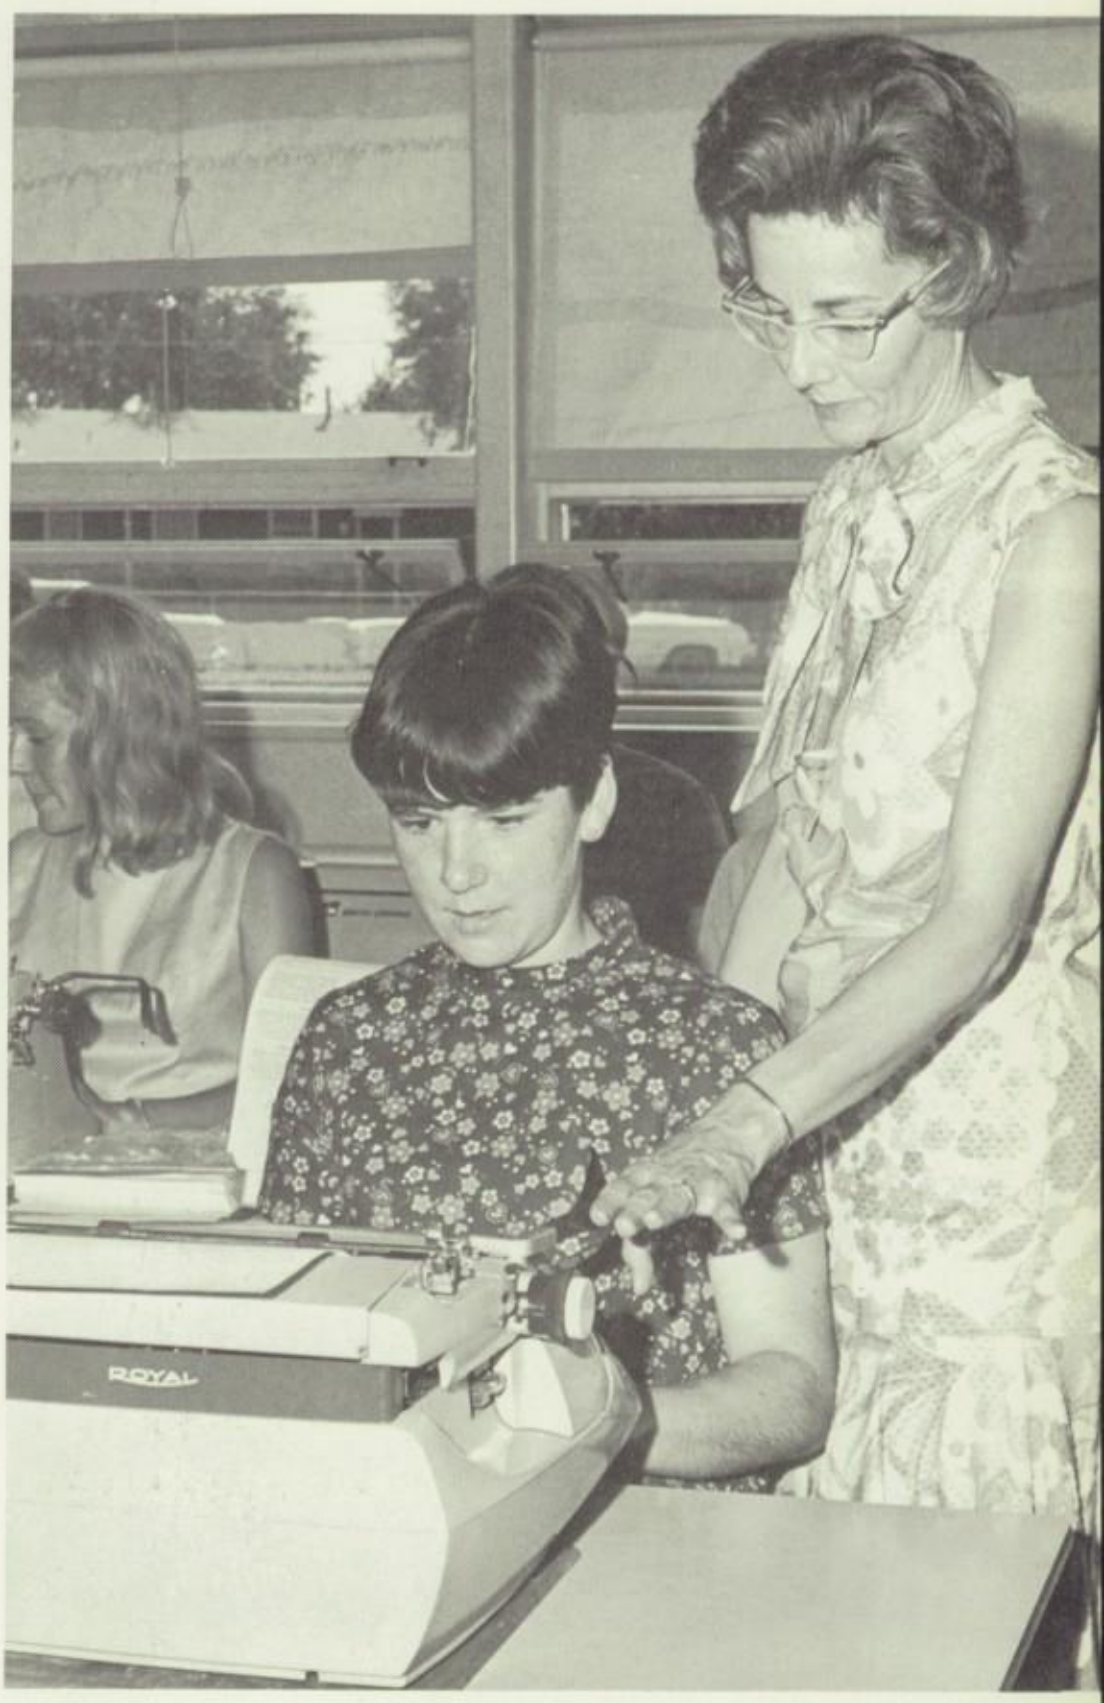
Films were shown to students in secretarial training, typing and shorthand. Office Teamwork and How to Keep a Job helped pupils to understand that being prepared for a job involves more than just occupational ability and skill.

VITAL business data, recorded and played back by dictaphones, was used by Bill Hudson as he combined resources to complete his COE assignment.



VITAL business statistics, recorded and played back on dictaphones, were used by Bill Hudson on the adding machine to complete his assignments.

SKILL in the usage of secretarial equipment was developed in business class. Joan Arnold and Kelly Malchi operated the duplicating machine.



THE GUIDING hand of Mrs. Midge Teter was all that was required to help smooth out the problems faced by first-year typing student, Donna Murray.

Distributive Education

Students learn of retailing business

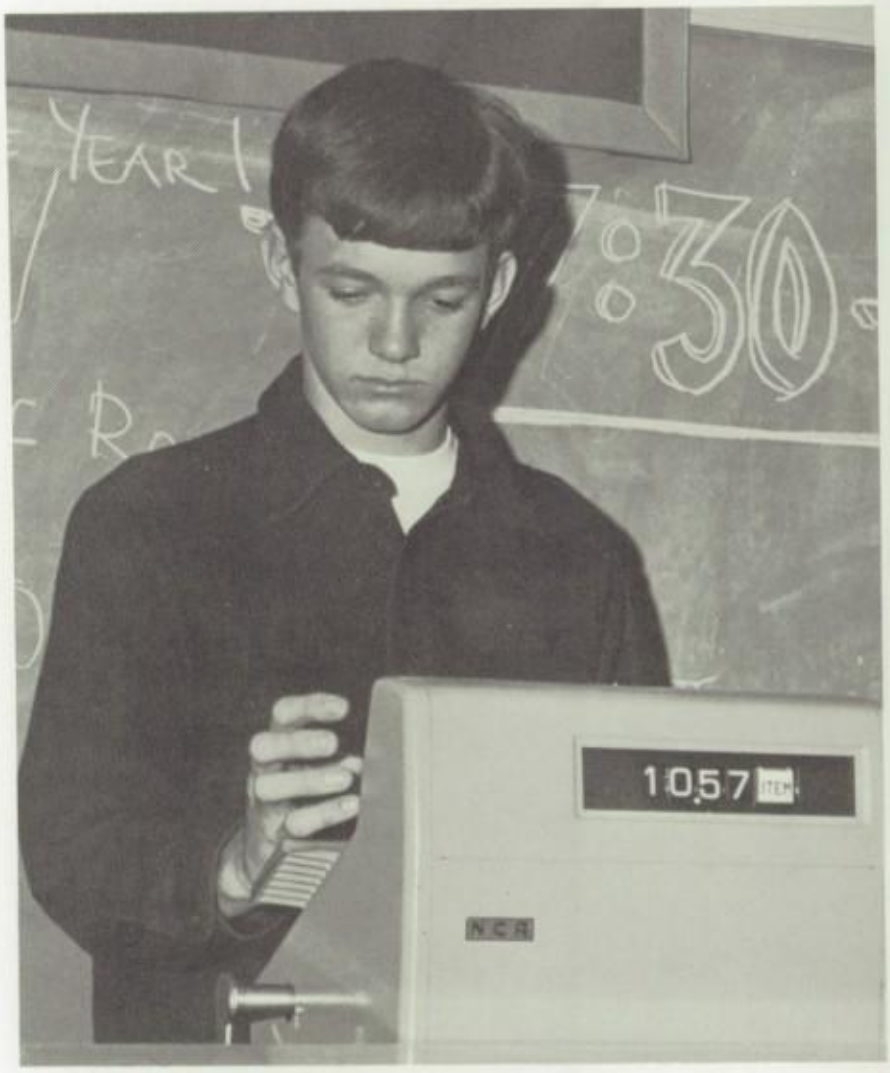
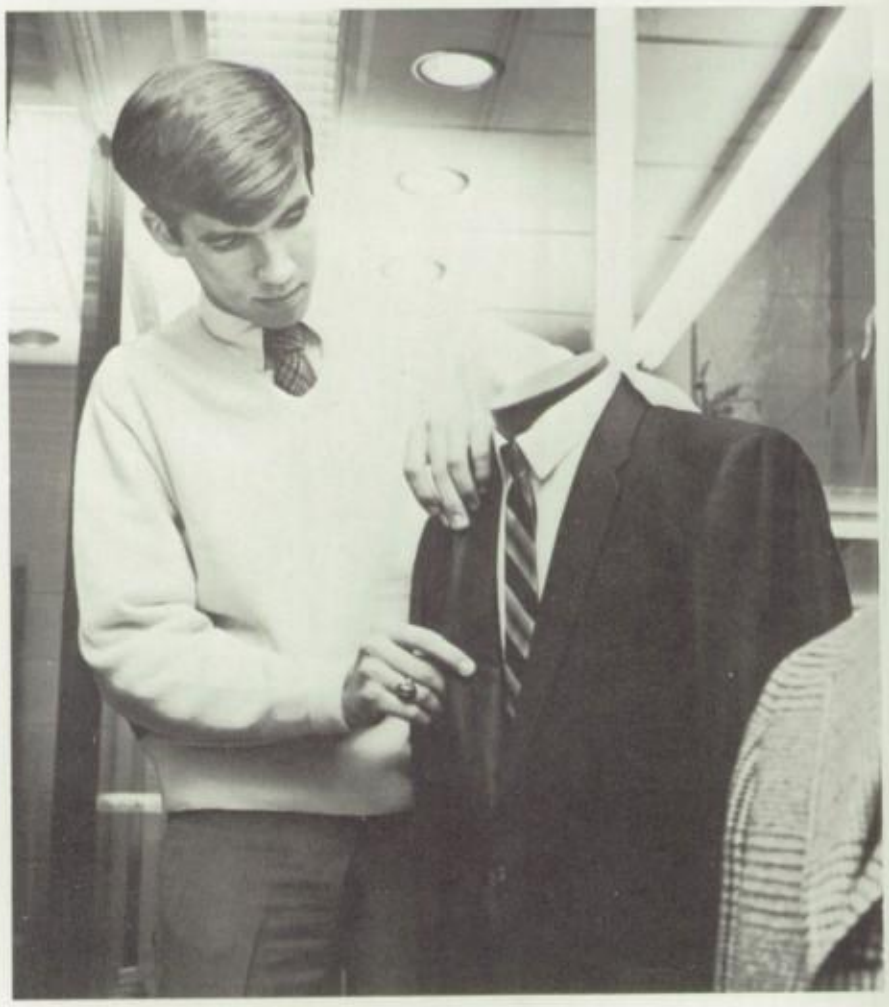
College-bound students benefited from a specially designed course which developed general business background. Working under the direct supervision of a store sponsor who was partially responsible for the training, the students spent at least fifteen hours per week in on-the-job training in a local business establishment. Public relations, selling techniques and management were studied during the Distributive Education classes. The completion of a full year's program, containing daily occupational experiences and classroom study, resulted in the reception of two credits toward graduation requirements. The classes, composed of juniors and seniors, learned skills and attitudes necessary for future full-time employment.



CASH registers are an important part of retailing and must be run accurately. Knowing this, Mike Freels took some class time to practice.

TACT in working with people becomes part of any job. Jill Fuller put classroom hints to good use while bidding 'good-evening' to customers.

WINDOW displays are the first thing seen by a prospective buyer. Don Gray made some final adjustments on his latest advertising venture.



KNOWLEDGE gained through on-the-job experience prepares Co-operative Education students for the demanding business world. An employee of the Rainbow Travel Agency, Jackie Dallas, displayed pamphlets for Chris Meeks.

Cooperative Office Education

Office proficiency applied by senior girls

'PRACTICE makes perfect' was the motto of Susan Pickens, as she took to her typewriter to achieve this goal, the mark of an efficient employee.

Valuable work experience for career exploration and financial self-help were incorporated in the COE program which was made available to senior girls enrolled in business courses. Those enrolled in COE, attending business classes in the morning and working in the afternoon, earned three credits toward requirements needed for graduation.

Mimeographing, stenography and reception work were some of the fields offered. Over half of the participants continued on the jobs after graduation. Employers filled out evaluation sheets on the affirmative and negative traits of their personnel, which helped students see their strong points and also areas which needed improvement.

ASPECTS of the business world, including accurate files, became part of the everyday life of students who were in C.O.E. such as Robbie Boswell.

Cast performs modern full-length movie

PAINT cans don't serve as very apt resting places after a 5-flight climb, but Becky Ricks, Corey's mom in Barefoot in the Park found solace in comforting phrases by Corey, Chris Carson, and Paul, Steve Morton.

TAKING in the full scope of their new apartment, Paul, played by Steve Morton, and Corey, played by Chris Carson, visualize it when refurbished.

EXHILARATIVE rehearsing for his part as delivery man in Barefoot in the Park, took Charles Delhotal to the air to emphasize a particular point.

in fall all-school play

Theater-in-the-round, scene of one of the four presentations of the Drama Department, was another first for Putnam City. In addition to a musical and a children's play, an evening presentation of the all-school play, Barefoot in the Park, was staged in November.

To prepare for upcoming tournaments and contests, a new video-tape machine was utilized by speech and debate classes. The challenge of competion was offered in 20 intrastate and 5 interstate contests hosted in Missouri, District of Columbia, Arkansas and Texas. Orations were also prepared for the three main contests, Voice of Democracy, the American Legion Oratory Contest and American Heritage, which were based on governmental issues.

Literary cuttings and one-act plays for the advanced Drama II students followed the fundamentals of acting, interpretations and pantomimes studied in Drama I. From impromptu speeches to chalk talks, Speech I developed good public speaking habits and appeal that could be utilized for personal enrichment in future education and professions.

DRAMATICALLY reading an excerpt from Barefoot in the Park, Becky Ricks rehearses for the part of Corey's mother, one of the characters.

UNDER the strain of a heavy saddle, mock horse Larry Ishmael felt slightly apprehensive about the idea of being ridden. Nikki Green explained the use of the saddle girth in a demonstration talk for Speech class.

Creativity emerges from raw materials

Creating forms of art and imagery from clay, ceramics, metal and wood released the inspiring abilities of fine and industrial arts students. Nimble fingers and inventive ideas emerged in completed form as canvas portraits and wooden chess boards.

Exposing students to every phase of artistic media, art appreciation and history formulated extensive research backgrounds necessary before further study and application. Participation in art festivals and separate competition, such as the 'paint in', provided worthwhile experiences for skillful students.

Reviving run-down car motors to workable order and rebuilding car bodies offered practical experience to auto mechanics students interested in prospective automotive work. Tables, candlesticks, bookcases and chairs were constructed out of raw lumber by woodworking classes.

Agriculture applied scientific research in solving farming problems. Divisions of ranching were studied according to the needs of the various sections of the country.

TRANSPARENCIES used on the overhead projector by Mr. Cecil Cannon aided mechanical drawing students in visualizing angles of diagrams.

LIKE a master amid an artistic and apropos atmosphere, Pam Walters used her talented fingers to sculpture her own creation in the Art III course.

CHECKING to see if the shock absorbers were functioning correctly and if the axle was up to par, Dean Burtcher performed drastic changes on this old car. Hard-work, grease and grime is the life of an auto mechanic student. It just might end up running, if everything goes all right.

PREPARING the beginning sketch for an assignment in Art II, Connie Caldwell used a creative touch to perfect a possible prize-winning project.

REASSEMBLING a car motor, Travis Honeycutt and Bill Bolz, auto mechanic students, replaced the distributor cap and checked the ignition.

Fitness, sportsmanship and competition

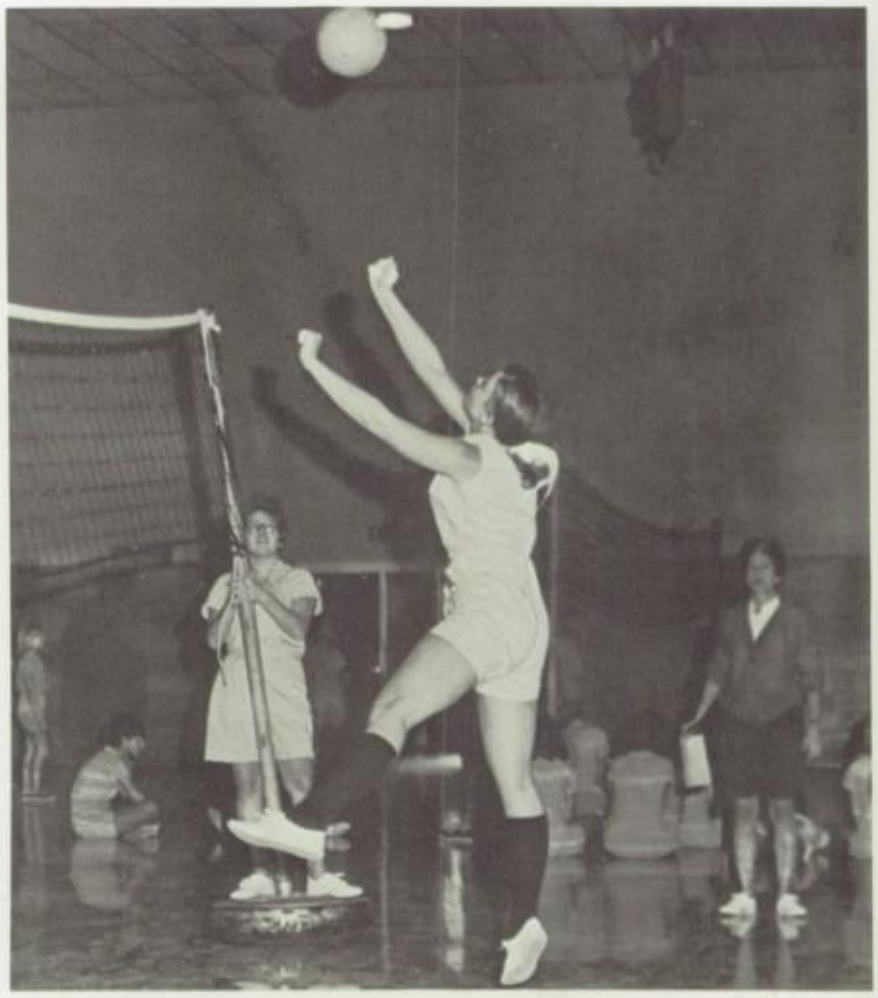
WITH a fistful of power and forceful determination, Melinda Millican clubbed the volleyball over the net during her physical education class.



STRETCHING tall into the air, Vicki Harding strived to hit the volleyball back over the net in an attempt to gain a victory for her team.

PRIOR to beginning their basketball game, Coach Elam Pebworth reviewed the court rules and discussed the personal fouls with the team members.

stressed for health

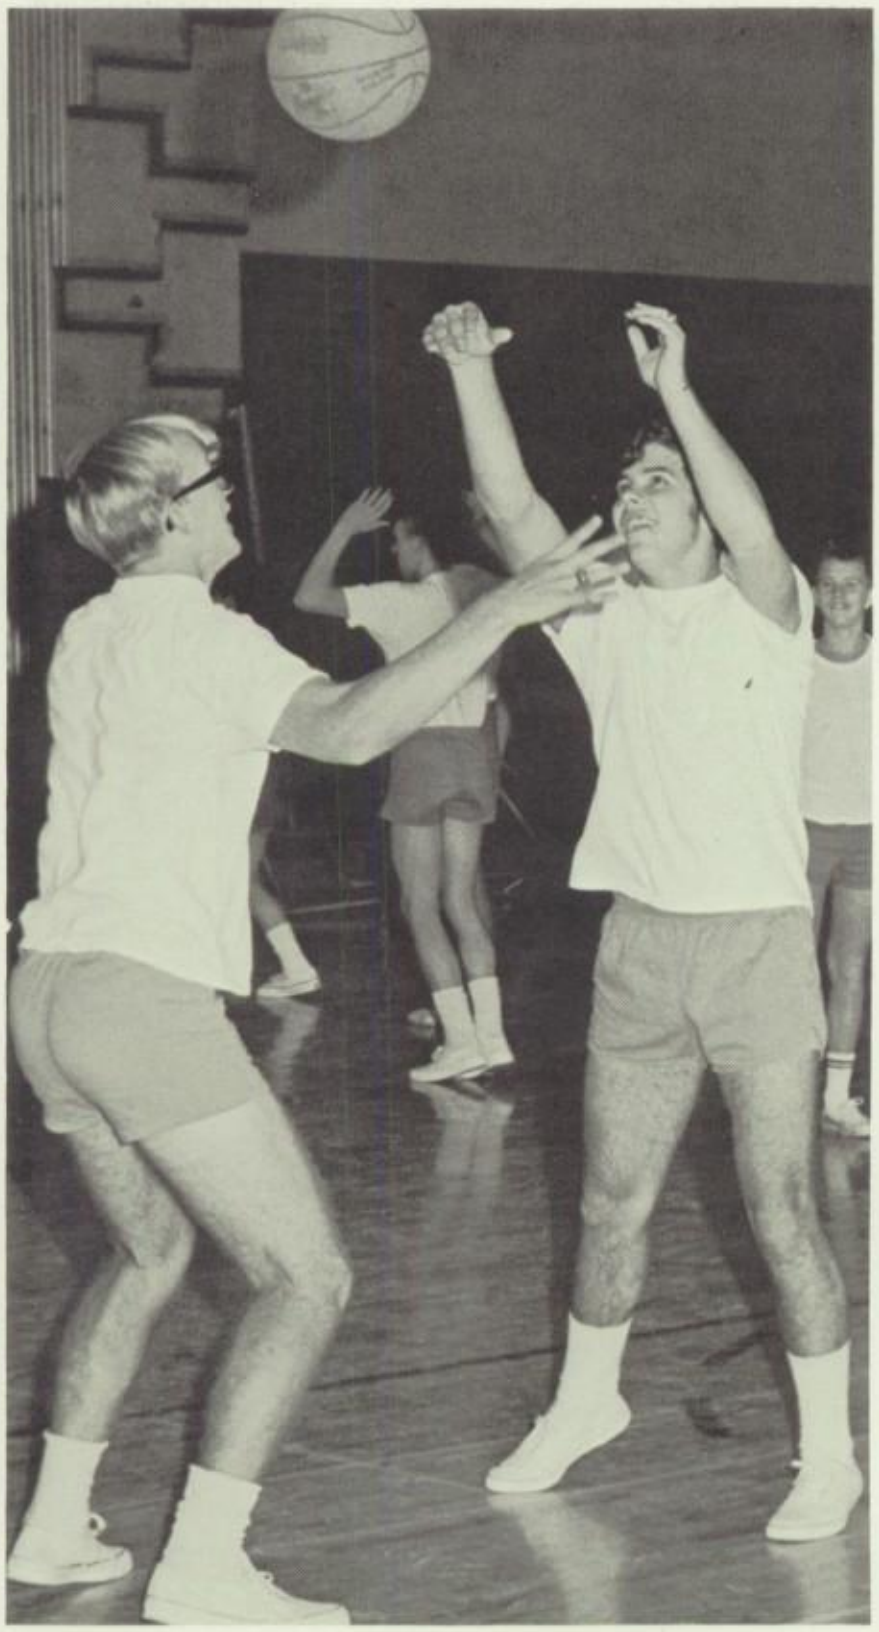
Jumping jacks, sit-ups, windmills and push-ups as well as sports such as volleyball, basketball, baseball, tennis and tumbling compiled the varied schedule of the physical ed. classes. Competition within the separate classes in various sports, promoted feelings of good sportsmanship which developed toward other teams and their members.

Physical fitness, a heavily stressed institution nationally, was readily encouraged by the planned curriculum.



BASIC basketball moves were used as a part of the warm-up exercises in physical education class by Tom MacCalester and Rickie Kern, seniors.

BRACING for trampoline contact, Bobby Smith completed his flip in lay-out position, which called for precision in timing and body placement.

BELIEVE it or not, Miss Ivine Paris is directing a gym class rather than an orchestra. Vicki Harding watched amusedly while doing stunts.

AIDED by the new driving simulator, Mr. Tom Cheatwood recreated a traffic problem, explaining one of the numerous hazards of rush-hour driving.

WITH a desire to learn the correct techniques of driving, Wayne Neukumet listened to directions on the operation of the simulator.

Drivers Education

Driving simulators keep PC up to date

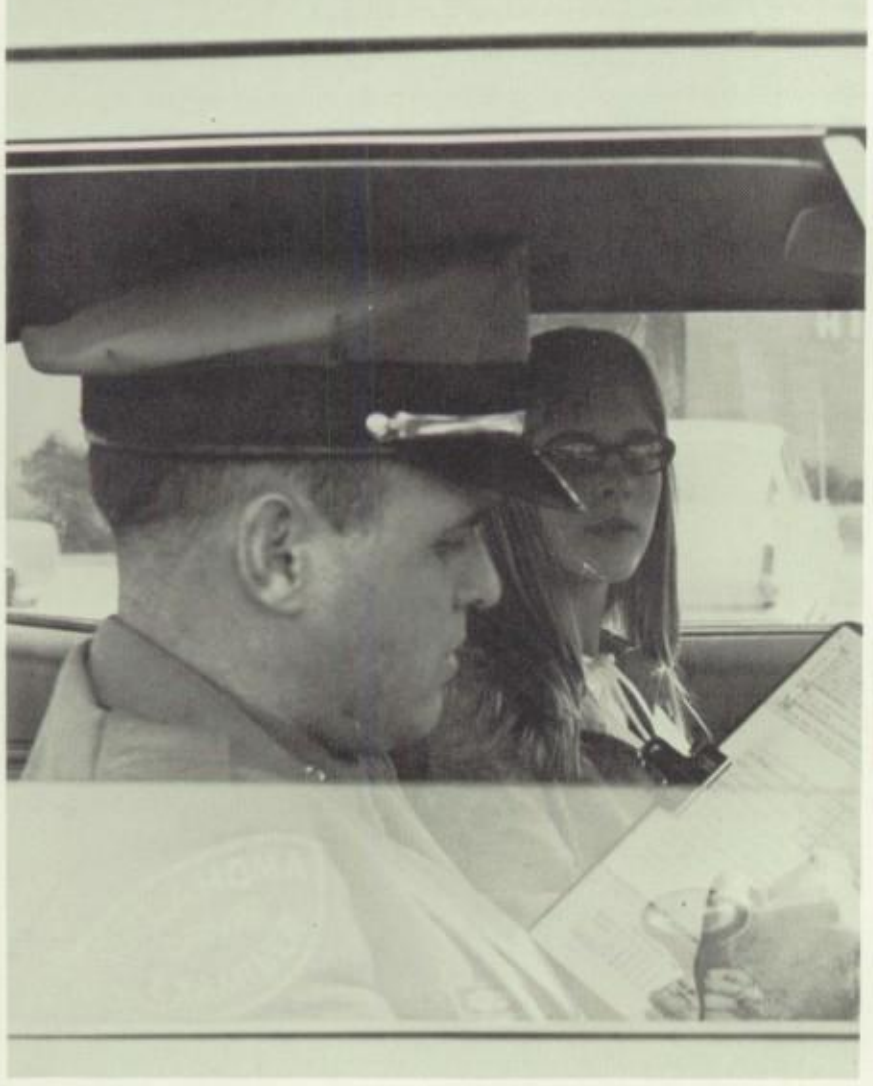
Newly incorporated into Putnam's Driver Education facilities, the driving simulator gave students the impression of actual driving without the danger involved in puting a newly-orientated student on the road. The roads on which those using the simulator drove were projected on a screen.

In addition to the discussions on safety, the course included a study of the major parts of the engine. Thirty class hours, 3 driving hours and 12 simulator hours were required for completion of this course.

Approximately 352 students enrolled in the course each semester, at the end of which an official from the Safety Department gave the driving part of the test to those who filled the requirements for their driver's license.



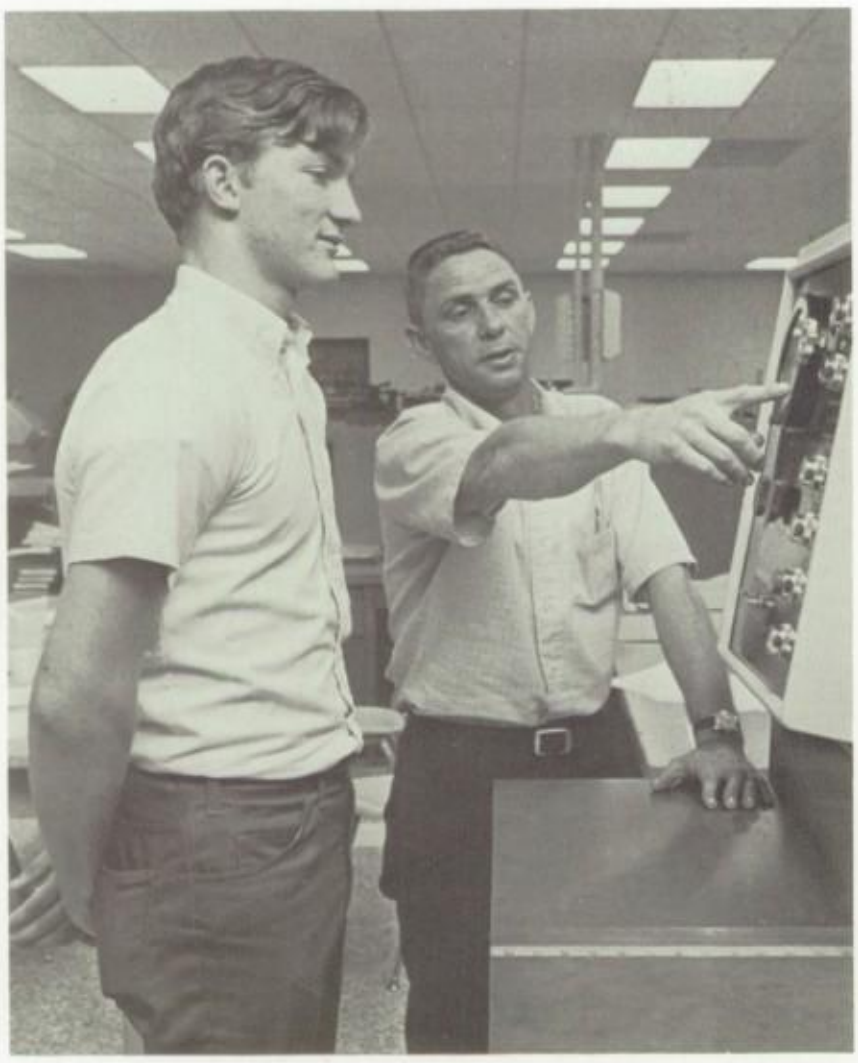
WONDERING how she scored, Nancy Doll waited while an officer from the State Department of Public Safety computed the results of her test.

ALL'S clear Janice Smith decided and after a quick look in the rear-view mirror began to maneuver the car from P.C.'s parking lot for her test.

OKLAHOMA City's Area Vocational-Technical Center, located in the southwest part of town, offered students from all over the city a chance to learn trade skills. Buses shipped students to the Technology school for the morning and then to their respective high schools for their afternoon courses. Vocational and technical training is offered to both juniors and seniors.

Vocational School

Opportunity offered to obtain trade skills



JOINING forces to learn letter press operations, Putnam City HS students combined with learners from all over Oklahoma City. Printing mechanisms were pointed out by Mr. James Odell to Classen HS student, Larry Cutler.

Broadening the outreach of vocational education with students attending the Center a half-day and the other half-day spent at the home school, the Oklahoma City Area Vocational-Technical Center dedicated itself to the task of offering quality programs for the benefit of high school students. The Center cooperates as a joint venture of the Oklahoma City Public School System and the State Department of Vocational-Technical Education.

Programs offered were one to two years in length depending upon the particular specialized area. Students were admitted into the various programs based upon their aptitude, interest, ability and past performance in school work. Courses such as computer programing, electronics, chemical technology, drafting, commercial art, printing, medical and dental assistance, mechanics and refrigeration were offered to high school juniors and seniors.

Vocational and technical programs in the high schools will continue to function and be expanded. An Area Center is to provide vocational and technical education that cannot be offered in a comprehensive high school.

Similar to the Student Council, the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, VICA, promoted student government and activities. District and state meetings stressed leadership training among chapter officers. Three Putnam City students held offices in their VICA chapters.

Publication of the VICA Flyer, the school newspaper, established a novel 'first' for the Area Center. VICA news, local, state-wide and nationally was covered by the paper which also featured an all-school sports section.

COMPUTER science, one of the fascinating crafts taught at the Vocational School, involved PC students Tom Tharnish and John Wickersham.

TRAINING to become a dentist's assistant, Janet Zevnik practiced at the Vocational School on her fellow student, Mary Ravero from Saint Mary's.

Putnam City's own presents TV special

'Music makers' of Putnam City began the year with a fall presentation of excerpts from musicals. The Mixed Chorus gave a Christmas Program at Shepherd Mall and appeared in a TV special. The Vocal Music Department joined with the Band and Drama Departments in presenting an all-school musical.

A new ensemble class, consisting of 8 boys and 6 girls, was originated. Out of the 14, there were a mixed quartet, boys quartet and trio, who performed at church functions, the FBLA Christmas party and a Putnam All-Sports Meeting.

Singers unite to star in school musicals

BRINGING each part into perfect tune was one of the problems of director, Mrs. Fern Friedlander. Steve Dickson, Don Sherry, Pauletta Hyden, Gerald Pollard and Tom Heck practiced the lyrics to 'Step to the Rear' from the Broadway musical, George M.

Precision manuevers bring back awards

Three short blasts from the whistle of Putnam's first female drum major, Debbie Durall, put 192 feet on the move with rhythm. This prize-winning marching band won a superior trophy at the District Contest for the first time in 17 years under their new director, Mr. Walter Coker.

Inter-class bands with selected members added a musical background to the Veteran's Day and Christmas assemblies, and strived for improvement through experience.

MAJORETTES of Putnam City's 1968-1969 band were Brenda Good, Kathy Painter, Cathy McLaughlin, Debbie McDonald, Brenda Hutcheson, Debbie Durall, PC's first female band major and Katrina Dennis, majorette.

QUEEN Brenda Hutcheson was attended by Bob Baxter, Tom Armstrong, Nita Fry, Frank Gill, Janet Head, Jerry Lawson and Susan Tomberlin.

OFFICERS of Band were Kim Smith, Secretary; Sheryl Massey, Librarian; Janice Austin, Treasurer; Mr. Walter Coker, Band Director; Frank Gill, Vice-President; David Danner, President; Janie Swyden, Chaplain.

SPORTS staff, Rick Schaeffer, Steve Grant and Pat Worrilow, scanned through football program to find a player for story for The Pirate Log.

AS the Press Assembly came to an end, esort Rick Schaeffer breathed a sigh of relief to Lee Ann Slayton, the newly-crowned Press Queen for '68.

GATHERING facts of school events and writing the stories were the duties of reporters for The Pirate Log. Sue Morgan, Carol-Lynne Moore, Brenda Rice, David Bell, Eleanor Burford, Steve Shockey, Ross Ameringer, Lynette Mutz, Dee Anne Wooten and Laura Watson were staffers.

CHOSEN for their ability and efforts on the newspaper staff, Press Queen attendants were Sue Atkins, Rita Claborn and Teri Reznicek, all editors of The Pirate Log.

Staffers work toward high-rated paper

UPON completion of selling her ads, Brenda Johnson, ad manager for the newspaper, arranged them on the paste-ups for their final publication.

Sports and Homecoming programs, newspaper and radio correspondence and nation-wide paper exchanges made up the multiple extensions handled by the staff. PC correspondents collaborated with four Oklahoma City area papers to notify the state of school activities and statewide radio coverage came over the KOMA radio station. Staff members dispatched The Pirate Log in exchange for other high school papers.

Learning new and ever-changing methods, the '68 staff attended the Summer Publications Workshop on the University of Oklahoma campus, which also hosted the OIPA Fall and Spring Conferences. In November, they traveled to the Oklahoma State campus for 'J-Day', sponsored by the OSU Journalism department. Putnam City made an outstanding showing at the awards luncheon at which the staff received nine top awards for news, editorials, features and sports writings.

During National Press Week, The Pirate Log staff presented the annual Press Assembly over which the newspaper editor reigned as queen. Ernie Schultz, news director at WKY-TV, spoke to PC students concerning the news coverage of civil disorders and the national presidential election.

High honor rating goal for bi-monthly

EDITORS: Rita Claborn, managing, Sue Akins, photography, Terie Rez nicek, feature, Bill Witt, editorial, and Lee Ann Slayton, editor-in-chief.

PHOTOGRAPHERS, Tom Falter, John Powers, Randy Nichols, John Alfson and Harry Falter covered all the major school events for the paper.

BUSINESS staff of the Pirate Log consisted of Diane Dunlop, circulation; Karen Kleen, staff typist; Greg Deaton, ads; and Becky Brand, manager.

URGING staff members through deadlines were the editors of the 1968-69 Treasure Chest, Paula Bobo, production manager, Graceann Sliger, copy editor, Lynda Holley, editor-in-chief, and Pam Furgerson, photography editor and yearbook queen.

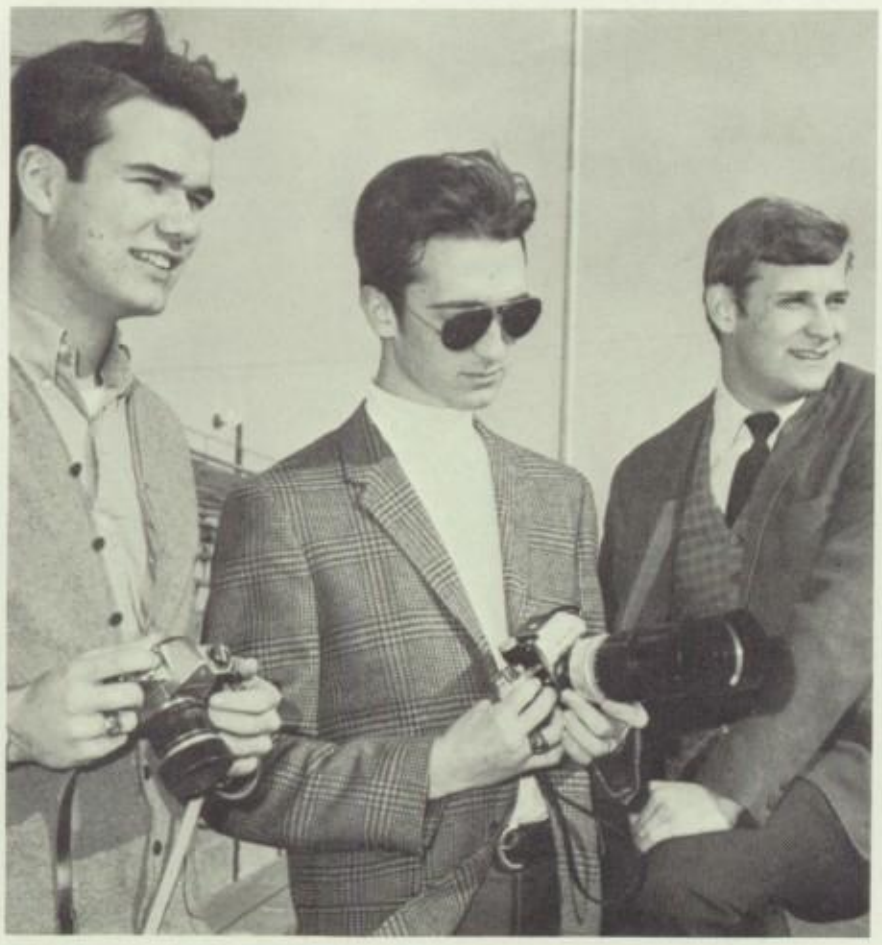
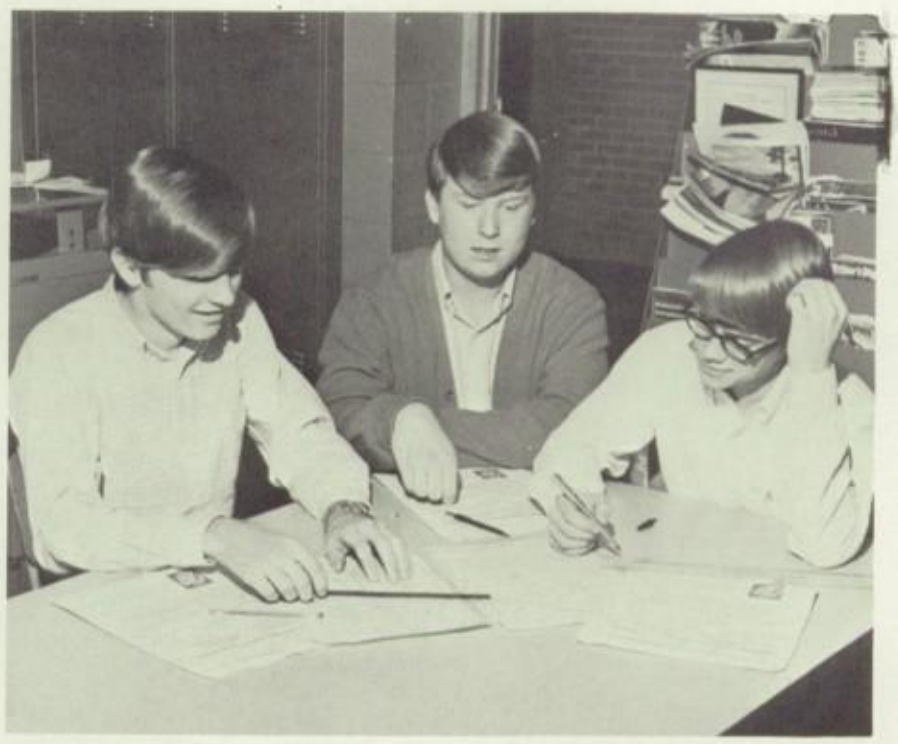
NOMINATED by the Treasure Chest staff and elected by the student body on the basis of their participation in the production of the yearbook and their services in various school activities were the 1968-1969 Yearbook Queen, Pam Furgerson, photography editor, and attendants, Lynda Holley, editor-in-chief and Graceann Sliger, copy editor. They were presented during the 68-69 yearbook assembly in May.



HOLDING the darkroom fort, Bruce Weaver, Ross Spicer and Gary Fearnow, head photographer, focused on picture ideas for sports pages.



SPORTS WRITERS, Craig Farrill, Mike Anderson, editor, and Pat Williams contributed to the Treasure Chest by covering Putnam sports events.

YEARBOOK isn't all writing. Pictures and bookkeeping kept Diana Fant, assistant photography editor and Bob Ballard, business manager, busy.

Staffers contend for All-American rating

Challenging last year's All-American rating of the '68 Treasure Chest, yearbook staffers strived for perfection in the pictures, layouts and body copy they produced. Long hours and tedious work under the constant pressures of deadlines, demanded strict efficiency the first time around.

At the Summer Publications Workshop on the University of Oklahoma campus, planning for the '69 Treasure Chest began to take form. Spring and Fall conferences, again at OU, were attended by the entire staff. 'J-Day', hosted by the Journalism department of OSU, offered a variety of applicable seminars where the staff listened to experts.

Concluding the final deadline of the yearbook, senior staff members concentrated their efforts on writing and producing the yearbook assembly, while the '70 staffers gained practical experience by editing the summer supplement.

STORIES and articles for the school-wide magazine, the Putnam City Hi-Lites, were written by Mike Robertson, Christi Smith, Jan Pierce, Donna Millican, Don Douglas, Suzi Parks and Jan Riddle, copy staffers for magazine, who inspected layouts to find exact counts for copy.

Magazine

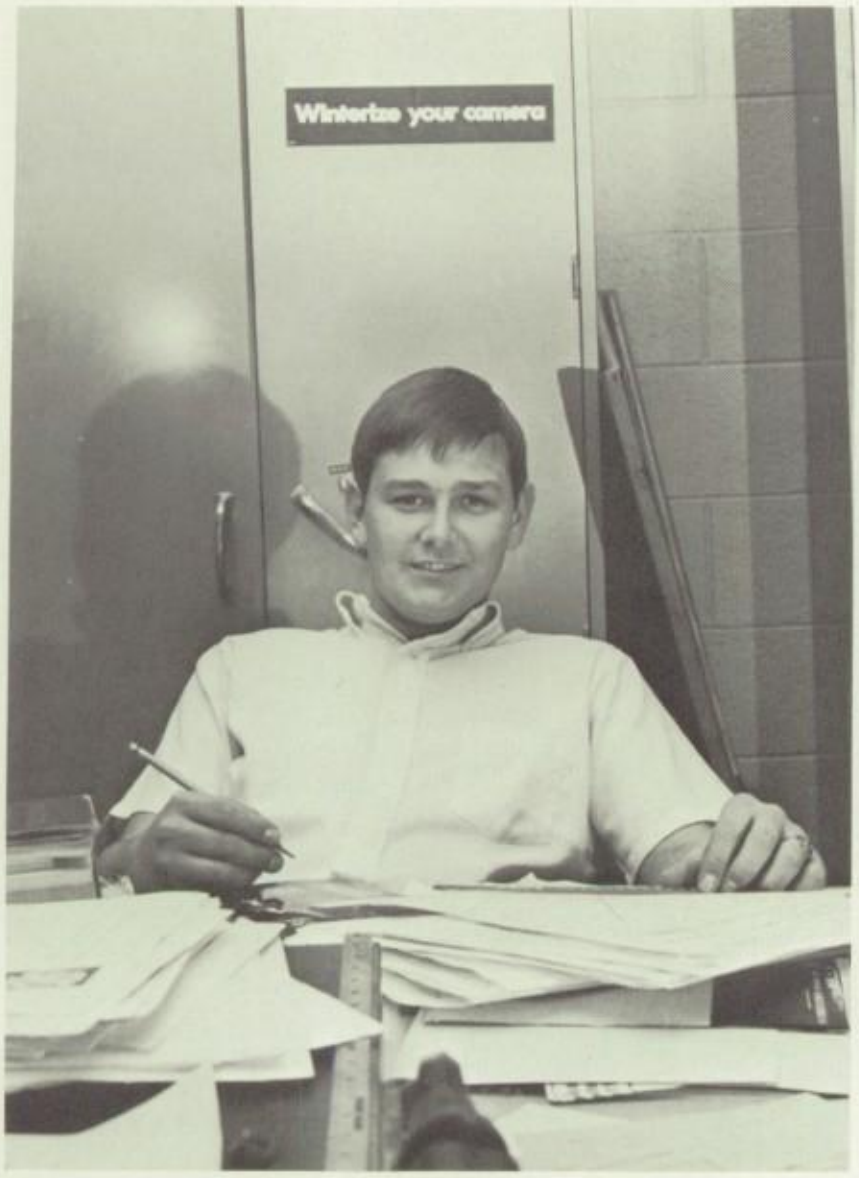
Ads, stories readied for final publication

'Pot Pourri', a French idiom meaning a little bit of everything, appropriately described the Putnam City Hi-Lites. In its seventh year of publication, the PC school magazine covered additions, construction, activities, faculty and students of the 47-square-mile school district.

Fictional stories, written by staff members and other interested students, were included along with informative articles over specific events. Coverage also included the construction of the new Pirate Stadium and immediate extension of classrooms to supplement the expanding student body.

After selling advertising space to various businesses, staff members arranged ads into an attractive page layout for publication. Putnam City Hi-Lites was distributed to businesses as well as to the student body and school faculty.

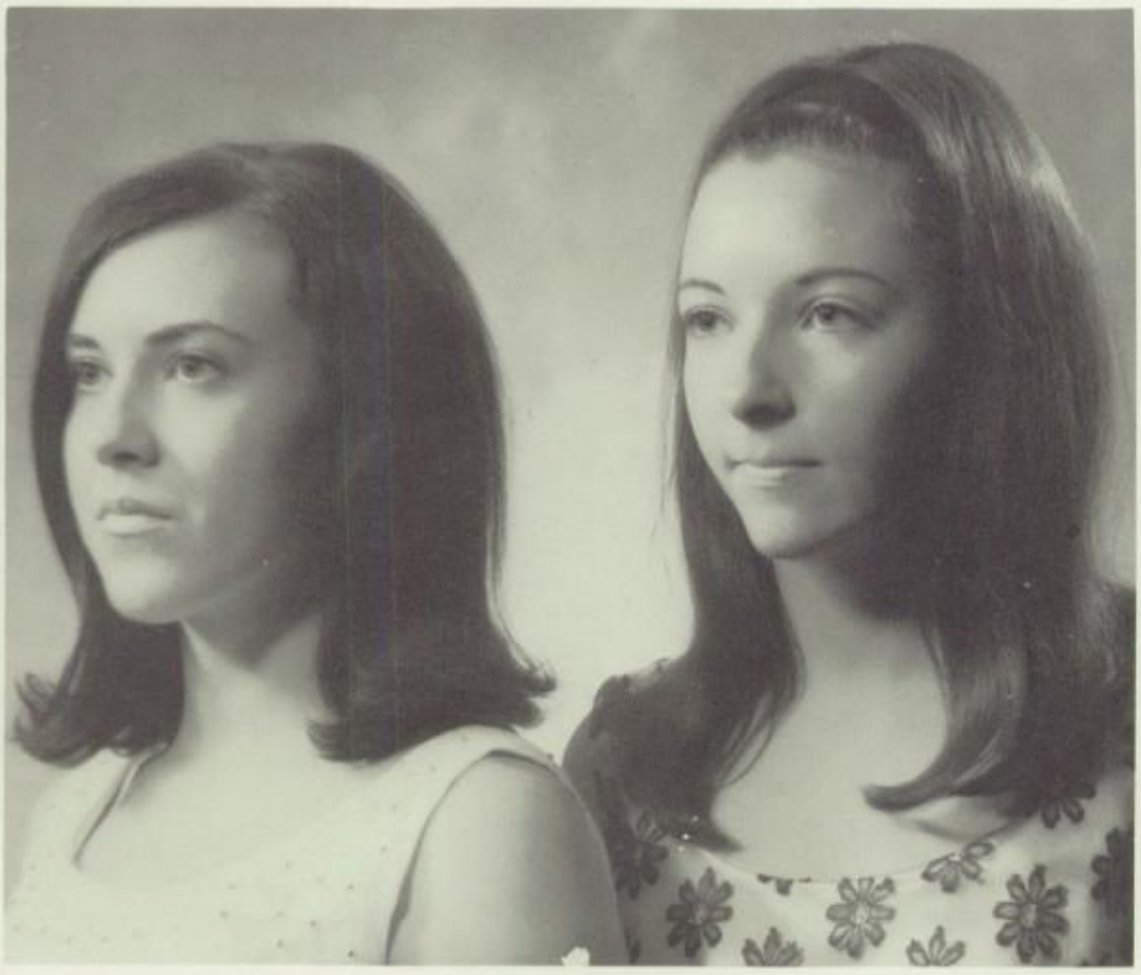
BOOKKEEPING involved in advertising was overseen by Debby Deberry, while Katie Crawford and Debbie Barringer prepared ads



NEXT shot's size, angle and position, important to any photographer, were planned by Bill Johnson, the magazine staffer with a 'camera eye'.

PLANNING the layout for PC's all-school magazine, Nancy Dugeon, and Gayle Whittaker, co-editors, searched for the latest techniques.

SELECTED in recognition of their sedulous work to reign over the magazine's celebration banquet were co-editors Nancy Dudgeon, attendant, and Gayle Whittaker, queen.



WITH the untimely loss of a co-editor, Rita Claborn characteristically changed over to fill in the gap.

Officials anticipate expanding district

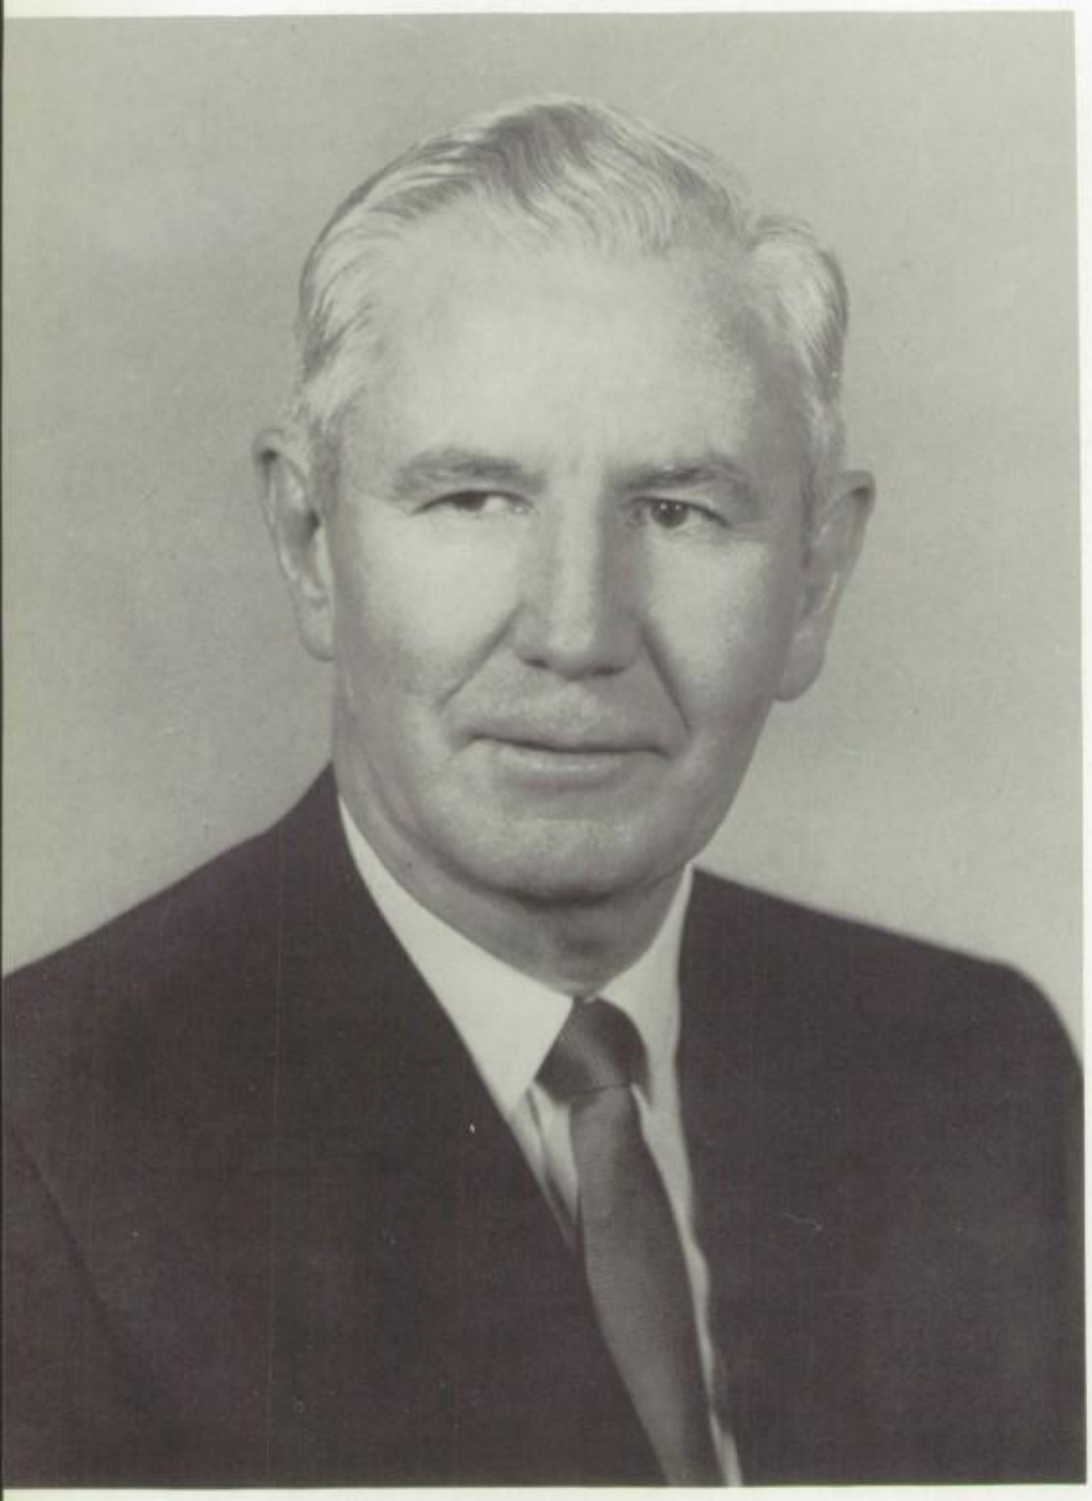
Supervising financial and structural advancements of a 47-square mile school system, Putnam City's superintendent and school board members assembled monthly to discuss pending school issues. Allocating for bills, approving constructional improvements, building repairs and alloting salaries were also discussed at board meetings.

Superintendent, Mr. Leo C. Mayfield, actively participated in community and civic activities despite his busy work schedule. YMCA, American Legion and church participation crowded his extracurricular schedule. Keeping up with current administrative methods, Mr. Mayfield attended meetings throughout the year, including the National Administrator's meeting in February at Atlantic City.

Assisting Mr. Mayfield, Mr. Fred Caviness, assistant superintendent, interviewed and hired service personnel and handled student transfers. Mr. J. Frank Malone, personnel director; Mr. Glen Crouch, purchasing director; and Mrs. Gwen Allred, foods and services director, who dealt with all-school menu planning, completed the staff. Mrs. Lee Mason served as school board Clerk as well as secretary to Mr. Mayfield.

Mr. Don Greve, President of the school board, led members in a prosperous year. The completion and opening of PC West and the new Pirate Stadium finalized the bond issue proposed for their erection. Continuing with necessary expansion, 20 additional classrooms were constructed at PC West and 14 classrooms were added to Tulakes Elementary.



SUPERINTENDENT of all Putnam City Schools, Mr. Leo C. Mayfield was kept busy with the intricate details required by the vast duties of his job.

DUTIES of hiring the service personnel and being in charge of students' transfers were handled by Mr. Fred Caviness, assistant superintendent.

TAKING time to study on vocational guidance, Mr. J. Frank Malone showed one phase of his work in public relations and personnel.

SEARCHING out a few familiar faces at the Teachers Reception were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Don Greve. Authentic dancers, leis and pineapple nametags helped set the stage for the Hawaiian Luau theme of the evening to acquaint faculty members with the administration.

Principals strive to keep abreast of trends

HONORED by Bethany Nazarene College as an outstanding alumni, Principal C. Ralph Downs completed one of his many daily reports.

Administration of the curriculum and student activities, as well as oversight of the campus, was divided among the principal and two vice-principals.

Honored by the NDEA, Ralph Downs was among 50 secondary principals to attend a two-week science and social studies conference at the University of Colorado. In February he read a paper to the Secondary School Principal's Conference in San Francisco reporting the findings of the NDEA convention. In order to study the latest concepts of education, Mr. Downs attended a Modular Scheduling Conference at the University of Iowa. In addition to administration, Mr. Downs is a member of the State Teachers Education Preparation Commissions, NEA, OEA, Secondary Principals Association, Phi Delta Kappa and is on the board of management of the Westside YMCA.

Mr. B. J. Nichols assisted Mr. Downs in administrative work with the faculty and substitute teachers. The physical maintenance of the campus and the coordination of conferences involving outside groups were under his jurisdiction. He has a Master-plus degree in City School Administration and is doing graduate work at OU. He belongs to a men's education fraternity, Phi Delta Kappa.

Personal dealings with student-faculty relations and attendance supervision were the basic responsibilities of Mr. James Hamilton, who commuted from Mustang where he serves as a city councilman. Mr. Hamilton is continuing graduate work at the OU campus.

DEALING with student behavior and the problems of attendance were some of the duties of assistant principal, Mr. James H. Hamilton.

ESTABLISHED as the mediator between parents and school, Mr. B. J. Nichols, assistant principal, conducted parent-teacher conferences.

FLIPPING through a book of American colleges, Mrs. Juanita Kidd, senior counselor, searched for pertinent information for inquiring students.

CHECKING and rechecking his file cards for schedule assignments, senior counselor, Mr. Hugh Coonfield, remained dedicated to his favorite class.

Counselors

Guiding of juniors, sophomores merges

Educational guidance, advising students on sufficient programming in preparation for higher education, PC counselors administered numerous aids to teenagers. Planning ahead must include testing. The SAT, PSAT, ACT, STEP and National Merit tests required valuable time and coordination on counselors' part in formulating, presenting and scoring.

Changing the previous set-up, Miss Nona Cowan, Mrs. Nancy Gallop and Mr. Charles Epperley divided the sophomores and juniors on an alphabetical basis. Dealing with adjustment problems were only a part of the demands on their time.

Numerous seniors converged on the offices of Mrs. Juanita Kidd and Mr. Hugh Coonfield, senior counselors, in search of college preparatory information and scholarship applications. An exclusive library of catalogs and pamphlets for state and out-of-state campuses aided students seeking college and career selections. Parent and student conferences were the scene where valuable and understanding counseling resolved many problems aired by both. Often a new student will make his first friend of a counselor who sets aside time to channel him into meaningful school activities and friendships.

EXTENDING their counseling services to both junior and sophomore classes were Mr. Charles Epperly, Miss Nona Cowan and Mrs. Nancy Gallop.

Visual aids increased in classroom use

Commensurate with overall academic upgrading, many teachers in the high school now have a masters degree as well as additional credit hours in their chosen fields.

In-service courses of study were offered in the school building to teachers wanting to study recent methods and to earn graduate credit. Encouragement was made by the school board paying half of the tuition for each one enrolled in these courses.

Teachers found the course in audio-visual extremely beneficial in developing skills in the use of the overhead projector, opaque projector, thermo-fax and various film media.

Honors came again to the PC faculty by Mrs. Lois Hintze, drama, speech and stagecraft teacher, being nominated Young Speech Teacher of the Year in Oklahoma. Mrs. Hintze also held the position of State Chairman of the NFL Legislature. Mr. Walter Coker utilized his talent by playing with Lyric theater and finishing his fifth year playing with the Oklahoma City Symphony.

Mrs. Verdi McCallon was elected President of the Oklahoma Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Mrs. Jewell G. Burgett, Putnam City German instructor, was Secretary-Treasurer of the Oklahoma Chapter of the American Association of German Teachers. The State Textbook Committee of 1968-72 had as a member Mrs. Kathryne Sandlin.

Services-Aides

Unsung heroes extend services to PC

When the going got rough, the service and aides department was there to help smooth things out. As many as thirty student aides assisted in keeping files straight, telephones answered, attendance records in order and errands run for the secretaries, librarians and counselors.

Head custodian, Mr. Olin Crouch, and his staff members kept the campus and buildings clean and litter-free. Cafeteria manager, Mrs. Katharine Price, and staff found the new air-conditioning a relief while preparing balanced meals.

VARIOUS driving and parking regulations were explained to Mark Quimby and Barney Miller by Putnam City's own law enforcer, Officer Hobart Rush.

HEAD CUSTODIAN, Mr. Olin Crouch, and staff member, Mr. Jack Aday, paused for a moment from their sundry demands when a yearbook photographer said, 'Please stop, this is my deadline—we need your picture .'

Seeking Individuality Through . . .

Album

FAMILIARITY with the books on the college-preparatory book list as well as other diversified reading contributed to the high ability ratings in the field of literature which helped establish Lewis Daugherity, Johnanna McCutchen and Kari Ward as Semi-finalists.

National Merit

Test reveals honor, brings scholarships

Honor was brought to Putnam City by twelve seniors who placed as National Merit Semi-finalists. Competitors were judged according to their high school grades, citizenship, leadership qualities and Merit test scores.

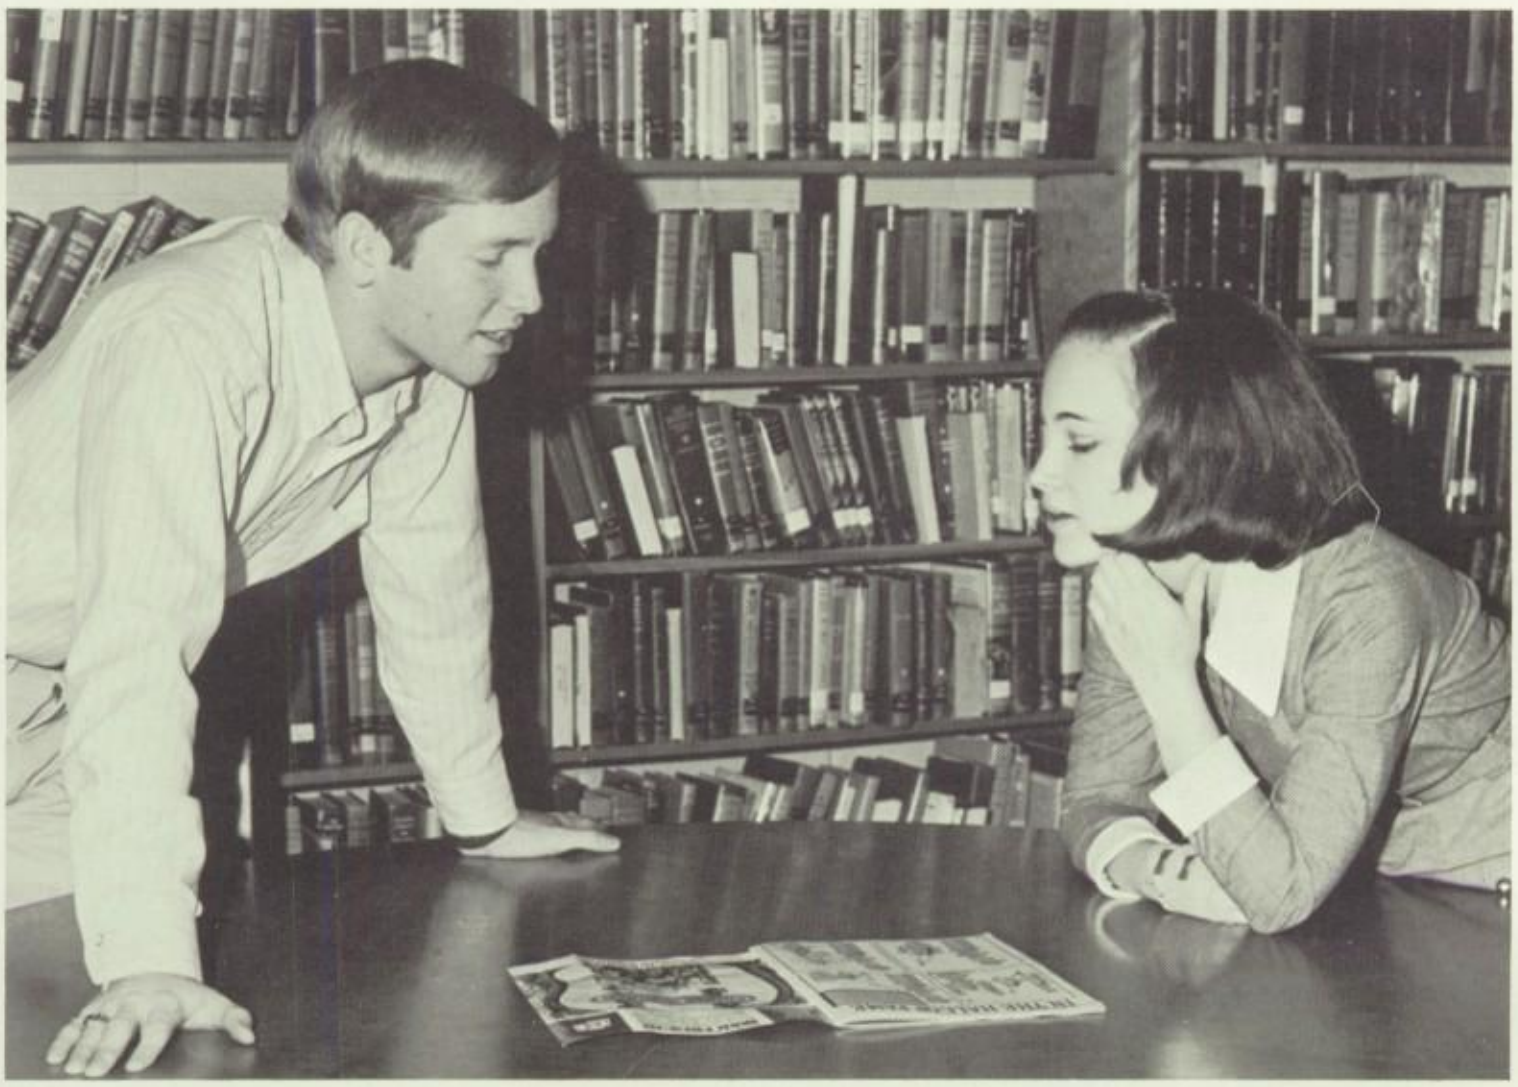
The test was given the second semester of the junior year, but semi-finalists were not named until September of the senior year. Final results were received in May.

Scholarships were offered to certain colleges such as OU and OSU, but the National Merit Corporation offer ed some to be used at colleges of the student's choice.

All twelve semi-finalists made the finals and qualified for a National Merit Scholarship. They were Dennis Purifoy, Larry Baresel, Ann Chafer, Louis Daugherity, Johnanna McCutchen, Elizabeth McRae, Steve Morton, Barbara Payne, Randy Perry, Lee Ann Slayton, Steve Troxel and Kari Ward.

Filling out a Parents Confidential Statement, taking the SAT test in November, the school recommendation and filling out a form of personal information were the prerequisites for taking the test. Although the examination was on a purely voluntary basis, it was an aid for seniors who were planning on attending college in their future.

HONORED as a National Merit Semi-Finalist as a result of above-average test score, Beth McRae utilized her spare moments for leisure reading.



TAKING a warranted break from the tedious gathering of research materials for term papers, Semi-finalists Steve Troxel and Anne Chafer indulged in one of the more 'sophisticated' modern-day forms of entertainment—Mad Magazine.

WITH graduation emminent, boys decide between the military and college. Steve Morton, Dennis Purifoy and Randy Perry caught up on Marine news.

Senior Straight A's

Three honored for scholastic excellence

Sharon Bivins

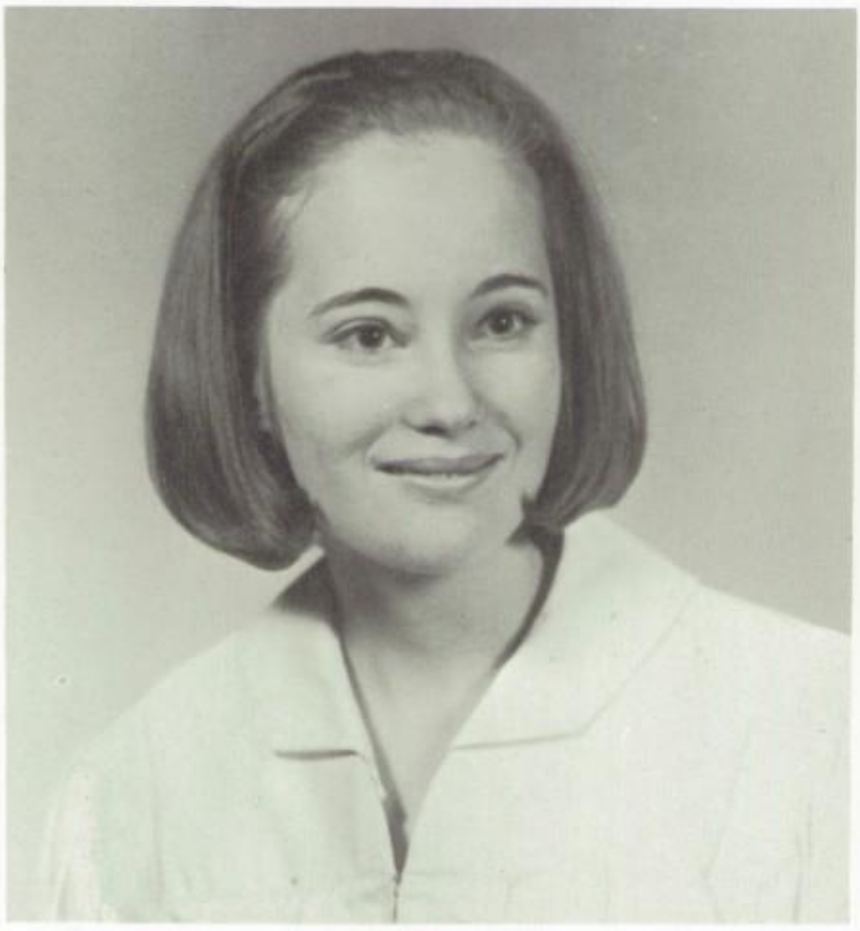
School heroes come in many shapes and sizes, varying from the husky football player to the star debater. But what of the ones who make the quiet victories of four-year scholastic excellence? These people are honored by the esteemed position of Co-Valedictorian and lead their class through commencement exercises.

Member of State Honor Society and secretary of PC Chapter of National Honor Society, Sharon Bivins was an OSU Honor Student, OU University Scholar, Phillips Honor Student, and member of Honor Group of Westinghouse Science Talent Search. Receiving the Student Council award in both geometry and algebra, she placed first in the same subjects at the Edmond Scholastic Meet.

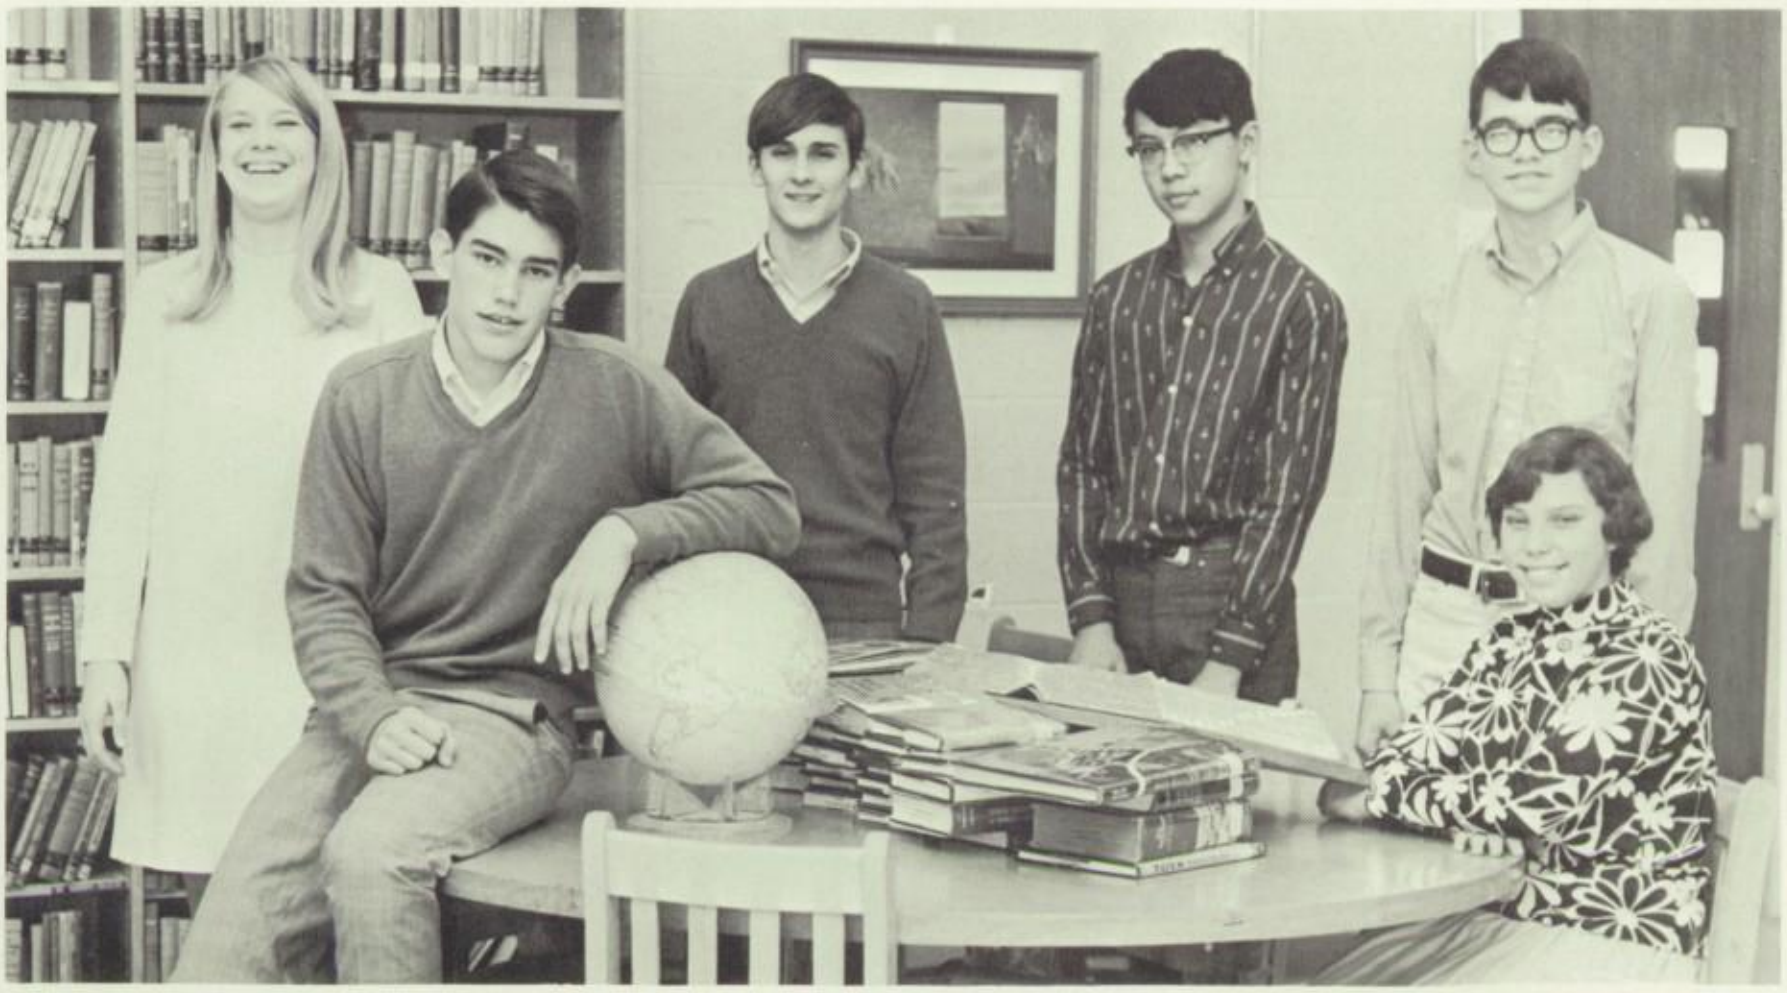
National Merit semi-finalist, Ann Chafer achieved scholastic recognition at the Edmond Scholastic Meet, where she placed in both World History and American Literature. A member of National and State Honor Societies, Ann also participated in AFS, debate, World Affairs and Mu Alpha Theta.

Winner of the Student Council Physical Science Award, Anne Miley was in the National and State Honor Societies and supported Spanish and Pep Clubs. Earning enough credits to complete high school in three years enabled her to enroll at Oklahoma State University in the fall of '68. Anne returned to graduate with her class to be a Co Valedictorian.

Ann Chafer



Anne Miley



HOPING to keep up their 4.0 grade average with the possible goal of future Valedictorians, sophomores, Kathy Kearney, Mike Schumacher, David Brewer, Charles Yang, Stephen Winzenread and Cheryl Frasier obtained a straight-A record their freshman and sophomore years.

Straight A's

Honor students look toward white robes

Concurrent with the nationally recognized excellence of Putnam City standards, students who have maintained straight A's or 4.0 grades for all of high school were acknowledged locally. Although all high school credits are included in graduation requirements, only solid credits are counted.

Honor of becoming valedictorian, wearing the white robe, and leading their class through the rose-covered arches lies ahead for underclassmen who keep their grades up throughout their high school career.

Recognizing this achievement, the National Honor Society, as well as honor societies in specific fields such as Mu Alpha Theta, math, Quill and Scroll, journalism, and Biology Honor Society, science, were activities open to honor students.

Putnam City honor students showed excellence in the PSAT and National Merit test, as well as other nationally acclaimed examinations. Doubling their chances to receive scholarships, students were offered scholastic aid to such well-known colleges as the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs and the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

AIMING toward Valedictorian, junior straight-A's Gary Peterson, Beth Snyder, Cathy Jenkins and Tom Heck strove to keep their 4.0.

Generation gap closes in selection of ideals

Accorded the highest honor given to any Pirate is that of being named Mr. and Miss Pirateer.

In spite of the so-called "generation gap", once again the judgment of the faculty and that of the student body coincided in the selection of representatives to Boys and Girls State and the student election of Mr. and Miss Pirateer.

Typifying the intangible spirit that creates Miss Pirateer, Penny Johnson, who held a 3.8 grade average, served her school as Treasurer of the Student Council, as a representative to Girls State and first alternate to Girls Nation. She also reigned as Putnam's Ideal Date.

Steve Morton perpetuated the attributes inherent in Mr. Pirateer. President of the Student Council, Steve also served as President of Inter-City Student Council. Representing Putnam City at Boys State, he received the governorship and was elected Oklahoma's delegate to Boys Nation.

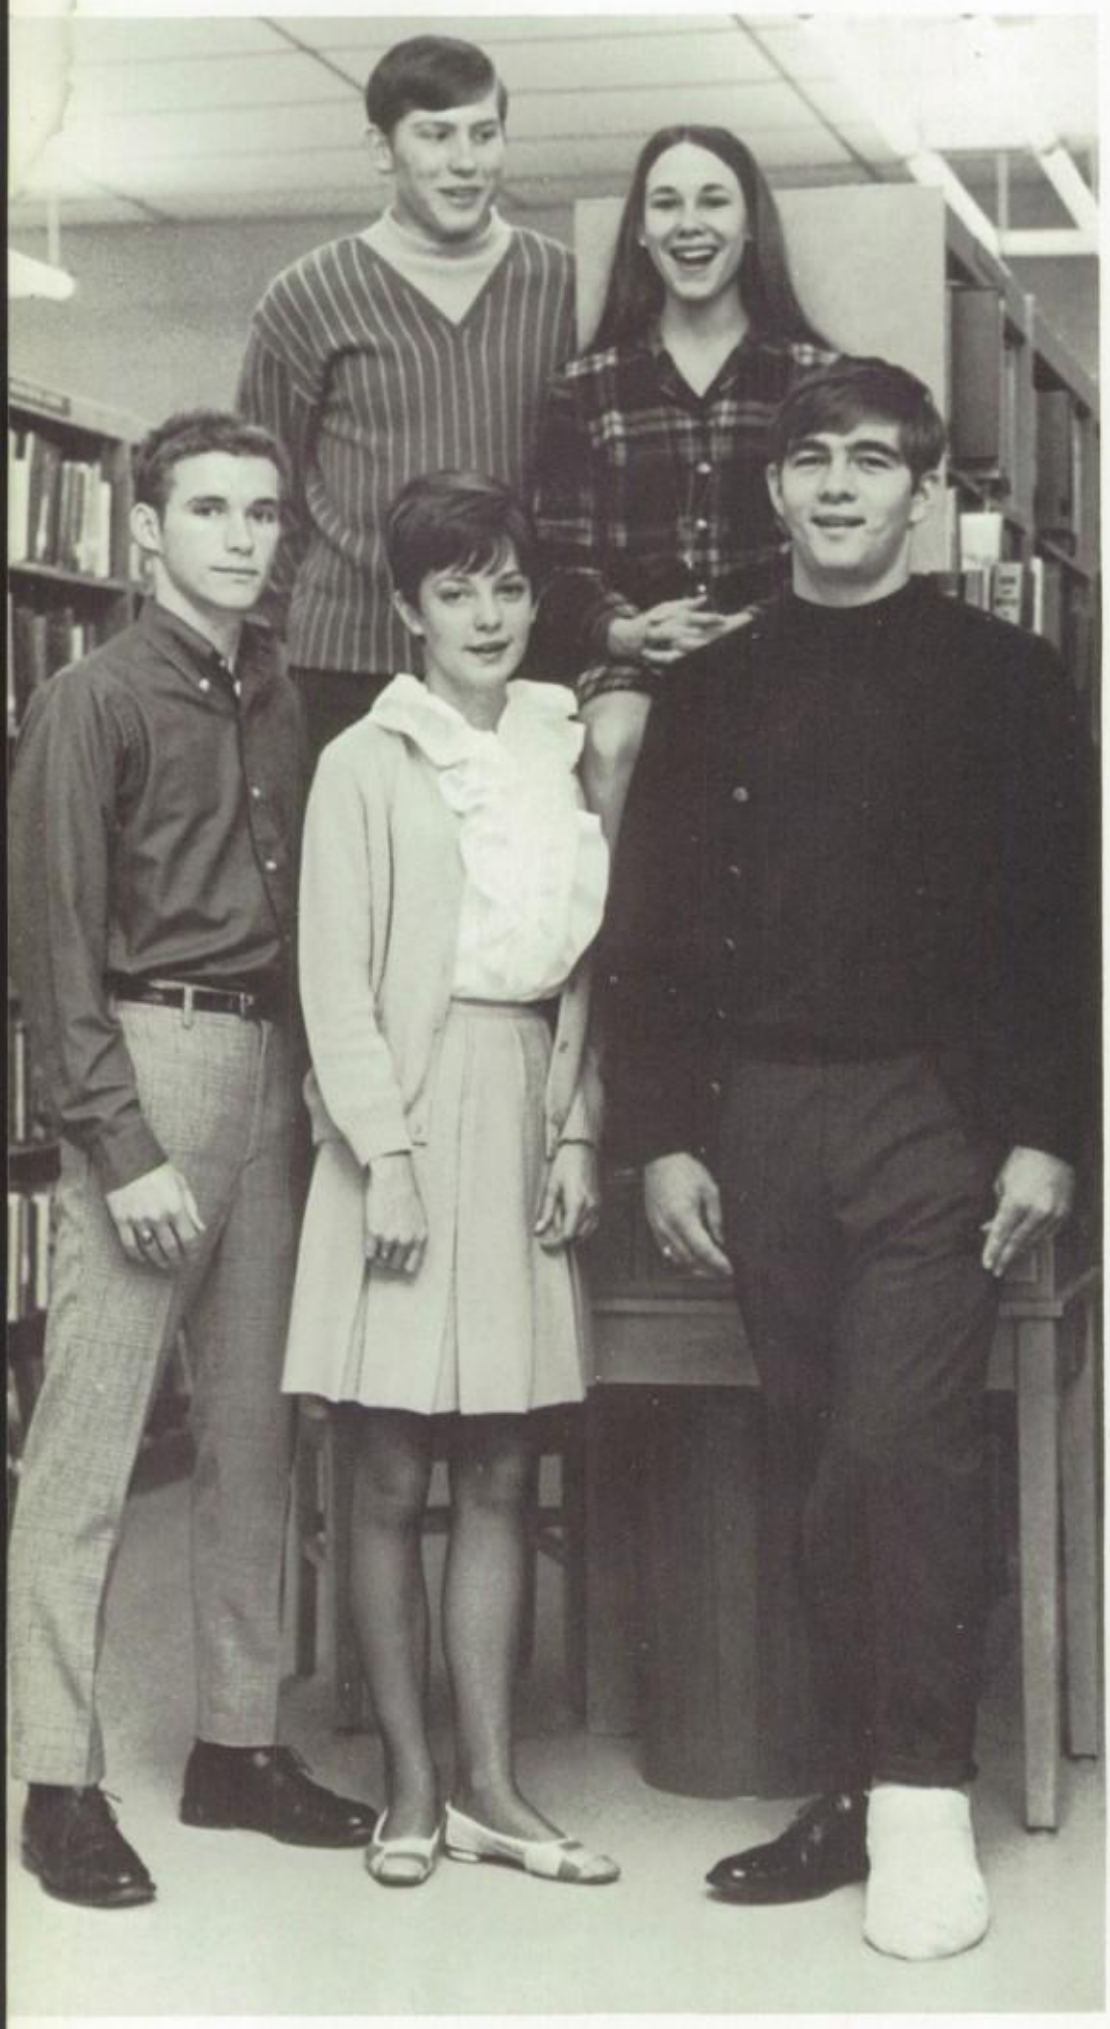
Class of 1,000 graduates as PC's largest



PRESIDING '68-'69 senior class officers were Roger Woolery, President; Diane Norton, Secretary-Treasurer; Richard Lloyd, Boy Popularity; Steve Pherigo, Vice-President and Debbie Shirey, Girl Popularity.

Donned in cap and gown, with diploma in hand, the graduate suddenly realizes mixed emotions. And yet recollection that the enumerable events and experiences which have molded his final high school year have come to an end.

Recollection of the first material evidence of being a senior came during the preceding summer—class members received their senior rings during June. Six PC upperclassmen attended Oklahoma Boys and Girls State in preparation for leading their class in the fall. Honors gained at the State Conventions by these outstanding class leaders included Governor of Boys State, Post-Master General of Boys Nation and first alternate to Girls Nation. After a mishap in arrival occurred, landing her in Tulsa, Putnam City's AFS student from Holland finally arrived in August to join the senior class. Trying on their graduation robes for the first time, PC students met their scheduled time with the studio for their senior graduation pictures.

Gathering as a class for the first meeting of the year, seniors nominated, campaigned for and elected their officers to elevate their class spirit and image.

Rating scholastically, twelve National Merit Semi-finalists emerged from the class. In expectation of scholarships toward college, seniors took the ACT and SAT tests required for entrance. Retaining a 4.0 grade average, three straight-A members of the senior class received the honor of wearing the distinguished white robes of Valedictorians.

As the year drew closer to conclusion, activities increased with the preparation for graduation. Selecting from three choices, seniors voted on and ordered their graduation announcements and accessories. As a remembrance of their class, dues went toward the class gift.

They placed third in the homecoming float competition, following the week's theme by shooting giant oranges out of a cannon. Rallying to a needy cause, upperclassmen gathered cans for the Christmas 'Can Drive', tipping the scales at 1,980 pounds of canned goods. Promoting the AFS Drive, seniors held a bake sale to reach their goal of over 100 per cent in the class competition.

Hilariously summarizing the antics of their final year, class members presented a comical portrayal of 'Senior Life' at the annual Senior Assembly. Their last gathering before graduation, the Senior Banquet, provided a time to remember and laugh about the memories made during the previous years. Attending in caps and gowns, soon-to-be graduates received inspiration at Baccalaureate.

On that final night the largest class ever to be graduated from PCHS—and the last PCers to be Pirates came to the stark realization that from now on decisions would largely be individual—each one emerging in his separate way.

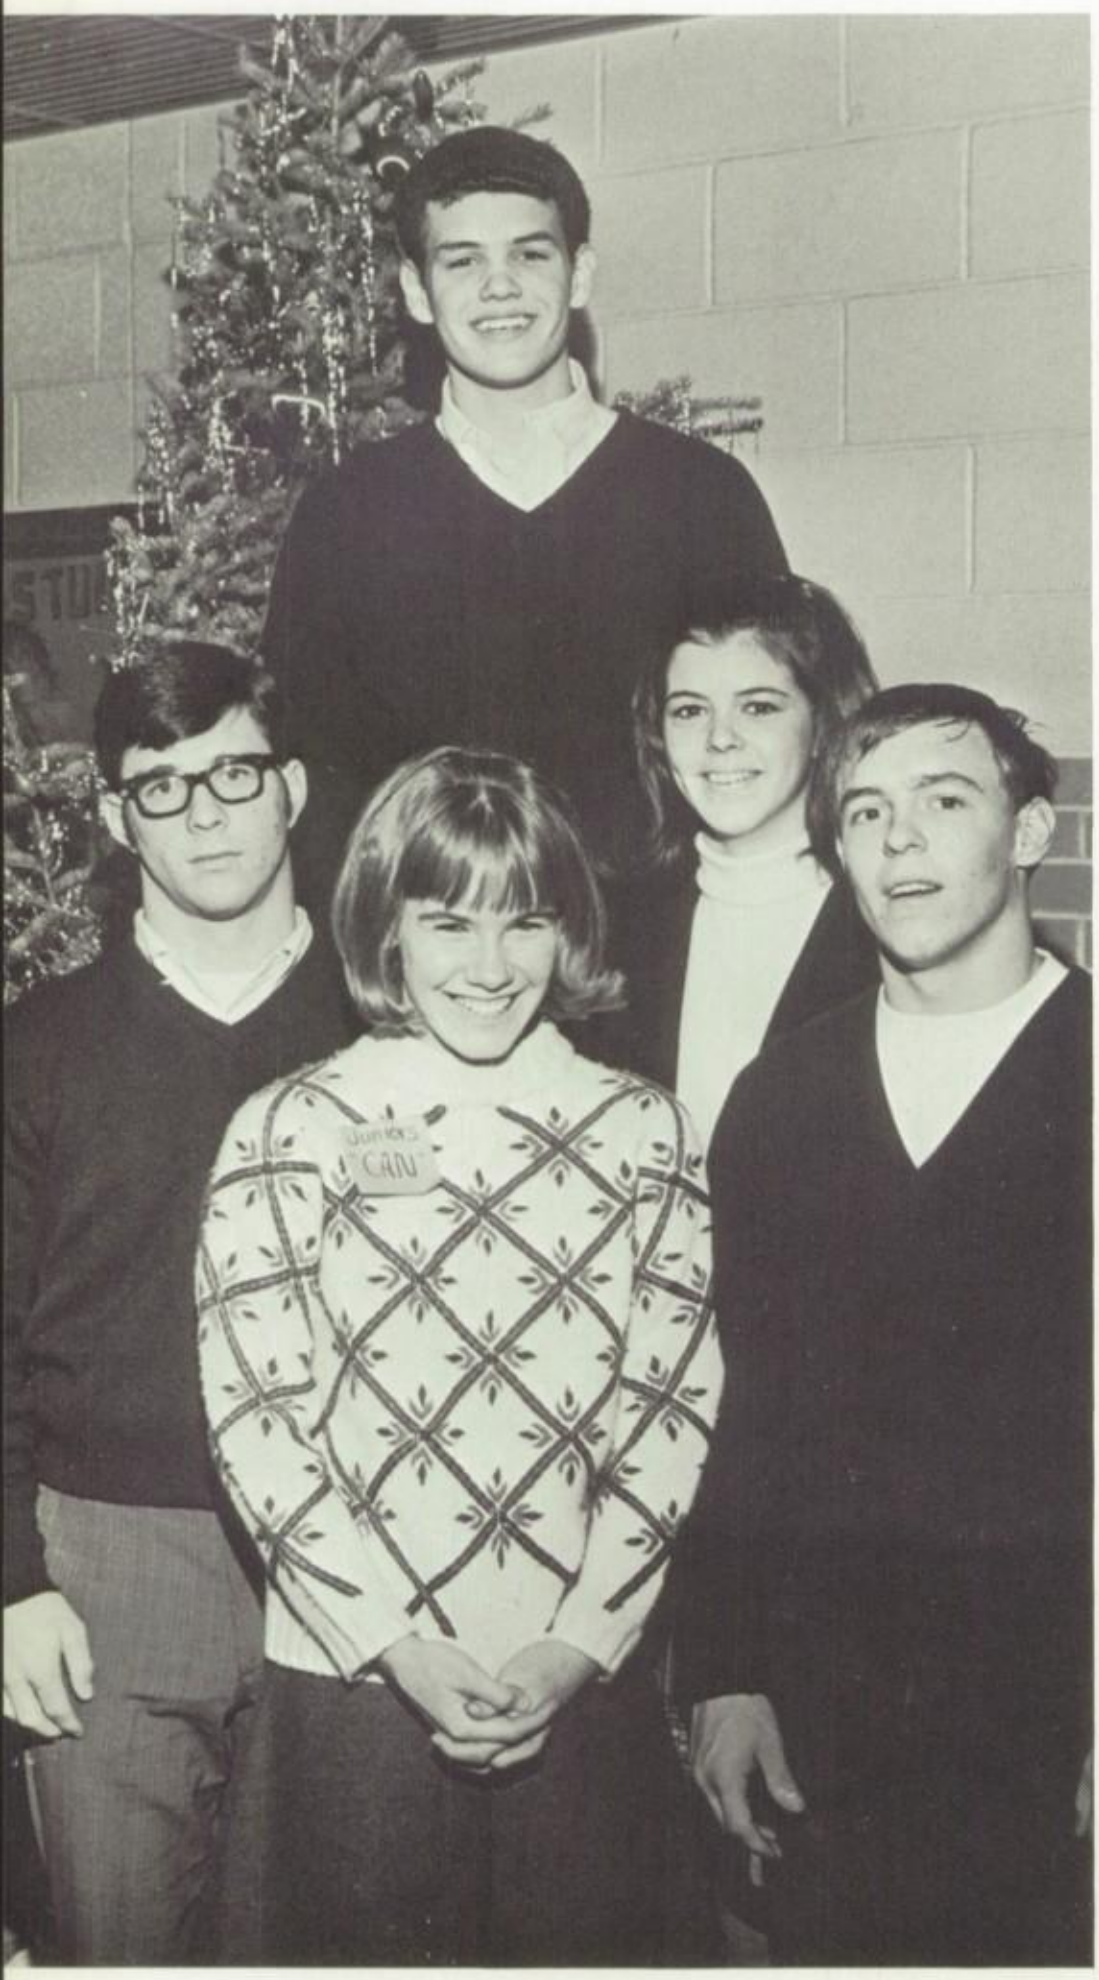
Class of '70 bypasses all in 'Can' Drive



ALWAYS sharing in the action, Bill Sanders, Boy Popularity; Pam Purdy, Girl Popularity; Danny Crain, President; Cathy Meier, Secretary-Treasurer; and Tom Wright, Vice-President led the class of 1970.

LEADERSHIP, an important element among the masses, was prominent in PC's junior class.

From the athletic field to the scholastic areas, this class yielded students of top rank. A big first for the Pirate marching band was a female drum major, who led her troop through rough city and state contest competition. Junior class members held two offices in the Student Council, those of corresponding secretary and chaplain.

Beauty was also a favorable asset of the middleclassmen. Miss Teenage Oklahoma City and her first runner-up, both Putnam girls, brought state honors to their class.

In the sports' arena, a long-time diver captured the Oklahoma State Diving Championship.

Active juniors in the fine arts played the major female and minor male leads in PC's musical, Carousel. In Barefoot in the Park, the female lead was secured by a talented middleclassman.

Ranking high in class competition activities, the class of '70 won first place for their efforts on their float.

Winning the competition in the Christmas Can Drive, the class collected 2,030 pounds of canned goods, over one-third of the total poundage. Promoting the AFS Drive, juniors collected pop bottles and sponsored an 'ugly leg' contest in which they displayed pictures of five basketball players' legs. Students sold the ballots for a nickel each.

Scholastic activities also played a major part of the juniors' year. In the fall, students took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test which prepared interested juniors for the fast-approaching college entrance exams. College-bound middlemen participated in the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. This nation-wide, rating test covered the academic areas of science, social studies, math and vocabulary.

Rocking-out to the beat of the 'Uniques', from Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Pirates gathered in the Imperial Ballroom of the Skirvin Hotel for one of the biggest events of the year—the Junior-Senior Prom. As host for this event, juniors worked on various committees to decide the theme and plan the Prom decorations.

First touches of that contagious disease, 'senioritis' accompanied the ordering and arriving of the class rings. Selected from three choices by a majority vote, the gold-based oval, black onyx contained a gold PC inset.

From Sophomore Orientation Day through graduation, from the SCAT to the SAT, through triumphant victories and tearful defeats, each immeasurable phase surmounted the ones of previous years. Such a year is not a turning point, but a stepping stone toward maturity—this junior year of 1969.

Ring choices offered for class's preference

'NOW, what is your opinion on this particular one?' Mark Anderson launched into one of his orations-this time on the topic of senior rings.

One of the choices for the junior class vote was intently studied by John Burbage and Terri Garrity when Mark pointed out its fine features.

FORERUNNER to the college entrance exams, the PSAT prepares juniors for the stress and strain they face on the ACT and college boards. Miss Nona Cowan accepted Judy Johnson's money for her test booklet.

Class of '71 backs 'Orange of the Year'

BACKED by 'Pete the Pirate', Sophomore officers led the class of '71 throughout the '68-'69 school year. They were: Susie Heflin, Treasurer; Deidre Salyer, Girl Popularity; Susan Owens, Secretary; Bob Schuman, Boy Popularity; Lisa Rector, Vice-President and Mark Dubberstein, President.

'UNITE!' This was the ambition of the '69 Sophomore class —to banish old competitions and ties which could keep them in two groups and to draw the class together as loyal Pirates. This goal would determine the difference between full years ahead or years of distraught efforts.

Orienting Sophomores as well as new students, Steve Morton, PC Student Council President, prepared the new Pirates for the inevitable changes which evolve in high school. After receiving their class schedules and student handbooks, students obtained literature and other information concerning PC's numerous clubs and organizations. To promote new interest and recruit members, club officers set up booths especially for Orientation Day.

Gathering as a composite class for the first time, almost one thousand Sophomores participated in electing their '69 class officers. Diligent campaigns for the candidates, crammed into a single week, included plastering the halls with signs and presenting their speeches to the class.

True Pirate loyalties appeared early in the school year from this class. 'Orange of the Year' was the title of the float entered by the Sophomores for competition during Homecoming week. Their worth-while efforts yielded the second-place prize. Actively contributing to the various fund-raising drives, underclassmen utilized the motto, 'Ten Can', to promote the Christmas Can Drive, bringing in nearly a ton of canned goods, Sophomore 'Share-Iffs' ramrodded PC halls for contributions to the AFS Drive. A 'breakfast' bake sale including donuts and rolls was held before school and during lunch hours to raise money to support next year's foreign exchange student.

Changing from the SCAT and STEP given in previous years at PC, the Stanford Achievement Test, High School Battery, was given to 899 Sophomores over two-days.

Planned as a continuing project, the Sophomore class scrapbook included news articles from the school and city papers, sports' programs and pictures which illustrated the Pirate activities of the Class of '71. Members plan to keep up their scrapbook throughout their next two years as a memory book of their lives at Putnam.

Outstanding members of this class took their places among Putnam upperclassmen. Several students participated in the school plays, Barefoot in the Park and Carousel, and in junior and varsity sports.

As a finale to their first and last year of being the 'lowest head on the totem pole' at Putnam City, underclass officers, sponsors and members planned and enjoyed a spring class picnic at Wedgewood Amusement Park. Finances for the picnic came from part of their collected dues; the remaining funds were saved to be used in hosting the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

FIRST year of high school meant study, study, study. John Cook learned when he experienced his first taste of long hours in avoiding cramming.

SILENCE in the library gave Vicki Arnold the perfect spot for concentration on choosing just the right material for that research paper.

CELEBRATING the completion of the 1968-69 Treasure Chest, the yearbook staffers threw a party to end the year of deadlines and headaches.

I've grown up in crowds. . .
in halls
in classrooms and buildings
full of other people.
And yet
I've come to be myself. . .
and learned to stand
. . . alone.

Girls keep their cool in spring middies

Pastel paper flowers set an enchanting atmosphere for the '69 Spring Formal, entitled 'Almost April'. Princess Pirate Pep Club members and their dates grooved to the sound of the 'Front Page News' at the Top of the Mall. Randy Heierding, Putnam City's 1969 Buccaneer, was crowned by Pep Club president, Diane Fishel, at the highlight of the evening.

Contributing to the solemnity of and adding color to graduation, junior girls, under supervision of the Pep Club assembled and carried the rose-covered arches traditional to the graduation ceremony. The girls worked in pairs to hand-make over 500 paper roses and collect enough greenery to completely cover each arch.

Keeping their cool, members voted unanimously for new spring uniforms. Black middy blouses, trimmed in orange, have 'Pirates' written across the collar.

New cheerleaders and officers were elected in May by the junior and sophomore members of the Pep Club. Maintaining a 2.7 grade average throughout high school was the scholastic requirement for the candidates. Campaigning officers were introduced to the club and those girls seeking the office of president made a short speech to the members. Yell-leading and acrobatic abilities, which were given spontaneously to their announcement, were exhibited before club members by the candidates for cheerleader.

OFFICERS elected for the coming year were: Sharon Gentry, Cindy Dubberstein, Martha Winslow, Helena Hutton, Debbie Cunningham, Christy Cargill, Debbie DeBerry, Suzi Parks and president, Carol Hastings.

PRESIDENT of the Princess Pirate Pep Club, Diane Fishel, crowned 1969 Bucaneer, Randy Heierding, at the Spring Formal which was entitled 'Almost April'. Busy watching were attendants Vicki Harding, Johnny Pinion, Verna Davis, Phil Claborn, Susan Ferguson and Johnny Merrill.

CELEBRATIONS of 89er's day wouldn't be complete without the cow boy his guitar and the chorus led an impromptu hootenanny at Grimy Gulch.

Student Council

SC's 'Grimy Gulch' Entertains PC 89ers

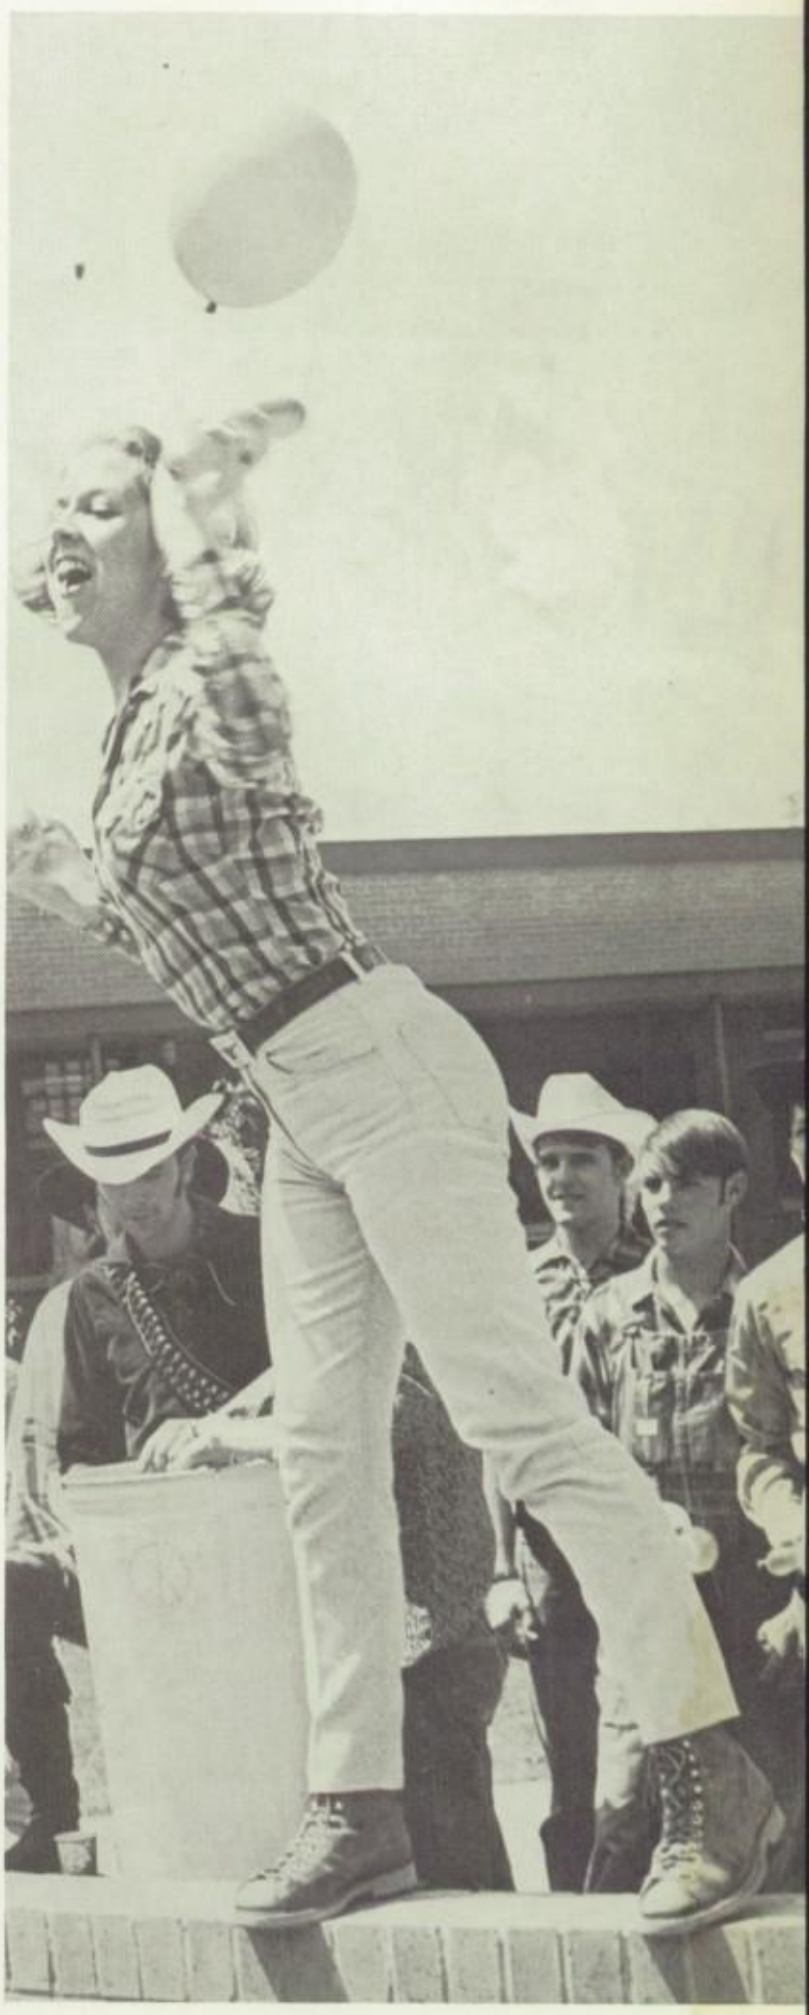
'Grimy Gulch', PC's patio-replica of a western town, staged high-noon entertainment on 89ers Day, sponsored by the Student Council. Well-aimed water balloons drenched helpless victims at the senior booth, while at another the town's 'Justice of the Peace' wed or divorced several western clad couples. An old-fashioned melodrama, 'Romance at the Old Bar O', presented at the 'Purple Palace Theatre', was the Thespians contribution to the day's activities.

Pirates elected '69-70 SC officers following the campaign assembly. A nine-week probationary period for officers who fail to maintain the required 2.8 grade average was provided in an amendment to the constitution accepted by the student body. An evening picnic at Blue Stem Lake rounded out this enterprising year for the Student Council.

STUDENT Council officers for '69-'70: Norman Johnston, vice-pres.; Danny Crain, pres.; Donna Stagner, rec. sec.; Stephanie Smay, treas.; Don Sherry, chap.; Debbie Wilson, corr. sec. reposed before starting elected duties.

REPRESENTATIVES from Putnam for Boys and Girls State . Danny Crain, Jim Blalock, Carol Lynne Moore, Debbie Wilson and Mark Anderson were chosen for their service to the school.

'BOYS will be boys' revealed itself again as being true as these Student Council members swung from a tree-swing into the water of Blue Stem Lake. the site of the annual SC picnic.



PERFECTING her aim, Barbara Schricker prepared to send her water balloon into the face of a senior boy at the senior booth on 89er's day.

OUTSTANDING French student David Brewer, a district, regional and state winner, displays the medal that he won in a language contest.

COSTUMED in Roman togas, Bill Spaine and Terrie Williams reigned as Latin Emperor and Empress during the annual JCL Roman Banquet.

MARIACHI band guitarists set the mood and entertained members of the Spanish Club at the fiesta given for club members at El Chico restaurant.

Hot peppers serve as focus in contest

Reorganization of the Latin Club resulted in individual class meetings once a month and JCL, as a whole, meeting in September, December and May for club parties. PC's JCL Chapter ranked second all-around chapter at the state convention held at the University of Oklahoma at the state convention held at the University of Oklahoma in April. Finalizing the club's second semester activities, the students burned their Latin notebooks at a picnic.

Participating in the 89'ers Day activities, the German Club staged an original German western. Fasching and the Mai Fest, two festivities celebrated by the club, rocked to the music of a band. The selection of the club's first pin highlighted the year's end.

Pepper eating contests, a lottery for prizes and music by the Mariachi Band added spice to the Spanish Club Fiesta which concluded their events of the year.

Election of the Mardi Gras King and Queen, subject of a constitutional change for the French Club, was conducted on a point system. Entertainment comprised of contests, a guitarist and singing preceded the coronation.

WITH his mouth on fire, Danny Crain grimaced as the hot peppers affected him during a pepper eating contest at the Spanish Club Fiesta.

TYPICALLY costumed in German attire for the German Club banquet, the Mai Fest, were king and queen, Barbara Schricker and Mark Anderson.

Drama-Speech

Audience-drawn jury renders the verdict

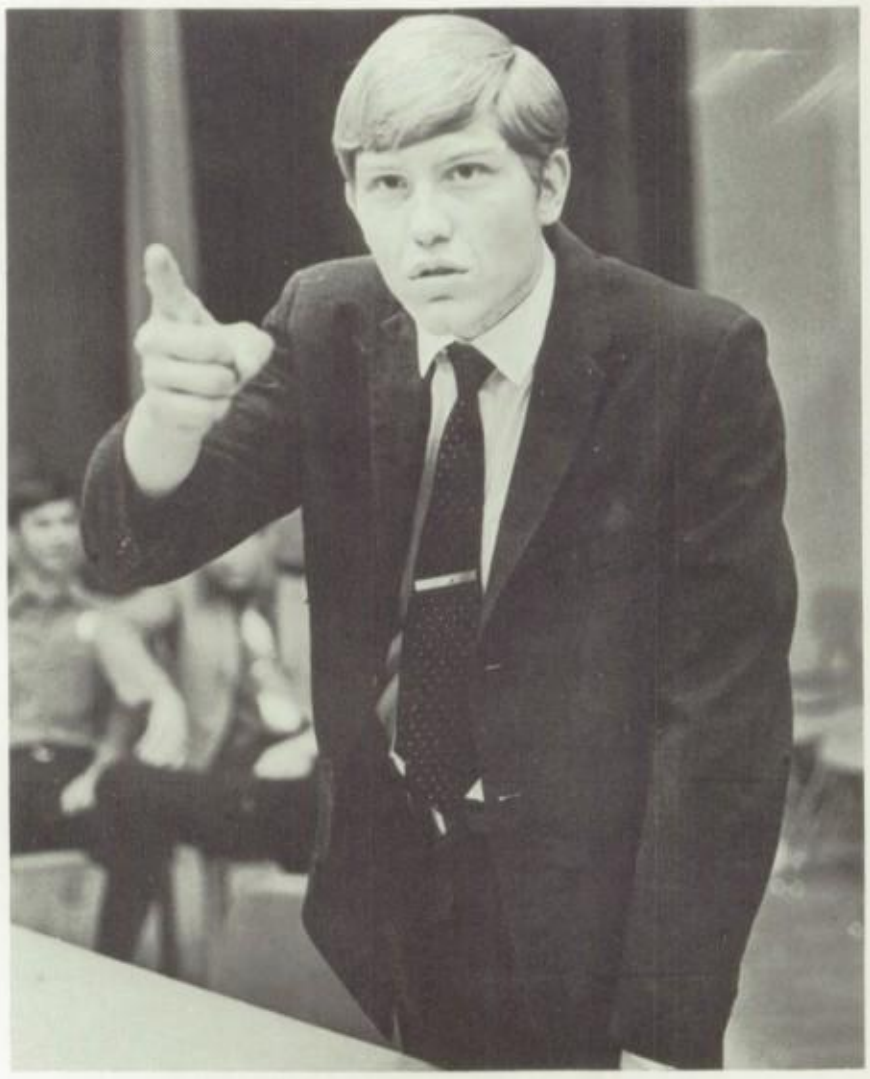
Varied verdicts were rendered by an audience-drawn jury in the third all-school play, 'The Night of January 16th.' The courtroom drama was centered around the guilt or innocence of the murder suspect. Presented as PC's first arena theatre, the audience was seated around the acting area.

'Purple Palace Theatre' was the spot for western merriment during the 89er's Day celebration as the Thespians presented the student-directed melodrama, 'Romance at the Old Bar O'. The 'Reader's Theatre' presented 'My Client Curley', a comedy based on a caterpillar's stardom.

Original oratory, men's and women's extemporary speaking, dramatic interpretation and debate were events at District and NFL Speech Contests attended by PC.



POINTING an accusing finger at the judge, Steve Pherigo, who played John Graham Whitfield in 'The Night of January 16th', emphasized his feelings toward the defending attorney's statement about his dealings.

AUTOMATICALLY withdrawing from Billy Bigalow, played by Steve Dickson, Julie Jordan, played by Debbie Giannopoulos, conceals her true emotions.

'WHEN the Children are Asleep' was sung by Enoch Snow, played by Dennis Jones and Carrie, played by Terie Orth, in PC's production of Carousel, put on jointly by the Speech, Drama and Music Departments.

Chorus and Band add to Baccalaureate

Selections from the musical, 'Oliver!' and a psyched-out rendition of 'Aquarius' exemplified the range of the vocal music concert, 'The Wonderful World of Music'. Highlighting the program, the Chorus Sweethearts were crowned and lauded for their dedication to the department.

As District Contest came swinging into sound, the choruses qualified for the State Vocal Music Contest. At State contest, the Mixed Chorus, Glee Club, Mixed Chorus girls, several soloists and ensembles rated high.

The PCHS Band presented the spring concert featured by selections from 'West Side Story' and an arrangement by a Douglass High School senior. Superior ratings held consistently through District and State Instrumental contests as the Band and various ensembles performed.

Beginning, concert and marching bands as well as conducting and arranging classes constituted the summer band program. From fundamentals of playing—to manuscript techniques, the program offered opportunities.

IMPROVISING their music stands for umbrellas, Band members hurried from the building to the football field through the rain. The Band, led by director, Mr. Walter Coker, played during '69 graduation cere mony.

CROWNED as the Chorus Sweethearts at the annual Spring Chorus Program were Tommy Norwine and Theresa Thornhill. In attendance of the Sweethearts were Janiece McGlothlan, Roy Beck, Debbie Dennis and Mike Hanna.

Golden Eagle Award honors '67-'68 book

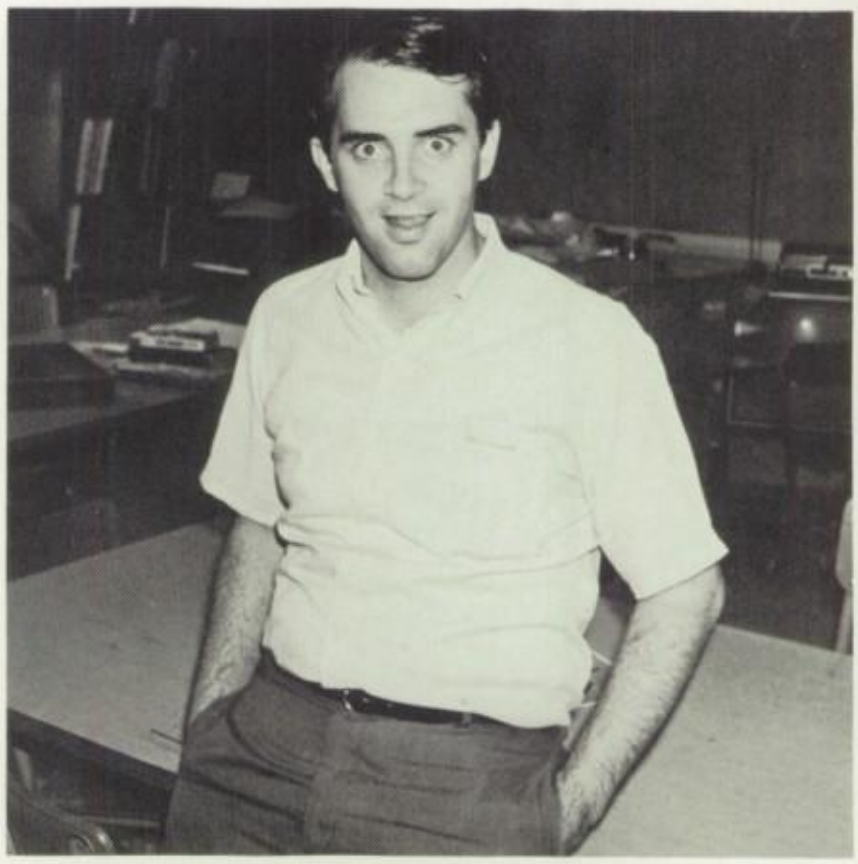
Immense satisfaction and a feeling of pride were the rewards for yearbook staffers, when the long-awaited '69 Treasure Chest was finally revealed at the annual yearbook assembly in the Spring. Next year's staff members portrayed their past editors in satirical skits, written and directed by senior staffers. Uniqueness marked the assembly with a poetic translation of the yearbook's theme, set to vocal and guitar music. The coronation of the yearbook queen, elected by a school-wide vote, preceded the book presentation.

After the assembly, Pirates searched for old receipts and the right line to receive their yearbooks. Memories of the past year were reflected and exchanged as old and new friends signed each other's books.

Staffers, who proved they had ability to edit, were given jobs as staff heads and assumed responsibility for the supplements. If successful, they will be '70 editors.



JOURNALISM student teacher and editor of Central State's yearbook, Mr. Tommy Quaid, was amazed at the procedures of Room 237.

KNEELING for a few excited words with flower girl, Donna Sutterfield before the coronation was Yearbook Queen Pam Furgeson.

PRESENTING Mrs. Lois Thomas with the Golden Eagle Award for the '68 yearbook was consultant, Mr. John Clark.

Putnam originals' modeled by FHA

'The Wonderful World of Music', the chorus Spring Program, featured music from modern to classical. Crowning of the Chorus Sweethearts contributed to activities of the evening.

Uncovering the '69 Treasure Chest terminated the Yearbook Assembly. Staffers presented skits satirizing each facet of the staff. Coronation of the Queen and receipt of the Golden Eagle Award for the '68 Treasure Chest highlighted the assembly.

Modeling the newest looks in fashion, the Future Homemakers of America made and modeled their own creations. Senior boys, adding a special attraction, modeled clothes from Mr. Buck, Inc. FHA Beau and his attendants were named at the conclusion of the style show.

Achievements in both activities and academics were acknowledged in the two-day Awards Assembly. Recognition was attributed to those PC students who had obtained scholarships or excelled in athletics or scholastics.

MOCKING the delicacies produced in the Putnam cafeteria, was Patty Kohs, who appeared to be making turtle soup in the Senior Assembly.

PERFORMING at the 'Wonderful World of Music,' the Chorus Spring Program, were Gerald Pollard and Don Sherry who played a guitar duet.

SLIGHTLY resembling a bride's maid, Patricia Murphy proceeded down the aisle at the FHA show in the dress which she designed and made.

All-Sports trophy regained from NW

SETTING up his display to be judged at the Science Fair, Gregory Sheriff flipped the switches on his electronic contraption called an auditron.

Trophies from OSU and Central State College scholastic meets were presented to the student body during the annual two-day Awards Assembly. Putnam has won the Central State meet for 17 consecutive years.

Recognition for 40 years of dedicated work to Putnam City schools was given to Mrs. Myrtle Mullinax and Miss. Letha Campbell. Both teachers retired this year.

Four years of excellence in science gained the Bausch-Laumb Award for Sharon Bivins, also an accompanying scholarship. Receiving the Yale award, which is presented to a promising junior boy, was Jim Blalock. College scholarships were numerous and included two boys who will attend the U.S. Air Force Academy and one junior who, having accumulated the required credits for graduation, will be going to West Point.

Student Council award to the outstanding member and non-member went to Debbie Durall and Tom Andrews, respectively.

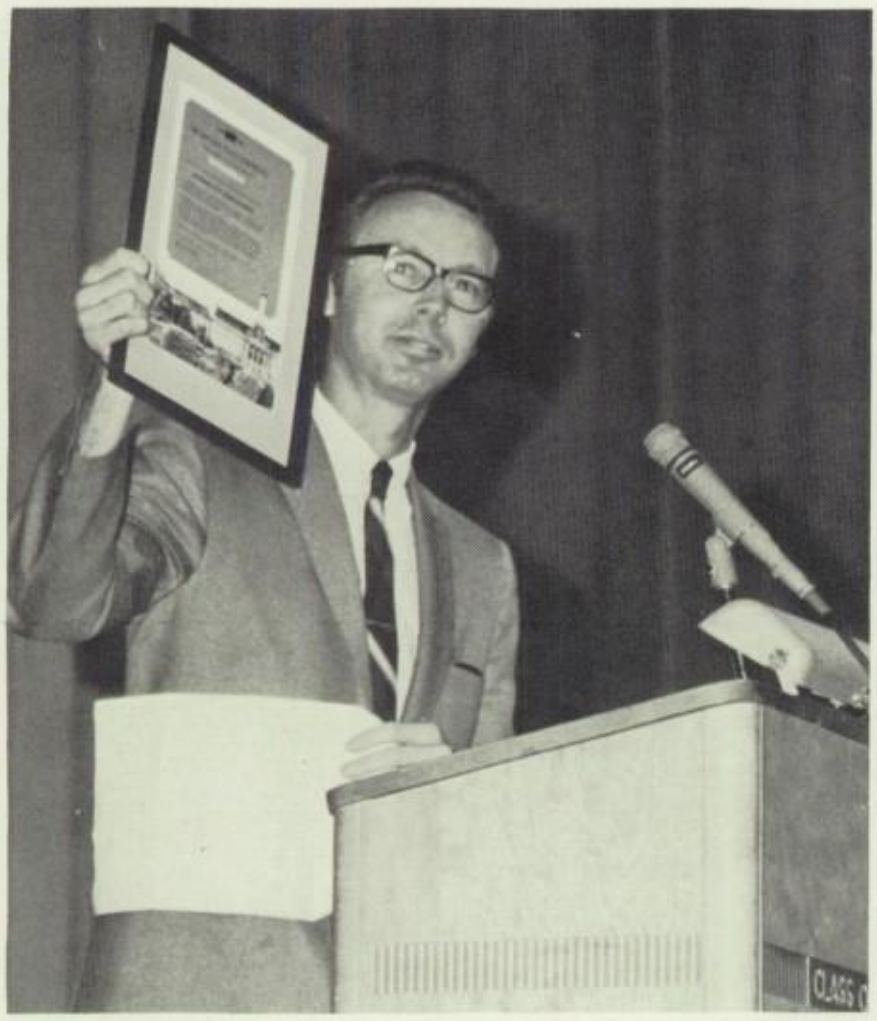
Steve Morton and Becky Schumacher were named Best All-Around seniors. The American Legion Citizenship Award went to Penny Johnson and Steve Pherigo. Outstanding PC seniors were Sue Wadkins and Mark Gregory.

In recognition for his contribution to the sports department, Roger Woolery was named the Outstanding Athlete. For the first time in several years, PC won the All-Sports Trophy, which represented fine participation in all fields of sports.

OSU representative, Sue Haggard, PC alum, presented Mr. Ralph Downs with a plaque congratulating the administration on teaching youth.

PROUDLY presenting the All-Sports trophy to the administration and students, Mr. Jerry Potter, football coach and the coaching staff lauded the sports boys for receiving this treasured award. The trophy was regained from Northwest Classen.

ACCEPTING the plaque from Oklahoma State University commending the administration on their work with youth was Mr. C. Ralph Downs.



FIRST runner-up in Miss Warr Acres and one of the ten semi-finalists in the Miss OKC contest, Janiece McGlothtan sang in the talent competition.

Baseball

Mid-State captured; Second in State race

Led by All-Staters Elvin Ervin, Jim Blalock and John Linder and Coach-of-the-Year Larry Guerkink, the PC Baseballers took Mid-State for the first time in several years.

Coach Guerkink was named Coach-of-the-Year by the Daily Oklahoman and Ervin was named Player-of-the-Year by the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma Journal. Ervin was also the only 12-game winner in the Mid-State Conference and was named the most valuable player in four different tournaments.

After being tied for sixth place in the Conference with a 4-4 record, the Pirates won nine games in a row to capture the title. After winning the final season game 9-4 over Southeast, a game that saw six home runs, the Pirates were awarded the Mid-State Trophy and the All-Sports Trophy.

Pirates then placed second in the State Tournament. Greg Ward pitched PC into the semi-finals with a 2-1 victory over Northwest. Then Ervin pitched a one-hitter against No. 1 ranked Tulsa McClain for a 2-0 victory, that put us into the finals which we lost to Bartlesville.

Track

Tracksters conquer fourth in Mid-State

Chalking up a record of five wins and no losses in duel meets, Putnam City's track team fought against a tough Mid-State Conference field to pull out a fourth place finish for the season. Led by coaches Kenneth Keel and Gene Firth, the Trackmen won all meets at home as well as several on the road. At the State meet at the OKC Fairgrounds with over 20 schools participating, Roger Woolery pulled out PC's only points, taking first in the mile and second in the half-mile. Roger was also responsible for more than half of Putnam's points in the Mid-State meet.

Tennis

Netmen's efforts aid conquest of Trophy

Although undermanned and "not as experienced as most of the other schools", the Putnam City Tennis team did pull out a fourth place position in the Mid-State Conference race and put the finishing touches on PC's rating for the All-Sports Trophy.

After winning their first two matches against John Marshall and El Reno, the Pirates lost five before three straight victories and Mid-State matches. After ranking fourth at Mid-State, the players finished 12th in State.

Golf

Golfers nab OKC team championship

PREPARING to conclude a fine round PC Golfer Wes Dryden lines up his putt on the 18th green in the Pirates 9-1/2-3-1/2 win over Shawnee.

Swinging third place in the State Conference meet, the Golf team compiled an excellent season record of 22-4-1 in matchplay. Receiving high recognition for their team efforts, the team was awarded the Greater Oklahoma City High Schools' Champion Trophy.

Tim Hanshew pulled in a record of four straight seventy-ones to receive Medalist honors at Lincoln Park. In tournament play, the PC golfers started off the season taking first at the El Reno Tournament. Previously, the Pirates had headed down to Texas for four state meets in which they took fourth over sixty-six schools.

Putnam City golfers then went to the Mid-State Conference meet capturing third place against tough competition. The Golf team soon pulled out a second place at the Lawton Regionals in an outstanding showing of team effort. The State Conference meet followed and only John Marshall and Northwest were able to surpass the Pirates. The Golfers were also coined Metropolitan Champions.

Athletic Honors

All-Stater nominated All-Around Athlete

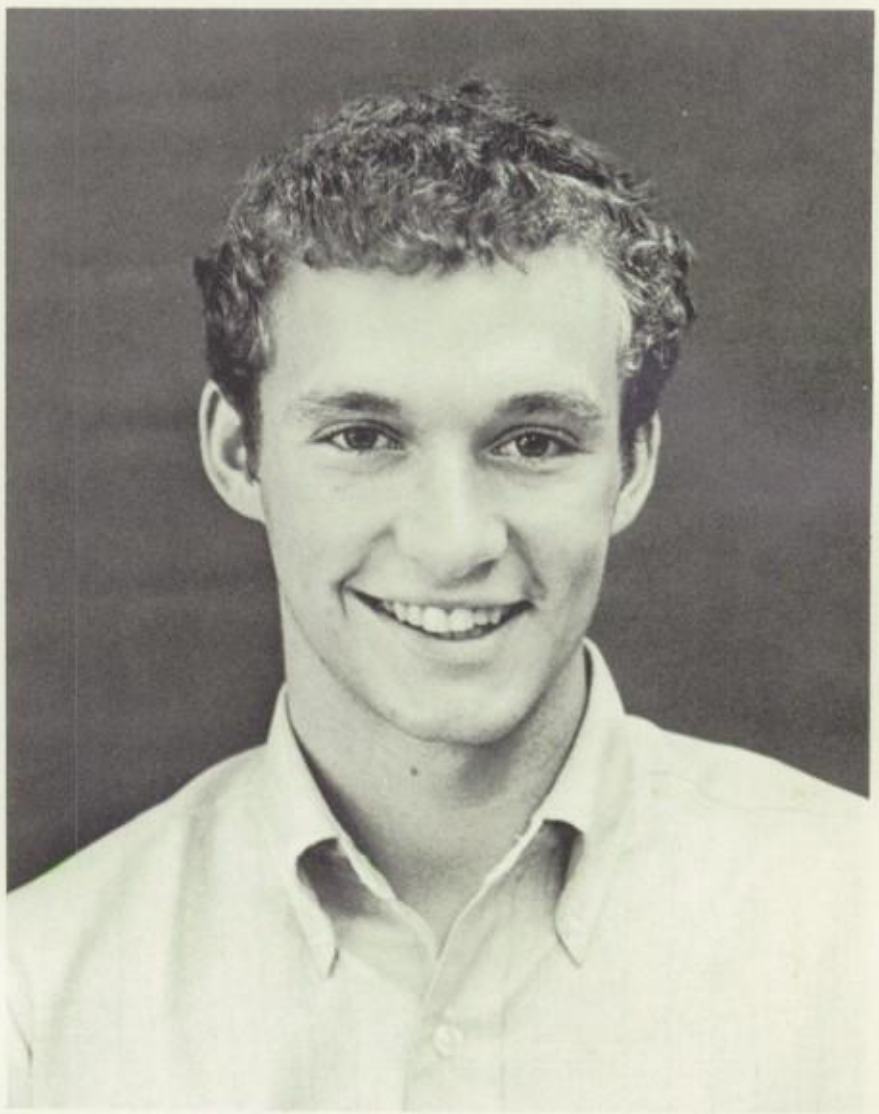
With the presentation of the All-Sports Trophy by Athletic Director, Jerry Potter, to the student body, the Athletics Awards in the assembly culminated with a standing ovation for all the Athletes in the various fields of competition.

Cross-Country and Track All-Stater, Roger Woolery, was voted All-Around Athlete of the Year by the coaches. Woolery accumlated all the Putnam City points in the State Track meet and over half the points in the Cross Country meet. Woolery was also presented the Track Award.

All State, All-City and All-Conference Star, Elvin Ervin, received the Baseball Award for his performance on the pitcher's mound. Ervin was the only 12-game winner in the Mid-State Conference.

Six-foot-six Mike Polansky nabbed the Basketball Award while Tom Duncan took Golf honors. Football's best was John Pinion and Tennis award went to Ron Britton.

Randy Heierding walked off with the Cross-Country award as Richard Hermes was awarded the outstanding Swimming medal. Wrestling honors went to Dale Travis.



CROSS-Country and Track All-Stater, Roger Woolery, was named All-Around Athlete of the Year for his contributions to sportsmanship.

SPRING CLASSES

Knowing is not enough;
we must apply.
Willing is not enough;
we must do.

—Goethe

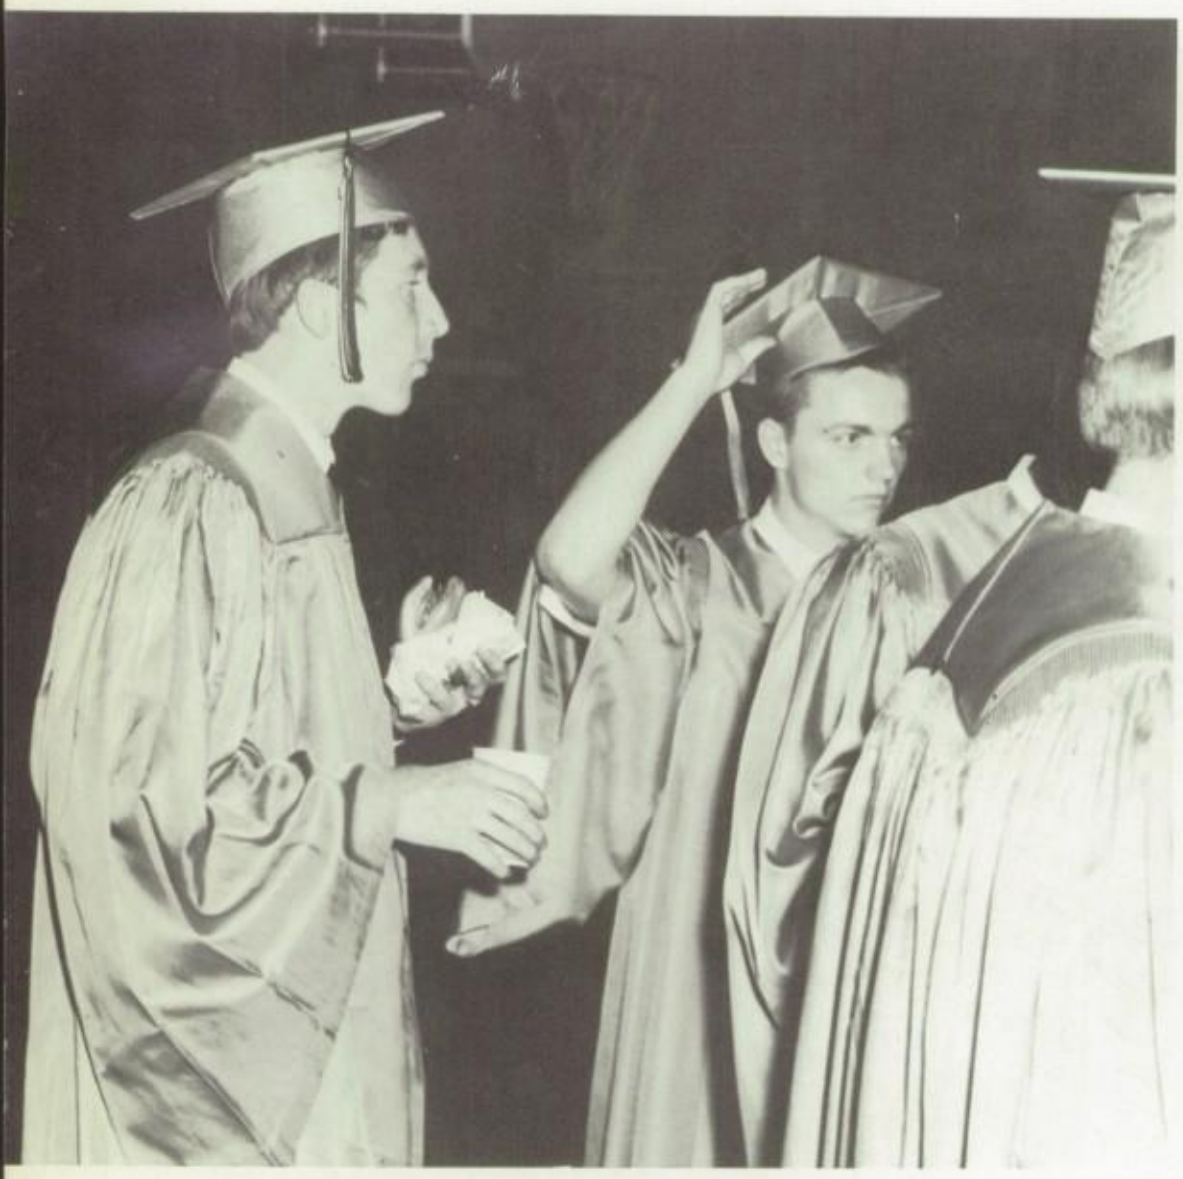
Challenge accepted, hopes await fulfillment

Gowns and tassels swaying, the graduating class of '68-'69 walked down the auditorium aisle for Baccaulaureate services. Musical intervals were provided by the Band and Mixed Chorus and the message by Pastor Fred Schumacher.

Under paper-rose arches held by junior girls and to the tune of the PCHS Band playing 'Pomp and Circumstance', the graduates filed onto the football field to receive their long-awaited diplomas. After their diplomas were presented and finality was assured, all the graduates symbolically switched their tassels from left to right.

FINAL moments of remembering the events of their year as seniors were shared by Jayne Pipher and Bill Becquart before graduation.

PAUSING before filing in for Baccalaureate, Daria Phillips adjusted Barbara Schricker's gown while Rick Smith and Larry Latham watched.



REMAINING undisturbed as his fellow classmate, Randy Knight, rushed to get in line for graduation, Steve Nash calmly finished his hamburger and coke.

'I don't know; I never got this far!' informed 'bee', Mike Masterson, to 'bird', Lilly Young, in a skit performed during Senior Assembly.

TOP of the Mall, which the seniors have aptly renamed the '69er-diner', set the atmosphere for the annual Senior Banquet.

RIDING their 'mini'-cars through an imaginary mass of muck, members of the senior class plant rice they felt surely would flourish in such a climate that unsuspecting drivers find on the practice field parking lot. Members of the Twelve-year Club wrote and produced the assembly.

Senior Activities

Administration razzed in slapstick skits

SINGLE rose of congratulations was given to Steve Morton by Penny Johnson following coronation of the couple as Mr. and Miss Pirateer.

'Up, up with Seniors', illustrated the grad's attitude toward PCHS as the '69 upperclassmen presented the Senior Assembly. Satirical skits gave seniors the opportunity to express three-year gripes and grievances. Featured in the skits were the PC Academy Awards, presented in various aspects of day-to-day student life.

Graduation was preceded by many events; renting of caps and gowns, hours of ceremony practice and the last gathering of the '69 class, the Senior Banquet. 'Our Day is Come', expressed mixed emotions on leaving Putnam.

In order to inspire the leaders of tommorrow's American a local minister spoke to the upperclassmen at Baccalaureate ceremonies about life's many purposes and future. This ceremony was traditionally held at the Putnam City auditorium the Sunday afternoon preceding commencement.

VALEDICTORIANS of Putnam City's 1969-70 graduating class were Sharon Bivins, Ann Hoch, Mike Reed, Ann Miley, Dorothy Crooks, Louis Daugherity, Kari Ward and Ann Chafer. Because of their outstanding scholastic work they excelled through highschool.

Valedictorians

White robes lead graduation ceremony

Leading the largest graduating class in the history of PC through the rose-covered arches and having the privilege of wearing white robes and Honor Society cords were the greatest honors of being co-valedictorians. However, the superior awards for their hard work and many hours of study were the scholarship opportunities and years of successful careers which lie ahead.

Guiding the class scholastically were Sharon Bivins, Ann Chafer, Dorothy Crooks, Louis Daugherity, Ann Hoch, Ann Miley, Mike Reed and Kari Ward.

Active in mathematics and science, Sharon Bivins was a member of Biology, Math and Mu Alpha Theta Clubs. Honor Society secretary, Sharon was treasurer of Medical Club and active in German, AFS and English Clubs. A Phillip's and OSU Honor Student and OU scholar, she also represented PC at Girls State last summer. Sharon was awarded the Bausch-Laumb award for four years of work in science.

National Merit Scholarship Finalist, Ann Chafer was a member of English, NFL, World Affairs, AFS, Debate and Spanish Clubs. Anne was an OSU Honor Student and elected one of the Daughters of the American Revolution. An Honor Society member, an Oil Executive for a Day and member of Mu Alpha Theta, Math and Creative Writing Clubs, she was named one of the top 14 high school students out of 50,000 in the National United Nations Contest.

Dorothy Crooks involved herself in Mu Alpha Theta, Math and Psychology Clubs. She was an OSU Honor Student and an Oil Executive for a Day.

A Member of Honor Society, Louis Daugherity served as vice-president of Math Club and president of Hi-Notes and was a member of Mu Alpha Theta and Band. A Boys State Delegate, Louis was also an OSU Honor Student and an Oil Executive for a Day. He also received the Oklahoma Engineering Club Scholarship for efforts in math and science.

Ann Hoch served as treasurer of the English Club and vice-president and secretary of AFS her junior and senior years. Ann belonged to Math, Mu Alpha Theta, Spanish and Pep Clubs. She was an OSU and Phillip's Honor Student and was treasurer of Honor Society and chaplain of Medical Club.

Completing her high school requirements in three years Ann Miley entered OSU last fall. However, she was graduated with her class and did have straight A's while in high school. While at Putnam, Ann was secretary of Spanish Club, an office aid and a member of the Pep Club.

Chosen for the All-State Band, Mike Reed has received much scholastic recognition. He was an OSU and Phillip's Honor Student and an OU Scholar. He was a member of Chess, Spanish, Math, Mu Alpha Theta, Hi-Notes and Honor Society.

National Merit Scholarship Finalist, Kari Ward was named an OSU Honor Student, an OU scholar and an Oil Executive for a Day. Kari took part in an extensive number of clubs including AFS, Creative Writing, English, Psychology, Library and World Affairs. An Honor Society member, she has also belonged to the French, Spanish and Latin Clubs.

ATTIRED in their white caps, gowns and tassels were Putnam City's 1969 Valedictorians, Dorothy Crooks, Kari Ward, Ann Miley, Lewis Daugherity, Mike Reed, Ann Hoch, Sharon Bivins and Anne Chafer. Anne Chafer and Lewis Daugherity were selected to present the Valedictorians' speeches.

Juniors and Sophomores

Classes swing out with picnic and prom

Couples rocked-out to the sound of the 'Uniques' as the '69 junior class presented the PC Junior-Senior Prom, 'Uniquely Yours'. Officers collected the class dues that supported the dance. This event gave the juniors a chance to present graduating seniors with a special remembrance of PC.

Middlemen participated in 89ers Day activities by setting up a small-scale gambling house, at which students bet on white mice with pieces of bubble gum. Adding, to the authenticity of 'Grimy Gulch', sophomores built their own 'general store' which deliciously resembled a bake sale.

Underclassmen gathered to celebrate their last days as being the lowly sophomores at their annual picnic. Sophomores attended that party at McLaughlin Canyon where they swam and ate lunch. A band provided music at dusk.

UNDERCLASSMEN rocked-out to a local city group that played at their annual picnic after they enjoyed various games and a sack-lunch dinner

CONTRIBUTING color to the graduation ceremony, junior girls made and carried the rose-covered arches through which the graduates marched.

New students, faculty adjust to PC life

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:

A time to get, a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away.

—Ecclesiastes 3:1,6

Expiration of time resulted in the death of a Putnam Sophomore, Mike Clark. Mike died on May 7, 1969 after a lengthy struggle to survive a terminal blood disease.

Our apology is extended to senior Jim Robertson, who due to a misunderstanding, was excluded from the yearbook.

By the end of the year new students and faculty had become full-fledged Pirates. As they first entered Putnam they were a little lost, but as the year proceeded, they became a part of the swing of things and felt right at home.

Mike Clark

NEW STUDENTS were: Alta Sanders, LeAnn Martin, Patti Ford and Rick Spence.

NEW PC teachers since second semester were Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Gatchell, Mrs. Lindesmith and Mrs. Low.

Jim,

If I could in this one lesson in this class change one lesson that I've learned that would be you. You are a wonderful guy & have enjoyed knowing you. You are unique in history & have contributed something unusual to Eng 1 in some sweet wonderful 3 years. Have years a go in the last 3 years pleasant memories for the kid for the way that keep that way & I see in Eng 1 kid. But keep that way & I see you grow up. Keep smiling, Jim & always Keep "Mary Poppins" Love & Luck

Jeanne

(Cook)

Jim,
It's been great having you in SA now! Well, except for the bruises! 😊 Too bad Randi and old Rendua couldn't stay around. Well boy be good and keep your poking fingers in practice this summer!
adios
Jan

Jim,

I'm a very nice boy who's in my 5th Spanish class. Even though you didn't learn anything this year in Spanish. We all still had a lot of fun. I'm still mad & impressed your paper (rough). Even though you took the workers me a lot. We all still had fun. We'll see ya next year. If not we'll see you in life. However long that is.

(Jr. 71)

Love,
Sam
Sam Stanek

Jim,

Well, we really had a great time in English! Even though your "bothered" me all year constantly I didn't really mind! Good luck always! "Sr. 70"

Love, Karen Davis

Jim,

you drove me crazy when you sat behind me so I hope we don't have any classes next year, No I'm just kidding. You're a cool guy and it's been a lot of fun. Be good this summer and take care of yourself. God Bless you.

Love Ya,
Katie

Jim, you have a very nice name did you know that? Really I think you're a great guy and you scratch backs good. Keep working hard & don't get discouraged. I'll see you next year. Be good & I'll see you next year. God Bless Debbie Spencer
SR. '70" 4th yr. sing/stl

Jim,
We had a lot of fun this year. Too bad we didn't have any classes together this year, but I guess I was in all of the accelerated classes. We've put up with a lot of bull this year from J.P. & Hairy Pelworth, but I guess it was worth it. We should have a super line next year in football, especially on the right side.

Good Luck
Randy Smith

P.S. PUT THE PRESS Next YEAR

Jim
Can You Believe we've actually made it through that unforgettable 2nd year? I think You're a real cool guy. Always be yourself. Personality and don't Work too Hard!
Love ya
Kim Smith

June,

I'm glad we had three class to- gether. I guess I've known you for a long time but I just got to know you this year! I've enjoyed all your teasing even though I didn't always show it. Keep active in sports. Good luck and may the Lord guide your life always.

Love,
Brenda

Ramon-

It was pretty fun watching you and Becky and Pam battle it out this really year. - The Battle of the Hands - I call it. Keep hangin in there and you'll get somewhere. You and Lisa have a happy life ahead of you and I wish you great success. See you next year maybe shoot some snooker this summer.

Bob Rosa - Sr. 70

Jim,

You're a real sweet boy, even if you are a little snotty at times. I hope you make it on the football team next year if you go out for it. For some reason you just seem like the football type to me. Maybe we'll have some classes together next year & if it's study hall I'll just die. I think I'd sit clear at the other end of the table. Ha. Be good this summer & I'll watch for you on the football team next year. Quarterback maybe. Good luck in "70"

Luv Ya,

Jim,

It's been lots of fun knowing you and it's really been fun battling with you. I'm glad we've been friends and good friends. Have a blast this summer and be good and see you next year. Blue Devil veteran, you go.

May God Bless.

Love,
